KILLER'S FATHER TELLS STORY

U. S. IS INVOLVED IN REAL ESTATE FOR 13 BILLIONS

Big Portion Will Be Lost Eventually.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—Under the twin shibboleths of recovery and security the federal government has been pushed into the real estate business in the last five years to the tune of more than 13 billion dollars, in expenditures, authority to spend, and potential liabilities.

These activities, carried on by forty or fifty bureaus, agencies, and departments of the government, collectively constitute a greater power over the homes of its citizens, and the stability of their investments therein, than any government of democratic form has held before. Every agency necessary for socialization of real estate, the greatest single national asset, already is established. Such a step would require little extension of powers, only greater use of those already granted.

Recession Is Depression.

With increasing evidence that recession is a synonym for depression there are indications in Washington that these government real estate activities are to increase. The season for drawing rabbits out of hats is approaching, and the biggest and whitest of rabbits may well be a huge extension of the government housing fantasy.

A comparatively mild beginning was indicated in President Roosevelt's pump priming recommendations, in the form of an additional 300 million dollars for the United States Housing authority to lend. Just how it is to find the borrowers was not made plain. USHA, out of its original half billion dollars, was authorized to lend 100 millions by July 1, but its authorized loans to date total only $16,836,000.

A current rumor in Washington is that Harry Hopkins' relief staf has ready for production at the proper moment a much more ambitious scheme for building cheap homes with WPA labor. It is only rumor, officially denied at present, but it persists. Regardless of its truth as to detail, Hopkins' well known talents for tossing out money in a hurry make him a logical leader of large scale pump priming in the housing field.

View Into Future.

Under these circumstances, a review of what has been done may give some indication of things to come. It must be remembered that the idea of a housing boom as a road out of depression goes back beyond the Roosevelt era. President Hoover hoped in 1931 that it would prove his ace in the hole. It turned out a deuce in his case, and furtive peeks during the ensuing seven years give evidence that it still is a deuce.

In the forefront of the government real estate program, because it has had the most ballyhoo, is the actual building of dwellings, presumably dwellings for the underprivileged. In this field lie the absurdities of Rexford Tugwell's resettlement administration, the colossal extravagance of Secretary Harold Ickes' public works housing program, and latest of all, the vast subsidy program of the Wagner-Steagall act.

These programs have been carried on, and still are being carried on, to the tune set by one of the greatest propaganda machines the present administration has set up, a machine manned by members of the housing cult and financed by millions in public funds.

Theme Song Irrelevant.

Its theme song is a now famous saying—one-third of a nation ill housed. Whether a third of this nation is ill housed—and it can be established that it probably is not—the theme song is irrelevant.

There is no excuse for talking about the deplorable condition of the poor unless something is done to relieve it. It is useless to shed rhetorical tears over their condition and then build housing so expensive that only the middle income classes can occupy it, and that is the record of public housing to date. The slum dwellers of America merely have been the front for outrageous pillage of the treasury.

Where the real slum dwellers have ended up was well indicated by Horatio B. Hackett, director of the PWA

CONGRESS GIVEN G. O. P. PROGRAM TO FIGHT SLUMP

Set Business Free, Taber Urges.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—Congress today was given the Republican program for fighting the depression.

Representative Taber.

Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.], ranking minority member of the house appropriations committee, acted as spokesman for his party. In answer to assertions of Democrats that critics of the administration's huge spending program never have offered a definite substitute, he submitted a six point plan.

Taber warned the house that the federal deficit for the next fiscal year alone will be approximately eight billion dollars. Pump priming has failed before, he asserted, and the prospective expenditure of another five billions, as suggested by President Roosevelt, will provide only a temporary halt to the nation's downward slide.

Recovery Program Outlined.

The Republican recovery program outlined by Taber proposes:

1. Amendment of the national labor relations act along lines that will promote harmony instead of discord between employé groups and employers. Inasmuch as that cannot be done without a two-thirds vote of both houses of congress—because the President would veto the bill—Taber suggested the adoption of a concurrent resolution wiping out all appropriations for the labor board after July 1, 1938. Legislation providing for a fair labor board later could be provided.

2. Passage of the tax bill now in disagreement between the house and senate, with the provisions of the senate relating to the capital gains tax and the undistributed profits tax inserted, and with a fair rate of taxation upon corporation earnings so that people going into business and creating employment will have security.

3. Repeal of the greenback act. This act authorizes the President to issue three billions in paper currency. The treasury's recent purchase of 1,300 tons of paper indicates that this act is about to be put into force, Taber said.

Export Aid Urged.

4. Recovery of the export market for agricultural products by giving opportunity for the export of cotton, wheat, pork, and beef along constructive lines for the purpose of getting rid of the surplus instead of trying to curtail production.

5. Return of the relief problem to local communities with a required contribution of at least 25 per cent on the part of localities under provisions permitting them to outline what they want to do and how they want to do it to meet their own problems. Abolition of the Works Progress administration, Public Works administration, housing authority, Farm Security administration, and all other costly schemes.

6. Appropriation of only what is

Bugs Moran, 8 Aids Seized in $200,000 Plot

George [Bugs] Moran, one of the gangland kingpins of the Volstead era, four other men and a woman were arrested by the state's attorney's office last night in connection with a suspected plot to pass between $200,000 and $400,000 in forged American Express company checks in principal cities in the country. Three other men were seized in Pittsburgh.

Held with Moran was Frankie Parker, another living echo of the exciting prohibition days. Parker, who began his career as an automobile thief, rose to the heights in the middle '20s when he became known as the millionaire airplane bootlegger. Police said this morning he's almost back to where he started financially.

Recover Forged Checks.

The other prisoners are Walter Nolan and a Marie Ribble Nolan, who said she's his wife: Loren Gant, 31 years old; and another man. Capt. Dan Gilbert, chief of the state's attorney's investigators, refused to give out the fifth man's name. With Lieut. Tom Kelly he let it be known that thus far they have recovered some $5,000 in forged checks from "two or three of the five men being held." The officials wouldn't identify the men.

The gigantic check scheme was broken up in Pittsburgh last night with the arrest there of Frank Quigley, 54 years old; Daniel Kelly, 39, and Robert Sexton, 32, who said they were Chicagoans. On them police found $21,800 worth of the bogus checks, described as almost perfect imitations. The Pittsburgh arrests were a bit premature and so hurried the hands of Chicago police.

Parker was nabbed first. He was found at 30 North La Salle street inside a private office marked "Public Stenographer." Then the Nolans were found in a north side hotel. Nolan, 65, is an ex-convict from Ohio, where he served a term for check passing. After the Nolan arrests police grabbed Moran. They said they found him in the 3700 block of Lake Shore drive.

Moran Dapper in Green.

Fresh looking and impeccably attired in green, Moran was taken to the state's attorney's office at 2 o'clock this morning. He greeted Parker with a "Well, I see they've got you, too." Parker smiled wryly. Later he relieved his feelings by hurling a milk bottle at a photographer. He missed. Both he and Moran were quizzed until 3 a. m. by Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright.

Capt. Gilbert and other officials declined to discuss the investigation in detail except to say "many more men are being sought." The plot, it was said, originated in Chicago.

EX-KAISER WILHELM'S BILLS PAID BY HITLER, U. S. AUTHOR DECLARES

New York, April 21.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler is paying the bills of former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, Poultney Bigelow, the author, said today, and an accountant goes to Doorn, the Netherlands, to check them virtually down to the penny.

"All the kaiser owns in Germany is sand waste and forest land," said Bigelow, who is 83 years old, on his return from his annual visit to the former German emperor and his boyhood friend. "He has to be subsidized by Hitler for his household expenses, and an accountant goes down to Doorn to check all his bills."

Bigelow said the former kaiser "does not set half as good a table as most of my neighbors at Malden-on-Hudson. Usually he merely has soup, a joint, and a pudding at dinner."

GAELIC CHAMPION ASKED TO BECOME IRISH PRESIDENT

DUBLIN, April 21.—(AP)—Dr. Douglas Hyde, distinguished writer and a champion of Gaelic, can become the first president of the new Ireland if he wishes, perhaps without an election.

Delegates of the two major parties, Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail and William T. Cosgrave's Fine Gael, conferred today for the first time since 1922 and agreed to invite Hyde to accept the presidential nomination.

An election is scheduled to be held May 31, but if there is only one nominee he will be appointed. It was believed that Hyde would accept the nomination and that Alfred ["Alfie"] Byrne, Dublin's lord mayor, may be willing to withdraw from his plan to run as an independent candidate.

Hyde is 70 years old. He was president of the Gaelic league from its foundation in 1893 until 1915.

PRESIDENT MAY TRY FISHING IN CARIBBEAN AGAIN

Washington, D. C., April 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, it was learned today, is considering a short fishing trip in the Caribbean sea starting about May 1 from Charleston, S. C. It was indicated, however, the President would make the trip only if the congressional situation permitted.

If he goes, it was said, the President probably will board one of the navy's new 10,000 ton cruisers at Charleston and cruise in the vicinity of the Leeward Islands, where he fished on returning from the Buenos Aires peace conference in December, 1936.

Father Beats Babies; Whip Urged for Him

A parent who asserted in open court the belief he had the right to whip his tiny children with a strap to enforce obedience was warned yesterday that the penalty for such ideas may be legal loss of the children—and ought also to include a whipping for himself.

The parent is Paul Munro, 31 years old, husky young farmer of Hartland township, McHenry county. He was supported in his "right to whip" opinion by his wife, Marjorie, 20. They live five miles northwest of Woodstock.

State Demands a Guardian.

They appeared yesterday before Judge Henry L. Cowlin in the County court at Woodstock on an information filed by State's Attorney William M. Carroll, charging that Paulie, 3 years old, and Berda, 2, children of the Munros, were abused, and that a guardian for them should be appointed.

Specifically it was charged that Munro brutally whipped the youngsters with a heavy strap last Friday because they had disobeyed his instructions to stay home and watch their little brother, Archie, 7 months old, while Munro and his wife were away.

Mrs. M. D. Brooks, probation officer, testified that she examined the children and found deep welts and broken skin on their backs. The injuries had not been washed and infection might easily have resulted, she said.

Neighbor Girl Sees Act.

A neighbor girl about 9 years old told of seeing the whipping. Paulie and Berda, she said, pleaded for mercy.

"I'll punish my children as I see fit," said Munro. "A man should do that. It is his duty to correct them, and if talk and easy punishment won't make them mind, what is a father going to do?"

Mrs. Munro nodded in agreement, declaring the children were not treated brutally, and, besides, they were old enough at 2 years of age to know right from wrong.

"It is too bad there isn't a law which would permit me to impose on you the same punishment you have given your babies," declared Judge Cowlin to Munro. "I wish it were consistent with the court's dignity to give you a taste of it myself."

Judge Cowlin warned that another whipping of the children would result in loss of their custody. Meantime, he appointed a township guardian for the youngsters who will remain with their parents.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Quietly, but with intense earnestness, the father of young Theodore Danielsen Jr. testified yesterday at the boy's trial for the murder of his mother that he believed his wife started the scuffle that ended in her death. He suggested that, in an outburst of temper, she had seized the knife that his son plunged twice into her neck.

Theodore Danielsen Sr.

The elder Danielsen, a mild, almost colorless little man who is a salesman, gave his testimony in a calm conversational tone under the questioning of Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court.

Young Danielsen has confessed killing his mother, Eleanor, in the kitchen of their home at 5316 Lieb avenue on March 3. Judge Harrington and the attorneys for the prosecution and defense have been striving without rancor to reach a just decision on what should be done with the boy.

More than Confession.

"There is a lot more to this than what is in the confession," said Danielsen. [The confession stated that the boy seized the knife from a table.] "I don't believe it tells what really happened. There's only one who really knows—that is God Almighty."

Theodore, who is 16 years old, wept as his father made his determined effort to save him.

The elder Danielsen was the thirteenth witness for the defense and the last heard yesterday. Today the accused youth will take the stand to tell his own story of the tragedy. It will be followed by the introduction of the diary that the slain mother had kept since his birth. The hope of the defense lawyers is that Judge Harrington, who is hearing the case without a jury, will be moved to leniency on the plea that the young killer obeyed an irresistible impulse.

Father Takes Stand.

When the father of Theodore took the stand he was first questioned by the attorneys. Then the judge took up the task, leaning across his desk and talking in an easy conversational manner. Danielsen answered in the same way.

"There is grave doubt in my mind," Danielsen said, "that my son took the knife off the table. My wife was very strong and quick; she might have seized it.

"I think it happened in a scuffle. In the physical condition my son was in—and I know him—he probably was so terrified he did not know what he was doing." Then he added in a low voice:

"He couldn't have done it any other way."

FULL APPROVAL GIVEN ALL HIGH SCHOOLS IN CITY

Mayor Pledges Own Quiz of Charges.

Two unrelated events yesterday afternoon made the day one of the most important in the history of Chicago's public school system.

1. The city's thirty-six day high schools and six evening high schools were enthusiastically approved by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The report has the effect of fully accrediting Chicago's public high schools to the institutions of higher learning, including most of the major colleges of the central west, which are allied with the association.

2. Mayor Kelly announced that with the aid of a committee he will conduct a personal investigation of the school system to determine whether there is any basis for charges of dissension and ill feeling. The mayor emphasized that his study will be constructive; that if there is anything wrong he will say so; that if there isn't no one will be punished.

Based on Inspections.

The North Central association's report on the city's high schools was signed by A. W. Clevenger, secretary, and was based upon inspections made during the 1937-'38 term by members of the association's Illinois state committee.

In addition to praise of ten specific advances made by the school system since the last report was issued in 1937, the association's findings included seven criticisms and made several suggestions for improvement. Heading the ten examples of progress was school housing.

"Noticeable improvements in the housing of pupils," the report reads, "include continued elimination of portable schools, repair of portables still in use, remodeling of buildings and construction of additions, redecoration, improvement of lighting, attention to needed repairs, elimination of branch schools which in many cases were occupying buildings unsuited for high schools, and reduction of the number of elementary school classes housed in high school buildings."

Cites Nine Forms of Improvement.

The report then continues with the other nine forms of progress and improvement noted:

"Progress has been made in providing needed instructional equipment, especially in those schools where need of such equipment was called to the attention of the local school authorities at the time of the last visit.

"The textbook situation has improved. It was observed that in practically all the classes the pupils were supplied with books. This is in contrast to observations made during former visits. . . .

"There has been a thorough study of textbooks and an inventory has been made. A plan for buying textbooks has been adopted and put into use. . . . Through this plan a considerable amount of money is saved. . . .

"One of the greatest improvements that has been made in the Chicago high schools is that which pertains to libraries and library service. Until recently the libraries and service had been criticized by those engaged in making the visitations.

More Help for Principals.

"The administration, as it relates to the organization and operation of individual high schools, has improved. Principals now have more help than formerly in carrying out the work of administration. There seems to be a tendency for principals to take a more active part in administration and to voice their opinions more freely on matters pertaining to administration, organization, and supervision.

"Noticeable progress has been made in effecting a modern records system. More effective use is now being made of pupil records than formerly. In general, it was observed that the records are now kept in such form as to be conveniently used and easily preserved.

"It was the opinion of those engaged in the visitation that the esprit de corps of the teachers and principals has improved since the last visit. Factors contributing to this improvement are [a] prompt payment of salaries, [b] a general reduction in classes taught daily from six classes to five, and [c] the formation of the Chicago Teachers' union, which is said to have resulted in lessening of the feeling of fear and anxiety . . . , relative to the permanency of positions."

Guidance Progress Praised.

"Noticeable progress has been made toward putting into effect an effective guidance program. This plan involves the coöperation of a large number of teachers in addition to those who are specialists in the guidance and counseling of high school pupils.

"Progress has been made in reducing the teaching load. There is a possibility, however, that this reduction will be offset in the cases of many teachers by the fact that they have been assigned to counseling service, special work on records, and the direction of special activities.

"There has been noticeably increased interest in the improvement of instruction, in the supervision of instruction, and in planning courses suited to the needs and interests of all pupils."

Gratification was expressed upon receipt of the report yesterday by James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, and by Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools.

Johnson Hails Report.

"This is the first time in the history of the association," said Dr. Johnson, "that all high schools in the system have been fully accredited and none placed on probation. The system is always open to criticism, of course, but the items criticized here are being studied with a view to improvement."

"It is the finest report ever received on the Chicago public school system," said Mr. McCahey.

Mr. McCahey and Dr. Johnson then took up the seven specific criticisms included in the association's report.

"The present plan for the selection, appointment, and promotion of teachers and principals," reads the first criticism in the report, "seems to be resulting in a great deal of dissatisfaction and apparently is the basis for criticisms of the type which are not to the best interests of the Chicago schools." [Dr. Johnson's answer to this was that the method of selecting, appointing, and promoting teachers and principals has not been changed in recent years. Never before has it been criticized.]

Criticize Charges as Hasty.

In its second criticism the report asserts there is widespread feeling among the teachers that plans are sometimes put into city-wide operation before being tried out in a limited way. [Dr. Johnson pointed out that in the first part of the report the association praised the plans which he had put into operation.]

The third criticism objected to the policy of permitting first year high school pupils to carry less than the normal study load. [Dr. Johnson said a survey to correct this is already in progress.]

The present plan of selecting textbooks is described in the fourth criticism as not flexible enough to make possible the purchase of books best suited to needs of pupils in different groups. [Mr. McCahey said: "We want the pupils in the poor districts to have the same quality and type of books as those in the wealthy districts."]

Object to Clerical Load.

In its fifth criticism, the report points out that although the teaching schedule has been reduced from six to five classes a day teachers still carry the same load of work because of duties in keeping records and as counselors. ["In the first part of the report the Association praised us for our complete records," was Dr. Johnson's reply.]

The sixth criticism reads: "There appears to be too much of a tendency. . . toward standardization." [Dr. Johnson remarked that certain standardization is needed in a large system.]

Evening high schools follow too closely the program and courses of the day schools, according to the seventh criticism, which said that many evening school pupils are adults and should have more advanced work. [Dr. Johnson pointed out that whenever a night school group large enough to form a class wishes an advanced course, the course is provided.]

Suggest Six Improvements.

The suggestions for improvement were:

1. "Plans and policies relative to the selection, appointment, and promotion of teachers and principals should be studied carefully with a view to eliminating causes for the present feeling of dissatisfaction.

2. "The present plan of requiring such a large proportion of ninth grade [first year high] pupils to carry light loads is in need of further study."

3. "The plan for selection of textbooks needs to be changed . . . to select the most suitable book for a particular purpose."

4. "The effect on the teaching load of the addition of extra duties such as counseling service, work on records, and reports . . . needs to be carefully considered."

5. "A high school should be encouraged to meet the needs of the community in which it is located and to adjust its educational program to the needs of the pupils."

6. "A thorough study needs to be made of the evening schools . . . for the purpose of developing courses of study best suited to the needs of adult pupils."

"We welcome the suggestions of the association, and although in most instances we have of our own initiative started to study the problems presented, we will consider all the suggestions," said Dr. Johnson.

MAYOR KELLY'S PLANS

Mayor Kelly's announcement that he intends to go into the affairs of the school system personally was made yesterday afternoon when fourteen members of the citizens' schools committee called upon him to request that he do not reappoint Mr. McCahey as a member of the board of education and to make suggestions and complaints.

The mayor announced at the same time that he intends to appoint two persons from a list of sixteen recommended by the committee to fill vacancies in the board. One of the appointees will be a woman and the other will be a representative of labor.

The request that Mr. McCahey not be reappointed was made by Arnold R. Baar, president of the committee and spokesman for the delegation. He read from a prepared statement:

"We believe it is sufficient to point out that in the minds of a substantial number of people, who may or may not be a majority of the people, Mr. McCahey is identified with an administration of the schools system that has been completely discredited.

"[Mr. McCahey's] reappointment, we believe, would be widely regarded as a demonstration of your own lack of desire to improve the standards of administration. . . . On the other hand, your appointment of a man who would command . . . confidence and respect . . . would be a great constructive step."

Mayor Kelly asked Baar how dissatisfaction with the schools began.

Blames 1933 Economies.

Baar replied that it began with the 1933 economy budget, eliminating junior high schools, manual training in elementary schools and most of the kindergartens. He agreed that the purpose was to save money.

"We couldn't spend money if we didn't have it," said the mayor. "Then it was just a matter of where the cuts should be made. We're not fit to judge that better than the board of education."

Dr. Frank N. Freeman of the University of Chicago, chairman of the joint committee on public school affairs, objected, saying: "Certain economies in the school system have been recommended by educators, mainly in the reduction of operating expenses instead of educational expenses."

"That's always been a bone of contention," said Mayor Kelly. "We have the unions to figure with, you know. Another thing in regard to the cuts as they were made is that if the junior high schools hadn't gone out we'd have been obliged to spend $25,000,000 for new high schools."

"That is something we don't all agree on," said Dr. Freeman.

Praises Junior High Schools.

Mrs. Laura Hughes Lunde, vice president of the Woman's City club, then asserted that junior high schools were the biggest accomplishment of the Chicago schools.

"The business department of our schools has come back now, faster than education," said Mr. Baar in bringing up other objections. The appointment of Supt. Johnson was hasty and against our opposition.

"Well, somebody has to run the schools," said the mayor. "The question is whether we want them run by the superintendent or the teachers' union. We can't all be superintendents. The administration has saved money and tried to make the schools comfortable."

Blames Board for Silence.

"The board," said Baar, "has persistently refused to do anything about the principals' examinations."

"They have not refused," said Mayor Kelly. "They have made their own examination. When a man is superintendent you must back him until you are sure he is wrong."

Herbert Bebb, president of the City club, then asserted that appointments to the board of education should be made only after a committee of outstanding educators had been consulted. He criticized the present system of representing groups in the population, and said the school board should represent the public as a whole.

"In a melting pot like Chicago, nationalities would soon feel slighted if they were not represented," replied the mayor. He then made his announcement regarding the forthcoming appointments and followed it with the announcement of his investigation.

Promises Own Inquiry.

"Until now I haven't interfered with the schools," he said. "But now I am going into it personally with a committee as soon as I can get to it. If there is anything wrong I am going to say so, but I am not going to punish any one until I am sure."

Just before meeting the Citizens' committee, the mayor had conferred in a closed session with seven representatives of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, headed by Mrs. Holland Flagler, education chairman.

He assured Mrs. Flagler's committee that his investigation will begin as soon as the Illinois Appellate court rules on pending litigation involving the board—an aftermath of the principals' examinations of 1937.

Cut Shackles of Business, Urges Taber.

needed to run the government, permitting the balancing of the federal budget, to restore confidence and put the people to work in private industry.

Seeks Opportunity for Business.

"We have found from sad experience in the last five years that the social security of our people—except administration job holders—has not been promoted by the expenditure of approximately 16 billions on boondoggling, relief programs, and similar activities," Taber declared.

"Now we know that when we are all through we are just that much worse off. Let us turn away from the path of proven failure and attempt to solve our problems by giving industry an opportunity to put its people to work by promoting rather than curtailing, the opportunity for the employment of people in private enterprise.

"I hope that the membership of this house will approach this problem with the idea of advancing the country's interest, and maintaining the freedom of our people and giving them an opportunity to establish themselves and their families on solid ground instead of shifting sands.

"Let us stand firm against making more acute the depression by the appropriation of fabulous sums for the purpose of gratifying the spite and spleen of the chief executive and promoting his plan to defeat those who have had the courage to oppose him."

Paralysis Laid to Fear.

Taber asserted that the adoption of his program would rid the country of the fear which depresses an entire people.

"It is a fear which now paralyzes business and trading and has brought about in many substantial industries the lowest rate of employment in the history of the country," he said. "The program that I have suggested will start the wheels of progress, give employment to our people, and provide a market for our agricultural, manufacturing, and mining industries.

"We are approaching a new low point in industrial and private employment, due almost entirely to the President's foolish legislation and his failure entirely to grasp the economic principles upon which the prosperity of the country and employment by private industry can be brought about."

NEW MOVE SEEKS TO GET $533,817 SWEITZER OWED

The county moved yesterday to collect $533,817 which it charges the late Robert M. Sweitzer withheld during his 24 years as county clerk. Appearing before Judge Walter J. LaBuy in the Circuit court, Assistant State's Attorney Jacob Shamberg told of Sweitzer's recent death and asked an order permitting the suit to proceed against the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company, his surety.

The order was issued by Judge LaBuy, who announced that a date for trial of the suit will be set next Monday. Though the case will proceed against the surety company alone, the court order emphasized that the action against Sweitzer has not been dismissed.

Shamberg stated that plans are being made to proceed against the Sweitzer estate when proceedings are started in the Probate court.

CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE

PRESIDENT SETS STAGE FOR NEW U. S. INQUISITION

Orders Senate Inquiry on Tax Returns.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—A new inquisition against opponents of the administration was promised today by Senator Sherman W. Minton [D., Ind.] on the strength of a presidential order which empowers his special committee to investigate lobbying activities; also to inspect income, excess profits, and capital stock tax returns.

Senator Minton said that the order had been secured from President Roosevelt for the express purpose of examining the tax returns of the officers and principal contributors to an organization which has been fighting the administration. He refused to name the organization, although he said it is not the National Committee to Uphold Constitutional Government, whose activities against the governmental reorganization bill are under the committee's scrutiny.

Follows in Black's Path.

The senator is the political and spiritual heir of Justice Hugo Black of the Supreme court who, as chairman of the committee, spread terrorism in 1936 among those opposing President Roosevelt's reëlection. At the time Black's affiliation with the Ku Klux Klan was a suspected but not established fact.

Through an army of investigators, spies, sleuths and undercover men, and a fat purse of tax dollars, Black went riding against more than a million critics of the administration in such organizations as the American Liberty league, the Crusaders, and the American Federation of Investors. His agents seized records, correspondence, and telegrams of suspected persons and organizations in a manner which was reminiscent of the operations of the cheka in Soviet Russia.

Black was forced to halt when the courts held his seizure of telegrams to be in violation of the constitutional guarantee against unreasonable search and seizure. The resulting wave of public reaction against the committee's tactics brought its activities virtually to a standstill.

Minton Succeeds Black.

Minton took over the chairmanship of the committee when President Roosevelt rewarded Black for his services to the administration cause by giving him the black robe of a Supreme court justice to cover the white robe of a Klansman.

The Indiana senator resuscitated the committee after the defeat of the President's scheme to reorganize the government so as to give the White House tighter control over the executive branch of the government. The committee began an investigation of the flood of telegrams which poured in upon senators and representatives asking defeat of the "dictator" plan after the President charged that the protest telegrams were the work of an organized opposition.

Defied by Officers.

The committee has been investigating the activities of the constitution committee, which was founded by Frank Gannett, Rochester, N. Y., publisher. In this phase of the inquiry Minton has been twice defied by officers of the organization, who have refused to turn over records demanded by senate subpena. The officers are Sumner Gerard, treasurer, and Dr. Edward Rumely, secretary of the committee.

Despite this conflict Minton insisted that he did not seek the executive order to strike at the Gannett organization.

Nothing in the language of the order indicates the identity of the group that Minton proposes to go after. The order is broad enough to permit investigation of any organization or individual fighting the administration and permits the committee to go into any matter or proposal affecting legislation without time limit.

It was held possible that the administration could spread terror among the foes of the court packing plan, the wage and hour legislation, the court reorganization plan or the reorganization bill. The President was seen as setting the stage to strike terror into the hearts of anyone who might consider opposing any legislative phase of his program.

Order Issued by President.

The order as published in the Federal Register was accompanied by a treasury order which directed collectors of internal revenue to coöperate in any manner requested by the lobby investigating committee. The treasury order was dated April 9, the day after the reorganization plan was defeated in the house and the same day the President sent a letter assuring foes of the scheme that there would be "no recrimination for White House opposition."

The presidential order read:

"By virtue of the authority vested in me . . . it is hereby ordered that income, excess-profits, and capital stock tax returns . . . shall be open to inspection by the special committee to investigate lobbying activities, United States senate, or any duly authorized subcommittee thereof, for the purpose of, and to the extent necessary in, the investigation of lobbying activities in connection with the so-called 'holding company bill,' or any other matter or proposal affecting legislation which such committee or subcommittee is authorized and directed to make by senate resolution 165 . . ., such inspection to be in accordance and upon compliance with the rules and regulations prescribed by the secretary of the treasury in the treasury decision relating to the inspection of returns by that committee, approved by me this date."

Seized in Swindle

Patricia Cherrington, former sweetheart of John Hamilton, Dillinger gangster, who was arrested in hotel room last night when police seized two men wanted in $9,000 pool game swindle.

DILLINGER GANG GIRL ARRESTED —WITH CON MAN

He's a Pool Specialist; She's a Dice Shaker.

Patricia Cherrington, a flaming red head, who used to associate with John Dillinger and his gang [she served two years in the federal prison at Milan, Mich., for harboring the outlaws] came into the news again yesterday. She was arrested after she was found in a north side hotel room of George Murphy, 43 years old, a bald, shrimpy little fellow who specializes in practical psychology and swindling folks in pool games.

Murphy and an accomplice, John Maloney, 43, were arrested also and confessed that with the aid of Earl Morrell, who has a long record as a swindler and is being sought, they defrauded Robert Denton, 6655 Lafayette avenue, of $9,000 on April 12.

Get Few Dollars Back.

Only a few dollars of the money was recovered. Murphy said he had spent $1,200 and been robbed of the rest of his $3,000 share of the loot, and Maloney asserted he had lost his $3,000 playing the races. Mrs. Cherrington said she didn't know anything about the funds—didn't, in fact, know Murphy was engaged in any illegal activities.

The three men met Denton, who is 58 years old and an electrician for the New York Central railroad, in the loop, April 11 after he had cashed a check. Striking up an acquaintance with him, they took him to a poolroom near Clark street and Chicago avenue, and won $100 from him in bets. Denton, who hadn't shot a game of pool since 1902 and felt he was unfairly treated, complained.

Suggests Murphy as Victim.

Maloney, who is an ex-prize fighter, then suggested that he try conclusions the next day with Murphy, whom he described as a poor performer with a cue. Make the bets larger, he said; it would be easy to take Murphy's money. And how much could Denton raise?

Denton said there was $9,000 he could get hold of the next day, if his wife didn't interfere. He kept an appointment and the trio led him to another poolroom near Belmont avenue and Clark street. The $9,000 bet was made and Morrell was appointed stakeholder.

When the game started Denton ran three balls and Murphy five. Then the game broke up. The stakeholder had disappeared.

Murphy, who refers to himself as a professor of psychology, said that he was much astonished when Denton proved to be so rich a victim.

Described by Victim.

Both men were arrested by Detectives John Griffith and John Warren on descriptions furnished by the victim. When the policemen went to Murphy's room at the Berkshire and found Mrs. Cherrington, who gave the name Pat Young, Murphy pleaded for her release.

"Poor Pat," he said, "she's just a girl who makes an honest living shaking the dice for a 26 game. She has a little girl she's putting through college and the publicity will ruin them both if she's arrested."

Only when she had been taken to the detective bureau did the detectives learn that Patricia was the old pal of John Hamilton, one of Dillinger's first lieutenants.

Asked why she had become an associate of such small fry as con men, she replied, "All my old friends are six feet underground now."

SCIENCE KEEPS LIFE GROWING FOR 11½ YEARS

Vital Organs Studied in Artificial Heart.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 21.—[Special.]—Eleven and a half years of life has been provided to vital human and animal organs in the artificial life chamber designed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Dr. Alexis Carrel, the latter reported today before the American Philosophical society.

Nine hundred experiments have been performed with the Lindbergh-Carrel artificial heart, which for the first time made it possible to keep whole organs alive indefinitly in a synthetic blood-substitute medium.

Practically every important organ in the human and animal body has been kept alive during the experiments, Dr. Carrel reported.

Windows Into Life.

The experiments as described by Dr. Carrel constitute veritable windows into life, through which the processes of the organs can be observed and their behavior can be studied.

Dr. Carrel said it was yet too soon to discuss the practicability of transplanting these organs into human beings as substitutes for diseased parts. It was indicated, however, that the experiments were a long step in that direction.

The apparatus, the report indicated, may open up the possibility of test tube babies. Pregnant uteri of guinea pigs have been placed in the apparatus and kept alive twenty-four hours, Dr. Carrel reported. The results indicate, he added, that the embryo will not grow in a synthetic medium and that it requires real blood in order to thrive. In similar experiments with the Lindbergh-Carrel apparatus at Yale university transplanted rabbit embryos have been kept alive ninety-six hours.

Normal Functions Continue.

The organs and anatomical regions cultivated in the apparatus included thyroids, parathyroids, sympathetic ganglia, salivary glands, mammary glands, livers, spleens, lymph glands, pancreas, adrenal glands, kidneys, hearts, lungs, ovaries, oviducts, uteri and pregnant uteri, testes, epididymes, arteries, veins, muscles, joints, and fetal limbs, Dr. Carrel reported.

Studies are being made on human goiter and the effect of iodine on this condition. A human cancer of the thyroid gland is among the organs under observation. It is possible, Dr. Carrel declared, to study the arteries of the human heart. In this manner, it is hoped, new light may be shed on the nature and origin of coronary heart disease.

HOLC EX-LAWYER IS FACING $280 POSTAL CHARGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—Postoffice officials today said they would ask Horace Russell, resigned general counsel for the Home Owners' Loan corporation, to pay about $280 in postage charges for letters he sent out under the franking privilege praising the legal abilities of O. B. Taylor, a former HOLC attorney.

Russell resigned his government post Tuesday after Representative Ralph E. Church [Rep., Ill.] asserted on the floor of the house that the HOLC attorney had franked "more than a million" praising Mr. Taylor.

Misuse of the government franking privilege is subject to a fine, on conviction, of not to exceed $300 for each letter mailed.

8 PLANTS CLOSED BY C.I.O. STRIKES; FIRM MAY MOVE

Dues Drives Blamed for Michigan Closings.

Detroit, Mich., April 21.—[Special.]—Their eight Detroit plants closed by C. I. O. strikes, officials of the Bohn Aluminum and Brass company said tonight they were considering plans to move their 10 million dollar business away from this strike harassed state.

P. A. Markey, vice president, said the company has been investigating real estate values in several other states, including Illinois and New York, with a view to moving operations.

Meantime the United Automobile Workers, main component of the C. I. O., brought their controversial dues picketing maneuver to Detroit. Pickets stopped nonpaying U. A. W. members at the Vernor highway plant of the Briggs Manufacturing company and questioned them about dues. They allowed the workers to enter the plant, however.

Fisher Plant Reopens.

In Flint, Mich., where similar tactics resulted in the closing of two General Motors plants, the union abided by its surrender in the face of an ultimatum. No pickets were on duty at Fisher Body plant No. 1 when 3,700 employés returned to work after a three day shutdown. The union withdrew its picket line Tuesday when the company declared the plant would remain closed until the practice was discontinued.

Heinrich A. Pickert, Detroit police commissioner, had announced that dues collecting picket lines would be dispersed here, but today he said his department was not interested in the methods used by a union to collect dues, so long as they are peaceable.

Union Makes Charges.

The U. A. W. cited seniority grievances in extending a strike, which had closed three Bohn Aluminum plants Tuesday, to the company's five other factories here. The union charged the company with "carrying on a policy of petty sniping instead of using the instrument of collective bargaining to settle disputes."

"The strikes again prove that the U. A. W. cannot or will not live up to its contract," said Simon Den Uyl, secretary of the Bohn company. "The real reason for the trouble is the dues collecting campaign now being carried on by the union."

He added that the company's agreement with the union provided that no strike would be called until negotiations had been carried on for ten days.

FOUND DEAD OF AUTO FUMES.

Joseph Keller, 43 years old, 3944 North Western avenue, an automobile mechanic, with a shop at 2405 Sunnyside avenue, was found dead of carbon monoxide gas poisoning in a car in the shop yesterday.

TRACKS CLEARED AFTER WRECK IN WHICH TWO DIED

Eastbound trafic on the Rock Island railroad through Bremen township, north of Oak Forest, was resumed yesterday after workmen cleared away débris from a freight train wreck late Wednesday night in which two men were killed and three others injured. Eight cars plunged off a viaduct into Cicero avenue near 158th street after an axle on one car broke.

The dead men were Henry Walter Franck, 55 years old, of Ransom, Kas., and Sidney Grannel, address unknown. They were riding in one of the cars. Charles Sobush, 36, of 2424 Augusta boulevard; Frank Bundon, 33, of Binghamton, N. Y., and Kenneth Spencer of Kansas City, Mo., transients who were in the same car, were taken to the Oak Forest infirmary.

Several motorists told police they narrowly escaped being crushed as the freight cars, some loaded with sand or corn, tumbled into the highway.

FRANCO NEARING FINAL VICTORY, OBSERVER SAYS

Finds Only Miracle Can Save Madrid.

BY MAJ. GEN. J. F. C. FULLER.
British authority on military affairs.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 21.—I have spent a fortnight in Spain, toured over a thousand miles of battlefields in Aragon and Catalonia, watched the really soldierly army which Generalisimo Francisco Franco now has raised, and seen and talked to many of the thousands of prisoners he has captured. Consequently it is staggering on the day of my return to England to read the following words of Juan Negrin, loyalist prime minister, bearing on the present situation:

"Spain's inexhaustible resources have not yet been drawn upon fully. With faith in victory, with enthusiasm and discipline, in a few days or weeks we shall sweep the invaders out of the land they have torn from us."

Bluff or Delusion?

Is this bluff or delusion? I cannot say, yet the fact remains that, though the war is not yet won, nothing short of a miracle can bring these words true because from what I have seen there is not the slightest doubt today that Franco stands firmly on the road to final victory.

It has been an astonishing campaign and an astonishing war—a campaign which one day will be studied for its intrinsic worth, and a war which daily proves the utter incapacity of the soviet system of waging warfare successfully in a foreign country. Politics has replaced tactics and the result has been chaos, misery, and defeat.

Teruel a Vital Factor.

The end began in Teruel last December and, strange as it may now seem, it was then, so I have been informed by several people who should know, Franco's intention to attack on the Guadalajara front once again in order to capture Madrid.

It would appear that he was persuaded to adopt this course by his Italian generals in order to wipe out the memory of their inglorious defeat during the early spring last year. To have done so would have been strategically inept because, as I shall show later on, the easiest line of approach to Madrid lies in quite another direction.

Besides, Madrid was then, as it is today, no more than a hollow political shell with the yolk blown out and an encumbrance, not a tactical objective, because once occupied its million inhabitants would have to be fed. Already Franco was preparing for this by storing large quantities of food and by prohibiting the slaughter of young cattle.

Follows Up First Success.

Then came the fatuous loyalist attack on Teruel. They captured the town but Franco rewon it and on March 9 launched the great offensive which has carried the Nationalist [rebel] armies a hundred miles east of Saragossa and over a hundred and twenty miles to the Mediterranean sea.

Only the other day in Morella, I was talking to Gen. Miguel Aranda when all was in preparation for the advance to the coast.

The country was extraordinarily difficult, yet the loyalists' resistance was slight, first, because I do not think they had many men in that area and, secondly, because they had their backs to the sea and so risked being driven into it.

Only around Tortosa did the loyalists fight stanchly and then because of their undying hatred of the Italian legionnaires whom they succeeded in repulsing, anyhow for the time being. With his left flank on the sea at Vinaroz and Benicarlo, Franco succeeded in cutting loyalist Spain into two parts just as in 1863 Gen. Ulysses S. Grant cut the United States confederacy in half when he gained control of the Mississippi.

Populace Uninformed.

That the war will be brought to a rapid conclusion seems to me to be doubtful because for the loyalist leaders defeat means death, imprisonment or exile. Further still, from information I have been able to gather, the bulk of the people west of Valencia and south of Madrid [loyalist territory] have not the faintest conception of what really is happening in the north [Catalonia], for they are kept in total ignorance of the course of events.

In Barcelona it is probably otherwise. Nevertheless, the fantastic tales of French and even Russian intervention which are prevalent, and which may be gathered from prisoners, point to the people still believing that the war can be won. Only when these fictions are disproved and when Franco pushes to the frontier south of the Pyrenees will the collapse take place, and then probably in the form of a counterrevolution, for the Catalans are not communistic at heart and they have much to lose should the war be fought to the bitter end.

Would Fight on Shorter Front.

Directly after Franco is able to clear Catalonia he will be in a position to shorten the now extensive front and as a consequence augment his reserves for a drive against the southern theater of the war. It is not often realized that throughout the war his main problem has been manpower, that is to say of a sufficiency of men to hold a front which must be some thousand miles in length and also build up and reinforce his field army for offensive operations.

An army of 750,000 trained men, and that I judge roughly is Franco's total strength, is by no means an excessive number for this dual task. This, no doubt, is one reason why he would liked to have taken Madrid, for by doing so it would have released six divisions. Fortunately for him, during the recent battles in Aragon his casualties were light for the simple reason that the loyalist defense rapidly developed into "sauve qui peut" [every man for himself].

Could Concentrate Fleet.

Gaining Catalonia will enable him to concentrate his small fleet and so render more effective the blockade of Valencia, Alicante, and Cartagena, the only good ports remaining for his enemy once Barcelona and Tarragona fall. What he will do then is in the lap of the gods, or anyhow on his own head, but it would seem that his best course in bringing the war to an end would be to advance southward to Valencia, which the map will show is now, strategically speaking, the front door to Madrid.

With Valencia captured, Madrid is doomed and be it remembered that Madrid is the great bastion upon which the northern and western fronts and the southern theater of the war depend for intactness.

Madrid is the Richmond of this war, which, though it has so far resisted all direct attack, from Valencia is open to a flanking movement, not physical but of an economic nature.

With the collapse, rather than occupation, of Madrid the whole area south of the Tagus and Guadiana rivers likely will cave in and unless the loyalists are capable of organizing active guerrilla warfare, which so far they have failed to do and which Gen. Robert E. Lee also failed to do, we may expect the war to end some time this summer.

Outside of political considerations or moral rights, the conduct of the two sides of the war in Spain should prove of considerable interest to American readers instructed in their own history. As a student of their civil war, though the causes were very different, I see marked strategical similarities between it and the civil war in Spain. In fact some of them are so striking that one might almost believe certain operations in one have been copied from the other. In any case these similarities prove to military students the vital importance of studying history.

Gen. Franco's Strategy Explained

Maj. Gen. J. F. C. Fuller, British military writer, discloses that Gen. Franco, Spanish rebel leader, was contemplating a second Madrid drive (1 on map) in the Guadalajara sector when loyalists began Teruel offensive. Franco recaptured Teruel and followed up with the Aragon drive (2) which carried his armies to the sea. Shaded area (3) represents territory gained. Franco's next objective when and if he takes all of Catalonia appears to be a drive on Valencia (4) to choke off supplies by highway to Madrid (5), the final objective.

Bomb Railway

Spanish rebel planes yesterday bombed the railway between Ripoll and Puigcerda (1) and reported three trains of war materials were destroyed in the Puigcerda yards. The rebels' southern army gained three miles in their drive from Albocacer (2) toward Castellon.

Italian Envoy and Wife Guests of British Rulers

LONDON, April 21.—(AP)—The seal of royal favor was placed on Britain's new accord with Italy tonight when Count Dino Grandi, the Italian ambassador, and his countess went to Windsor castle as guests of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth. This was the first time Grandi had been so honored. Other guests were Earl Baldwin, former prime minister; Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and their wives.

SPANISH REBELS GAIN GROUND ON VALENCIA DRIVE

Push Ahead Despite Fire of Loyalist Artillery.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SARAGOSSA, Spain, April 21.—The Fascist forces under Gen. Miguel Aranda, which are operating southward along the Mediterranean coast, today advanced five kilometers [three miles] despite heavy loyalist artillery fire.

Gen. Aranda consolidated his positions around Albocacer, the former loyalist field headquarters which was captured last night. Albocacer is twenty-six miles north of Castellon de la Plana, one of the richest cities of the eastern coast.

Meet Stiffer Resistance.

The Albocacer column and one operating along the coast toward Torreblanca have Valencia as their ultimate objective. They are meeting stiffened government resistance.

The Fascists now hold nearly forty-five miles of the Mediterranean coast between Gen. Aranda's front and the Ebro river delta to the north. The Ebro front was comparatively quiet today. Machine gun and rifle fire increased from both sides of the river, but artillery and aviation were inactive.

At the northern end of the Catalonian front Gen. Francisco Franco's bombing planes raided forty miles of railway from Ripoll to Puigcerda, which is the loyalists' principal Pyrenees connection with France. It was claimed the track was cut in three places.

Three Trains Destroyed.

The flyers reported they destroyed three trains of war materials in the yards at Puigcerda, one of which, apparently containing "chemical products," it was said, burned fiercely.

[Government reports said the bombers killed twenty-two persons and injured more than thirty in Puigcerda by bombing and machine gun strafing and destroyed many houses.]

Afterward the planes bombed Seo de Urgel, twenty-five miles southwest of Puigcerda, where a large government force is building a defense against Gen. Solchaga's advancing army.

FRANCE TO OPEN FRIENDSHIP TALK WITH ROME TODAY

ROME, April 21.—(AP)—Franco-Italian conversations directed toward reestablishment of the friendship which existed before the Italo-Ethiopian war are scheduled to begin here tomorrow.

Premier Mussolini reiterated Italy's readiness to defend her new empire as the country celebrated the 2,691st anniversary of the founding of Rome. He said: "The second Roman empire will know how to be an empire of labor under the banner of peace protected by our arms."

Seeks Quick Settlement.

PARIS, April 21.—(AP)—The French government, anxious for quick agreement with Italy, tonight instructed its representative in talks at Rome to drop plans for discussion of all differences between the two countries and seek a broad general accord. The instructions to Jules Blondel, French chargé d'affaires, said the general agreement might be modeled after the Italian-British accord signed last Saturday.

BRITISH GET NEW LIGHT MACHINE GUNS FOR TROOPS

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 21.—After months of delay the British army is beginning to get large-scale delivery of its new Bren light machine gun. It is supposed to be the finest weapon of its type yet invented.

Reasons for the delay are not apparent. The war office apparently has been sensitive on the subject. Adoption of the gun after competitive tests with others was announced in the house of commons July 30, 1935. It was announced in December, 1935, that the troops would get it in 1937.

No Explanation for Delay.

Though experimental issues to three units were made in 1936 the rest of the army still was using the twenty-five year old American Lewis gun in September, 1937. No explanation of the delay could be obtained, but army authorities said the Bren would be ready "in a few months." Now it is said all units will have them this year.

Each infantry battalion will get fifty-two Bren guns—against two machine guns to a battalion in 1914, which many military men then considered excessive. By 1918 the British had thirty-two Lewis guns to each battalion. Each brigade also will continue to have thirty-six heavy Vickers guns.

The Bren tops the old Lewis gun in every way, British army men contend. It is 6 pounds lighter than the 27 pound Lewis gun; it is less awkward to pick up and carry, and it is much more accurate.

Fires 550 Rounds a Minute.

Both guns have roughly the same rate of fire—about 550 rounds a minute. The British reckon one Lewis gun with a crew of two as equivalent in fire effectiveness to twenty-five riflemen. The Bren, with its superior accuracy and reliability, should be worth still more.

[The German army displayed a new machine gun which fires 900 rounds a minute in a parade in honor of Adolf Hitler's birthday on Wednesday.]

Bren ammunition is easier to handle. Instead of the Lewis gun's bulky, heavy drum magazine, it has curved flat clips. A soldier can carry half a dozen or more of them in pouches on his belt.

Each Bren has an extra barrel. If the one in use heats up, barrels can be changed in about 20 to 25 seconds. Normally, however, the British do not count on light machine guns for sustained fire.

Stands on Two Legs.

Two short legs near the muzzle provide a rest for the Bren. It can also be fired from a 25 pound tripod that gives a good solid base, or it can be rested on a parapet or other natural spot.

Like the Lewis, the gun is air cooled and gas operated. The explosive gases from one shot eject the spent cartridge, cock the firing mechanism and leave the next cartridge in the chamber.

Above all, the Bren is so accurate the British have had to bar it from machine gun competitions unless all contestants can be provided with Brens. The Lewis cannot compete against it.

A Czechoslovakian Gun.

Britain, which got its earlier Gatling, Maxim, and Lewis guns from American inventors, as it did its Lee bolt-action rifle, has taken the Bren from Czechoslovakia.

The name comes from the first letters of the Czech town of Brno, where it is made on the continent, and Enfield, where it is being made here. On the continent, it is known as the Z-B, from the makers' name, Zbrojovka, Brno.

The Bren gun, it was announced, will replace the water cooled Vickers in the infantry's three man caterpillar patrol cars.

Defects Are Remedied.

As used here, the Bren has been adapted to take the British standard .303 caliber service cartridge. The British claim to have eradicated certain defects which made the Indian army reject it in favor of the Vickers-Berthier for its standard light machine gun. What the defects were has never been revealed.

War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha recently said in parliament: "The Bren gun was selected after exhaustive tests in comparison with many other light machine guns as the best and most reliable light machine gun obtainable."

Porto Rico Dock Workers Obey Order to Halt Strike

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, April 21.—(AP)—Striking longshoremen and shipping clerks, obeying an order of the government's arbitration board, returned to work today after tying up movement of cargo in Porto Rico ports for three days. The men were warned against unauthorized strikes during negotiations in the maritime labor dispute. They had stopped work Monday, demanding complete unionization of all shipping company shore employés not included in the Longshoremen's union.

HAPSBURG RICHES IN AUSTRIA ARE SEIZED BY NAZIS

Archduke Otto Loses His Castles, Hunting Grounds

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 21.—The Berliner Boersenzeitung, official organ of Germany's armed forces, today admitted that the properties of the former royal family of Hapsburg have been confiscated in Austria by Nazi authorities.

"Otto von Hapsburg [pretender to the nonexistent throne] placed himself outside all laws," the paper said. "No warant was required for the seizure of the properties; a mere decree was sufficient.

"There is no need to search for a reason justifying confiscation, since Otto supplied them himself by his stupid and treasonable interview in a semi-official French newspaper March 16."

[In the interview Archduke Otto delivered a bitter protest against Adolf Hitler's sceizure of Austria and asked the world to support "the firm will of the Austrian people to recover their liberty and independence."]

Real Estate Worth $10,000,000.

Archduke Otto's real estate alone is valued at $10,000,000. In Vienna he owned apartment houses, tenements, and valuable art treasures.

The Hapsburg castle of Laxenburg near Vienna and a hunting castle at Muerzsteg, near the Semmering mountains, were seized. Otto also owned vast hunting estates in the Salzburg district and in the Tyrol.

Rumors that Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, whose post as special envoy to Vienna was abolished by the annexation of Austria, has "fallen from grace" were denied in official quarters.

It was rumored that Von Papen was questioned by the GSP [secret police] in connection with the disappearance of Baron Wilhelm Emanuel von Ketteler, his former assistant in the Vienna embassy. Inability of friends to locate the baron gave rise to rumors that he had committed suicide when the secret police searched the embassy.

Jews Driven Out of Austria.

Nazi officials today suppressed news of the plight of hundreds of penniless Austrian Jews who are being driven out of the country by Storm Troopers.

Many Jews fled into Jugo-Slavia or were placed on breakwaters in the Danube river near Bratislava, Czechoslovakia. They were sent back or arrested because authorities said they were unable to harbor all those whom Germany wants expelled.

[Dispatches from Prague said twenty-four expelled Jews, who were denied admittance to Czechoslovakia and Hungary, were sheltered on a French tugboat in the Danube. Some who wandered back into Austria from Hungary were loaded into buses for expulsion elsewhere. Fifty-one Jews from Burgenland province were loaded into a launch and set ashore on the Czechoslovak side of the border. The ghetto of 2,000 Jews at Eisenstadt, Burgenland capital, was reported almost deserted. At Graz, Styria, 70 per cent of the Jewish stores were sold to Aryans because of boycotts.]

Oust Jews from Business.

A million Jews or part Jews—in Germany—not including those in Austria—are affected by the Nazi ghetto laws, a racial expert said in the magazine Ziel and Weg. His analysis of statistics on the Jewish population is being used by the "Nazi racial political office" as a basis for conducting a new drive to eliminate all Jews from business.

In Berlin the Association of Jewish Veterans was requested to cancel its regular meetings in a coffee house in fashionable Kurfuerstendamm, which formerly was inhabited by many rich Jews. The veterans will be allowed to meet once a month in a coffee house on a less frequented side street if they choose.

In Munich the leader of the Nazi bar association ruled that lawyers will not be allowed to represent Jews in court.

"Any member of the association who represents a Jew will be compelled to resign, which automatically deprives him of his livelihood," he announced.

Boycott Cattle Dealers.

A special court has decided that any farmer found guilty of trading with a Jewish cattle dealer will be declared "dishonorable." This stigma may deprive him of the right to run his own farm. In Alfeld, near Brunswick, a farmer was forbidden to operate his farm for eight years because he "kept up business relations with Jews."

Arons Brothers, a Jewish bank, which has been in business in Berlin for nearly 125 years, has been compelled to sell out to an Aryan firm.

Jew Defends Nazi

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Joseph Ellison (left), Jewish attorney, defended Otto Giessler (right) age 17, when the latter was arraigned in New York yesterday following riot involving German-American bund and anti-Nazis. Note the knife in belt of Giessler.

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—Last night's riot between 100 American Legionnaires and 1,000 Nazis had an unusual aftermath today when a Jewish lawyer was appointed by a war veteran magistrate to defend a young German Storm Trooper—and won his discharge.

The Storm Trooper was Otto Giessler, 17 years old, a citizen of Germany and a member of the German-American bund. He appeared before Magistrate Mathew Troy in Felony court, and Troy, a war veteran, appointed Joseph Ellison, a Jewish lawyer, to conduct the defense.

Two Jewish war veterans testified that Giessler wore a Nazi uniform and had a knife, but it developed that it was part of his uniform and that a policeman had taken a knife from its scabbard. Magistrate Troy ruled there was no Sullivan law violation and discharged Giessler.

Minister Sues Parish for $4,916 Back Wages

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., April 21.—(AP)—The Rev. Joseph Abraham, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Slavonian church, Freeland, has sued the parish for $4,916.72 in back wages. He claimed he signed a contract as pastor of the church in September, 1927, for $125 a month, and the church has not paid him in full.

VANDENBERG HITS FOREIGN POLICY BEHIND NAVY BILL

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—Beginning the attack of the senate isolationists on the administration's $1,156,546,000 naval expansion bill, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] told the senate today that the measure could be justified only by a foreign policy intended to police the world.

The only explanation for the sudden proposal to build a super-super-navy, Senator Vandenberg declared, is that President Roosevelt wants to implement his speech at Chicago last October, when he advocated concerted action to quarantine aggressor nations. Vandenberg said the American people want no part of such a foreign policy, as was demonstrated in 1920 when Mr. Roosevelt ran for Vice President on a league of nations platform.

Cites Cost of Program.

In his two-hour assault on the big navy bill, Senator Vandenberg said the proposed 46 additional combat vessels, including three 45,000 ton super-dreadnaughts, would cost at least 1⅓ billion dollars and that the 500 merchant marine auxiliaries which the enlarged fleet would require, as testified by Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, would cost another 1½ billion dollars.

"Just how much can the public credit stand, particularly at a moment when our internal situation is calling for stupendous sums to fight the depression?" Senator Vandenberg asked.

"We are not entitled to put this additional burden upon the backs of the American people, particularly at a time when the public credit is in dangerous jeopardy. A sound public credit is just as vital a part of the national defense as our battleships and our armed battalions.

Points to Financial Peril.

"I think the danger of national bankruptcy is far more realistic, infinitly more imminent, vastly more menacing to the integrity of the United States than is the danger of alien assault."

Senator Vandenberg said he was not speaking as a pacifist or an advocate of peace at any price.

But he wondered what happened between Jan. 21, when the senate passed the naval appropriation bill recommended by those charged with responsibility for the national defense—the President and the navy department—and Jan. 28, when "all of a sudden we had to have a super-super billion dollar addition to the navy."

650 Million Program Authorized.

Under the Vinson-Trammell act of 1934, he said, authority exists for $650,000,000 worth of naval construction upon which not a dollar has been spent, yet the President demands authorization for additional construction to cost more than a billion dollars.

"We have not built what we are already authorized to build," he declared, "yet we are suddenly asked, in the name of emergency, to authorize more new construction which cannot, in reality, be reached for years to come. It just does not make sense.

"Perhaps it will be said that time marches on with such ruthless speed, that history is writing with such a rushing pen, that the old program already is antiquated."

Demands to Know Policy.

Senator Vandenberg demanded to know what kind of foreign policy required the super-navy.

"If it 's to match the feverish armament hysteria in other lands that we are called summarily to pile new billions upon old, then the formula in the pending bill is not enough," he said.

"If it is to serve some new but undisclosed American foreign policy, then I want first to pass upon the policy. If it is neither of these, then it is just a restless and fearful emotion to which my preparedness devotion is not required to yield.

"The truth of the matter is that our defense needs—our national security needs—are far more intimately attuned to our own foreign policies than to any other factor in the world. Our own foreign policy can have more to do with our naval needs than the naval might of other powers. I do not mean nor do I remotely infer that our foreign policy should be so supine and surrendering as to seek peace at any price. That would not be American. But I do mean that an American foreign policy which avoids all foreign entanglements and essentially minds its own business requires far less navy than an American foreign policy which might aspire to police the world.

Speech Never Explained.

"I do mean that a lesser navy can adequately implement an American foreign policy built upon Washington's farewell address than would be required to implement an American foreign policy built either upon the doctrin of the League of Nations or upon President Roosevelt's Chicago speech of last October. That speech has never been explained. It twice called for concerted effort on the part of some nations, obviously including our own, against other nations. It called for quarantines, certainly a synonym for sanctions.

"The President says he hates war. Of course, I take him at his word. I know that the American people hate war and desire to keep out of it—short of national dishonor or the surrender of national independence. They particularly want us to mind our own business, so far as possible, and keep out of other people's wars. They want none of the international sanctions which would identify and punish aggressors in unrelated quarters of the globe. They want none of the concerted efforts or the quarantines to which the President addressed himself approvingly at Chicago last fall. Yet here is a super-super navy bill which has no factual justification in any present hazards to which we may be exposed."

ROOSEVELT AND FORD TO DISCUSS BUSINESS AT LUNCH WEDNESDAY

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt and Henry Ford, one of his most severe critics, will discuss business conditions Wednesday at a White House luncheon.

The meeting, which had been reported for several days, was set for Wednesday when Stephen T. Early, Mr. Roosevelt's secretary, announced the President had telegraphed Ford last night at his Sudbury, Mass., estate to extend a formal invitation.

In past conferences with business and industrial leaders President Roosevelt has sought chiefly to learn their reactions to administration programs and to inform them of some of the difficulties confronting it.

ARMY AND NAVY BAR EXPORT OF NEWEST PLANES

Second Rate Craft Only Available for British.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—The British mission which is en route to the United States in quest of American fighting planes to bolster up Britain's air strength will have to be satisfied with second rate aircraft, it was learned today.

The army and navy will resist any effort of the ten British air ministry experts to purchase fighting planes of the latest types in service or the types now under construction.

The mission will have the satisfaction, however, if it succeeds in getting planes of less up to date design, of knowing that its purchases will be superior to fighting craft in the air forces of other European powers or to any being built at home. It is acknowledged that the United States turns out the best fighting and commercial airplanes.

Mission to Stay Six Weeks.

The British experts, who are working under secret plans for the defense of the empire in general and the British Isles in particular, plan to remain in the United States six weeks. In that period they will visit plane manufacturing plants. They will not be permitted to inspect craft under construction for the army and navy.

If the Britishers decide to place an order for any particular type of craft, the manufacturer is required to refer the order to the aeronautical board. This is composed of the chief and assistant chief of the army air corps, the chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics, the chief of the planning division of the navy air bureau and a member of the war planes division of the general staf and of the war plans division of naval operations.

Sales Barred for Two Years.

By ruling of the board, no such request is even considered until six months after the type of plane desired has been in service with either the army or navy. Ordinarily the board refuses to sanction the foreign sale of American fighting planes until two years after the planes have been in national defense service and when the type of craft is considered obsolcte by the country's aeronautical experts.

Quake Destroys Towns

Arrow points to region in Turkey where earthquake caused the greatest loss of life and property damage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ANKARA, Turkey, April 21.—Thousands of survivors of earthquakes, which killed 1,000 persons and devastated a prosperous area of central Turkey, tonight sought shelter from bitter cold and a rainstorm.

The government sent planes carrying physicians, nurses, relief workers, tents, blankets, clothing, food, and medicine to the stricken area. Eighteen villages were wiped out and twenty-two others badly damaged by the quakes which began Wednesday afternoon and continued last night.

The greatest loss of life and damage was reported near Kirsehir, Yozgat, and Tchorum. The quakes were accompanied by underground rumbling through a wide area of western Asia on the Aegean sea.

Lake County to Close Up Rural Taverns at 2 A. M.

Beginning May 1 the rural sections of Lake county are going to be dry between 2 a. m. and 5 a. m. every day. The county board of supervisors ruled yesterday that these closing hours shall be enforced, although more than 100 tavern owners appeared to protest that they couldn't exist if the early morning drinkers were taken away from them.

STUDENT'S SLANG ABOUT HITLER LEADS TO ARREST

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

WEIMAR, Germany, April 21.—An English student named Brownbridge escaped being tried for high treason because of a remark about Adolf Hitler appearing in a letter to a friend, it was disclosed today. He was arrested when secret police searched his room and found the half finished letter after he had criticized Hitler to Weimar friends.

The student, in reference to Hitler's conquest of Austria, used a slang expression that secret police took literally. He was released and expelled after the British embassy induced the German foreign office to rule the term employed was not generally used in its literal dictionary meaning. The slang expression was not made public.

Big Portion Eventually Will Be Lost.

housing division, when in 1935 he told the national public housing conference at Washington:

"We have to do with the relocation of [slum] tenants, which has been a subject of some apprehension. Like most of our bugaboos, it faded away when we got it into actual practice. In Atlanta we did not have to relocate a single family. When they heard we were going to blow up two buildings, they faded out of the picture."

Buys Poorest Risks.

Actual building, however, has accounted for only a minor fraction of the government stake in the real estate field. Its biggest stake is in the lending field. The HOLC, admittedly an emergency relief agency, bought up one-sixth of the outstanding mortgages on American homes in 1933 and 1934. Naturally it got the sourest sixth, and the major part of that bill still is to come in.

The Farm Credit administration had an outstanding balance at the end of last year, in first and second farm mortgages, of $2,848,056,000. The Reconstruction Finance corporation, the Public Works administration, and the Federal Home Loan banks stepped into the field for a few hundred odd millions. Under the Wagner-Steagall act the United States housing authority already has half a billion dollars to lend.

In Insurance, Too.

The third great field of government activity is that of insurance and guaranties of private investments, and while it is the most innocuous in appearance, it also contains potentialities of the greatest losses. The government, through the federal savings and loan deposit insurance corporation, insures accounts up to $5,000 in building and loan and savings associations with assets totaling 1 billion 700 millions.

The Federal Housing administration is guarantor up to 100 millions of character and installment loans for real estate rehabilitation and equipment purchase, on which it already has suffered heavy losses. It also has insured about 1 billion 100 millions in mortgages held by banks, insurance companies and private investors—loans which now may be made up to 90 per cent of the value of the mortgaged property to be repaid over 25 years.

The FHA has authority to insure another 1 billion 900 millions in mortgages. And, under the national mortgage associations, the first of which was formed recently, a billion dollars of this can be on money raised by that federal agency on tax exempt obligations which, by a devious legal path, are guaranteed by the government.

Attempt to Stop Risks.

As was said before, all these activities were undertaken in the twin causes of recovery and security. How much they have contributed to recovery can be judged by looking out the nearest window. But in most of them there was also a second motive, one of the underlying motives of so much of the legislation of the last six years.

That motive was security. In the real estate field it was specifically an attempt to take the risks out of what has been a notoriously risky business.

HOLC wrote off bad risks for banks, insurance companies, building and loan associations, and private lenders. It also rescued a million homeowners, at least temporarily, from the loss of their homes. But in doing so, it rescued the holders of billions of dollars in sour mortgages.

FHA insurance is intended to take the risk out of real estate lending. It is intended to put the banks of the country back into the real estate lending field, after the original federal reserve act had forced the majority of them out of it, and the banking act of 1933 had completed the job.

Chances Taken by U. S.

This it seeks to do by transferring the risk to the federal government, through insurance. It is well known that virtually every mortgage insurance scheme was smashed by the decline in real estate values following the 1929 crash. FHA officials believe they have circumvented the factors which caused those failures. But they are guaranteeing loans up to 90 per cent of value, and loans to be repaid over twenty-five years. The bonds sold by S. W. Straus & Co., at least on the surface, were far more conservative than that.

Insurance of building and loan accounts falls into the same class. The security, in the end, is mortgages.

There are two remarkable things about this present government real estate program, when it is considered as a whole. The first is that while it competes, and competes severely, with every private interest in the real estate field, it has been put into effect without effective opposition from those interests. The second is that it involves such conflicting motives that their net effect, instead of assuring security to real estate owners and lenders, has been to increase their insecurity and therefore to increase the hazard of the vast governmental stake in the field.

Realty Interests Helped.

The first phenomenon is easily explained. Every real estate interest has had something to gain by one or more phases of this governmental invasion of its field. In the end, every interest risks losing more than it gains, but having accepted benefits, its opposition to measures which harm it has been discounted. In effect the government has lined the real estate boys up, slipped each a nickel's worth of gum drops with one hand, and with the other, filched a dollar bill from his pocket.

As to increased insecurity, the HOLC may be considered first. Obviously, since HOLC mortgages were made on distressed property, the only chance the government has of getting its money back is a substantial improvement in real estate values, and particularly on values of property which, while it is old or aging, still is in good physical condition. HOLC has seen to that.

With possibly a billion dollar loss the penalty for depreciation of this HOLC security, the government has, through FHA, made most strenuous efforts to stimulate new construction, which will directly undercut the values of the older HOLC collateral.

Foreclose on Mortgages.

There is a countereffect here. The HOLC properties were originally distress properties, and some of them still are. HOLC has had to foreclose about 6 per cent of its mortgages, and 29 per cent of those remaining are in technical default, this during a period of comparative prosperity.

Foreclosure necessarily implies forced sale. It is true that HOLC officials have been scrupulous, perhaps to their own loss, in efforts to avoid creating a distress market by dumping a large volume of properties. But, as the Hoover farm board discovered to the tune of a half billion dollar loss on its grain carryovers, the property does not have to be offered for sale to depress prices. The mere threat of its existence is sufficient for that.

Thus the HOLC mortgages offer as much of a threat to the FHA insured loans as the construction financed by those loans does to the security of the mortgages. The moment the market declines on the property underlying these high ratio loans, the government's liability ceases to be potential and becomes actual.

Competes with Industry.

Underlying all this is the actual construction of housing by the government. It is ridiculous to assert that this housing does not compete with privately owned real estate, the most widely held form of property in the country. Figures supplied by the housing agencies show that these projects have drawn the bulk of their tenants, not from slum housing, but from reasonably adequate residences. With their rent scales, they can get them nowhere else.

Thus the subsidized government housing is operating to depreciate the value not only of the HOLC collateral, but of the property on which FHA is guaranteeing 90 per cent mortgages. It is true that the amount of this subsidized housing is, to date, relatively small. But it is an economic fact that a relatively small proportion of a commodity sold at a cut price can disorganize a market and there is the further serious threat that no one knows how much money is going to be sunk in this subsidized housing. Its more fanatical proponents can pronounce fifty billions as easily as fifty cents.

Loss May Be Billions.

In sum, each of the three main divisions of the federal real estate activities, lending, insurance and direct building, tends to conflict with and stifle the other two. Out of this conflict also arises a potential loss to the taxpayers of the nation of billions of dollars.

It should be remembered that in competing with private capital or impairing private investments in the real estate field, the government is not threatening Wall street to any substantial extent. It is competing with and threatening the great mass of its thrifty, middle class citizens.

Any decline in the values of existing homes will not be felt greatly by J. P. Morgan & Co., but it will be felt directly by nearly seven and a half million urban families who own their homes. In the lending field it is also the small investor who predominates.

Of all HOLC payments, 21 per cent went to individuals, 28 per cent to building and loan associations, and 6 per cent to life insurance companies—55 per cent altogether to groups representing small investors in the main.

Any impairment of real estate values will also be felt by state and local governments, which get about 70 per cent of their revenue from general property taxes, virtually the only field in which the federal government does not compete with them.

Any summary of this wide governmental invasion of the real estate field must necessarily be abbreviated. Many of the statements made may appear dogmatic. They can be proved. They are proved by official figures of government agencies in the housing field, and by official statements of administrators and officials of those agencies. A portion of that proof will be offered in subsequent stories of this series.

[This is the first of a series by Mr. Ator on federal housing projects. The next will appear in an early issue.]

ATTORNEY PAYS $600 AND KEEPS SELF FROM JAIL

Attorney J. Kent Greene was in custody for a time yesterday under sentence to the county jail for contempt of court, but won his release by paying $600, which was under dispute in a separate maintenance case.

A client of Greene, Alexander Moseley, owner of a coffee commission business at 411 North Paulina street, told Judge John J. Lupe last Dec. 10 that he had paid the money to the attorney to satisfy a debt and therefore could not pay arrearage in support money due his wife, Mrs. Kathleen Moseley of 16 East Goethe street. Judge Lupe ordered the attorney to give the $600 to the Superior court clerk to be held in escrow and be divided between himself and Mrs. Moseley. When Greene refused he was sentenced for contempt, but the mittimus was stayed pending an appeal.

Yesterday Greene again refused to pay and was taken into custody on the order of Judge Walter P. Stanton. An attempt to get a writ of habeas corpus from Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude failed. Greene then gave the money to the sherif and Judge Stanton ordered him released.

Judge Weighs Freedom Plea to Avoid Deportation

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday took under advisement a habeas corpus petition of Vincent Zupancic, 60 years old, of Oglesby, Ill., who has been held in the county jail since Sept. 7 pending deportation to Jugo-Slavia ordered last Dec. 7. According to Assistant United States District Attorney A. Bradley Eben, Zupancic committed a crime involving moral turpitude before coming to the United States in 1907, and consequently is subject to deportation.

DETECTIVE KILLS MAN IN VICE RAID; SHOOTS WOMAN

Detective Frank Iwicki of Police Commissioner Allman's office shot and killed a colored man and critically wounded a colored woman last night in a vice investigation in the woman's flat at 2958 South State street.

Iwicki's account of the shooting was this: Sent to the neighborhood by Allman, he was accosted by the woman, Florence Martin, 22 years old, who invited him to her apartment. There the man, Samuel Johnson, 32, tried to overpower the detective. Iwicki shot him and the woman in the struggle that followed. The woman was taken to the Bridewell hospital by Iwicki and his partner, Joseph Batzelle, who had been sent to the district with him.

FALL FATAL TO SCHOOL JANITOR.

William Boguilan, 50 years old, 715 West 19th place, janitor at Immaculata High school, 640 Irving Park road, died last night in the Alexian Brothers' hospital of a spinal fracture suffered in a fall Monday.

DWELLING UNITS SHOW DECREASE IN LAST 5 YEARS

There are 12,002 fewer dwelling units in Chicago than in January, 1933, it was disclosed yesterday in a report to Mayor Kelly by Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works. The report said that during the six years preceding 1933, housing units increased by 84,358. The figures were obtained from building and health departments to aid in a projected land-use survey to be made in conjunction with Chicago housing programs.

Hewitt attributed the decrease in housing units to the depression. He pointed out that many buildings have been wrecked to provide recreational areas and parking lots, in order to reduce tax charges on unproductive property. During the last four and one half years, 7,714 houses have been demolished.

Lashes at "Contractor Boss Government."

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., April 21.—[Special.]—Lashing out at "contractor boss government," Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia tonight again attacked Gov. George H. Earle for receiving $30,000 from the state's most favored builder of public works projects.

Wilson and Earle are scrapping it out for the Democratic senatorial nomination in one of the most bitter party feuds in the history of the Keystone state. The mayor is backed by Senator Joseph F. Guffey, who fell out with the state organization when it refused to indorse Lieut. Gov. Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America and the C. I. O. candidate for governor.

McCloskey Party Leader.

Matthew H. McCloskey, the contractor in question, lent the cash to Earle and subsequently was awarded nearly 10 million dollars worth of construction jobs by the state authority headed by the governor. McCloskey is also co-leader of the Philadelphia Democratic machine.

In a radio speech which was read for him because he had another function to attend, Mayor Wilson ridiculed the excuse put forth by the governor's lieutenants that he was forced to borrow from McCloskey when he was caught short in the sugar market.

"As a candidate for public office and the present chief executive of this state, Gov. Earle had better keep the sugar out of his office," remarked the mayor.

Gets 30 Per Cent of Contracts.

The sugar market defense for Earle was offered by John B. Kelly, one-time Olympic single sculls champion, who is co-leader of the Philadelphia forces with McCloskey. There was no connection between the loans and the contracts, according to Kelly.

McCloskey, whose contracts represent 30 per cent of all the state's general construction contracts for public buildings, apparently was the official representative of Pennsylvania in Washington conferences dealing with PWA projects in this state, according to dispatches from Washington.

This was partially admitted by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes in Washington today. It is understood that the Ickes files contain a letter from Gov. Earle designating McCloskey as the official PWA ambassador.

It Happens in Michigan, Too.

The Ickes remarks were in reference to the resolution calling for all communications in the PWA file dealing with Pennsylvania projects which was introduced in the senate yesterday by Senator Guffey. Ickes was asked whether it was unusual for a state to designate a contractor as its representative.

"So far as I know," he replied, "it happened in only one other state in the early days of PWA. It was in Michigan."

Secretary Ickes said he never had met McCloskey, but that the Philadelphia contractor had conferred with other PWA officials.

New Nickel Design

The design on the face of the new Thomas Jefferson nickel which was selected by judges as the best among those submitted in competition. It needs only final approval by the treasury department.

[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

On the other side is a replica of Monticello, Jefferson's Virginia home. Felix Schlag, Chicago sculptor, was the designer.

Felix Schlag's painstaking work, under difficult circumstances, on a sculptural design for the new Jefferson nickel was rewarded yesterday. He received notice from mint officials in Washington, D. C., that he had won the $1,000 prize. Schlag, a sculptor, lives at 245 North avenue.

Felix Schlag.

Schlag worked on his design for several months, during such spare moments as he could leave his wife Nellie, who was critically ill. He acted as her nurse. She died on March 14, before he could complete the model.

Schlag, 46 years old and a native of Germany, has been in Chicago since 1929. His father was a sculptor. The design or model which he submitted was based on considerable research, concentrated on an effort to get the best likeness of Jefferson. Until recently Schlag has been using the professional name "Lix Slag."

Lake County G. O. P. Gains 2,400 Votes Over '36 Total

Official returns from the April 12 primary election in Lake county show that the Republicans cast 2,400 more ballots than they did in April, 1936, while the Democrats registered a loss of 918. The Republican total this year was 25,392 and the Democratic 12,048. The combined total of votes cast, 37,440, was the largest in any primary ever held in the county. The figures were released by the canvassing board.

HORNER DELAYS STATEMENT ON OPEN PRIMARIES

Mention New Name for State Chairman.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 21.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois, resting comfortably in a big white hotel here in the Allegheny foothills, tonight was noncommittal as to whether he will include the subject of open primaries in the special legislative session he will convene early next month, but he did not preclude the possibility that it will be one of the items in the call.

Most of the chieftains of the governor's faction, who are playing golf and enjoying mineral water baths on—they say—the money they won in the April 12 election, believe that open primaries are a fine thing. They join County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki of Chicago, who last week advocated the legalization of the right of the voters to enter either party primary any time they choose.

Legislature May Act.

The county judge, who won renomination with Horner backing, even would extend this license to the mayoralty primary next year, when State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney is expected to be the governor's candidate for mayor. To bring this about it would either require permission being given by the legislature at a special session this year or quick work in the early part of the regular session next year.

When first questioned on the matter the governor, who arrived late last night, said he believed the subject could wait until the regular session, apparently going on the assumption that action then would be in plenty of time to affect the 1940 primaries.

Matter to Be Discussed.

When it was called to his attention that the mayoralty primaries will be held next February, Mr. Horner said the matter would be discussed further.

A new name for the chairmanship of the state central committee cropped up in the gossip today—that of Committeeman Kenneth Elmore of Quincy. Heretofore, Harry Hershey of Taylorville and Joseph E. Knight of Dow were receiving most attention. Elmore is said to have strong supporters urging the governor to back him.

500 PARENTS CHEER AND BOO IN CRYSTAL LAKE SCHOOL ROW

Booing and cheering, 500 parents fired criticisms and suggestions at Principal D. M. Ewing and the school board last night at a meeting in the high school at Crystal Lake. The meeting was the aftermath of a strike of pupils over the dismissal of Glen Winterringer, science teacher, which school officials said has been ended without the teacher's reinstatement.

Pupils invited by the parents to represent each class made these complaints against the principal: That he called one boy Half Pint; that he said another boy absent from assembly probably was out walking with his girl friend, and that he told the pupils to get back in their stalls when he wished them to take their seats. Edward Cernocky told the rest of the patrons they didn't discipline their children. The school board then walked out when Cernocky was shouted down.

NATIONAL THIRD PARTY HELD AIM OF LA FOLLETTE

Break with Roosevelt Is Called Significant.

BY THORNTON SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., April 21.—[Special.]—The belief that Gov. Phil La Follette definitly is launching a national third party movement was expressed by Wisconsin politicians tonight as the executive went on the air with his third speech in a series of broadcast criticisms against President Roosevelt.

The governor continued his fault finding tonight. He compared Roosevelt with Herbert Hoover as spending public money just to mark time until prosperity returns. La Follette called it "waiting for a miracle." The governor closed with an appeal to listeners to write him their views, inferring, it was believed, that this is a good time to get on the bandwagon.

Seek to Head Movement.

Political students in the state have deduced from the governor's latest activities that he and his brother, Senator Robert, sense the extent to which the President has lost strength with the public. The brothers are seizing this opportunity, it was further believed, to shove Roosevelt right out of the picture as a potential leader of a new political group, and place themselves at the head of the movement.

It was surmised that the governor has worked out a plan, whether it be good or bad, with a popular appeal which he hopes will fuse the many malcontents, especially those dissatisfied with the present form of government and those great numbers who expect to receive something free from the federal government.

Discusses Recovery Plan.

In the first of his series of four speeches, delivered Tuesday night, Gov. La Follette pointed to Wisconsin's record for dealing with social and economic problems and discussed the general need for a recovery plan. Wednesday night he placed the blame of the depression directly on Mr. Roosevelt. He also implied that Wisconsin knows the key to recovery and the way to prosperity.

"Wisconsin alone," he said, "has found constructive answers to two of the profound world wide problems of our time."

One of these, he explained, is the way to preserve Democratic government and at the same time get things done. The other, he added, is how to take collective action without stifling the initiative and self reliance of the individual. This implied Wisconsin solution is expected to be the foundation of the La Follette appeal for support in behalf of the new party.

In reviewing the manner in which the governor is seemingly building up to a climax in his series, it was believed he may reveal his own political aspirations in his speech tomorrow night.

KEEPING IT QUIET

By CALEB

A GOOD deal has been said and written about the noise in modern cities, and the consequent wear and tear on the citizens' nerves. But the other day a college professor announced at the end of a series of tests that sounds in the average home make the needles on his recording devices cut up more didos than the busiest downtown street.

The noisiest household noise was four decibels louder than the biggest downtown disturbances. It was occasioned—you've guessed it—by banging the dishpan against sink or radiator. Compared to the highest street noise of 105 decibels, breaking dishes registered 102; a handful of silverware on the way to the table was recorded at 68 decibels.

An argument across the table grew to 90 decibels in intensity, while a slamming door registered 98! The report didn't specify, but it seems not unlikely the instruments might have been shattered at the advent of two or three young sons and daughters home for lunch in a hurry.

Science has turned its attention to the home more and more in the past few years—with important results. This new excursion into the subject of fatigue induced by unnecessary noise, opens up some interesting new possibilities—first of which is a rubber dishpan.

But it all stresses again that housekeeping done in the modern sense is a business. One authority has pointed out that poor planning and arrangement in a household may easily cause a woman to walk a hundred needless, fatiguing miles in a year of housework.

The right approach to this business of housekeeping is the standard method of modern business—careful analysis and long-term planning. Each housewife becomes president and general manager of a going concern. Her plans for its improvement and efficiency are laid carefully on the basis of available budgets and other considerations. But they extend over a long period of time, with each unit worked out in advance.

Every day we are called into executive meetings with the presiding officers from a good many homes. Usually we are able to draw on our rather broad experience and render some service in the important business of long-term planning for the home.

FATHER BLAMES KNIFE SLAYING ON BOY'S MOTHER

Danielsen Takes Stand to Defend Son.

being questioned by police for hours after the killing, the father said he believes that his son was induced to agree to statements about which he could not be certain. There were scratches on young Danielsen's face when he was arrested in a Madison street hotel the morning after the slaying.

The father described in detail the spells which Mrs. Danielsen had suffered several times a year following her son's birth. Other defense witnesses partially corroborated this testimony.

Tells Family History.

The questions of Defense Attorney Leonard C. Reid and the replies on this point follow:

Q.—After Teddy was born did you notice any change in your wife? A.—Ever since his birth there were times when she was highly nervous. She would brood for several days and then would have spells of hysteria and scream.

Q.—What brought on these spells? A.—Ordinary things which would happen time and time again without upsetting her would suddenly cause her to fly into a rage and to lose all control over herself. She would throw things, pinch, fight, and scream. At such times she had tremendous strength in her arms.

Q.—After they were over what would happen? A.—She would be just as nice and loving as could be. She would sit on the arm of my chair.

Never Spoke of Illness.

Q.—Did you ever speak to her about these spells? A.—I never recalled them to her. In fact, I never spoke about them to any one, even my own brothers. I knew it was something she could not control.

Danielson's voice had become so low that even the judge could not hear all of his words. He did not break down, but was visibly affected. Judge Harrington continued.

Q.—During these spells, did you ever see her exhibit any violent tendencies toward the boy? A.—Never.

Q.—Did she have any in his presence? A.—Yes. He would go into the other room. I told him to overlook it.

Truancy Brings on Spell.

Q.—On the occasion when you talked to the boy about his truancy, did your wife have a spell- A.—Yes, a serious one.

This related to a point on which state and defense agree—that it was Danielsen's ten weeks of truancy since last fall that led up to the slaying. When he told his mother on March 3 that he still was playing hookey, she upbraided him, seized him by the shoulders, and scratched his face, calling him names, his confession states.

Although the boy left the house with books under his arm on week days, and was in fact going to the Schurz High school, he did not attend classes. He spent his time in the school library and assembly halls.

On Feb. 13, Mrs. Danielsen received a note from school authorities informing her that Theodore had not been there that month. The boy told her it was a mistake. At the end of February there was another note. The father arranged to visit the school on March 1, but his wife told him the boy had reported to her that the matter was "all straightened out," he testified.

Nervous Before Tragedy.

"Did it ever occur to you that Teddy might have apprehended letters from the school?" Judge Harrington asked.

"It never entered my mind," the father said.

Young Danielsen had become nervous in the weeks before the slaying. Instead of beating his father at ping-pong, his father won nearly all the games in their basement recreation room, Danielsen Sr. testified. The boy did not seem to sleep well and "danced around with nervousness" when telling his father about a moving picture he had seen.

A schoolmate, Burton Dayment, 15 years old, of 5213 Ludlam avenue, testified that Theodore was so "jumpy" a week before the slaying that in the school lunchroom [during his truancy] he had to sip his soup from the bowl because his hands shook.

Marriage Delayed Four Years.

Danielsen told how his marriage was postponed four years until Sept. 10, 1916, because his future wife suffered an attack of infantile paralysis in 1911. Theodore was not born until they had been married six years. He weighed only three pounds and fourteen ounces at birth, and required special food for years.

Danielsen testified that his boy was always lively and that his mother provided him with a sandbox in the back yard when he was small. Later the father, employed by A. G. Spalding company's retail store on State street, said he bought him more athletic equipment than any other neighborhood boy had.

"The relations between the son and the mother were excellent," the father testified. "I can truthfully say she did more for him than many mothers do for their children."

Never Complained About Piano.

He said the boy, who was close to him, never complained about the daily piano practice that had been his chore since he was 6 years old. He practiced in the morning, after school, and after dinner, a total of about two hours. He was called in from play for this purpose.

The mother's exacting attitude on this subject and others—an important point in the defense because of alleged effects upon the boy's mind—was described in greater detail by other witnesses.

Two of these were the piano teachers who have given Theodore his lessons for the last ten years.

Mrs. Myrtle Swan, 4832½ Madison street, said she was struck by the situation she found at the Danielsen home when Teddy took his first lessons from her in 1928.

Presence Upsets Boy.

"I found that his mother made the boy nervous by watching him at his lesson," she testified. "When he made a mistake he would look imploringly at her, not at me. She became angry over his mistakes and wanted him to practice longer, although he had very small hands."

The boy always obeyed his mother without question. Yet, when he once was slow in washing his hands, she went to the bathroom and shook him violently, Mrs. Swan said.

Miss Maybelle C. Dodds, whose home and studio are in the Kimball building, also took the witness stand. She has been his piano teacher since 1933, and has prepared him for a number of recitals.

"Teddy never seemed nervous about my instruction, but was always apprehensive about his mother's excited comments," she said. "She broke in on the lessons to criticize. Once she came screaming from the kitchen with her hands clenched. She said I was doing it all wrong. When I attempted to leave she broke into tears and begged me to stay."

Outbursts Were Frequent.

Such outbursts were frequent, she said.

The boy's fine record in Sunday school was told by the Rev. Frederick Lindenmayr, pastor of the Jefferson Park Lutheran church. He said he has seen the boy at least 1,500 times during the last ten years.

"From your years of close association with boys, how would you explain this case?" Judge Harrington asked him.

Danielsen was chairman of the entertainment committee of the church young people's society, the president, Walter Busch, 15 years old, 5331 Lynch avenue, testified.

Mrs. Helen Clausen, sister of the slain woman, also testified for the defense. She comes from a farm in Fond du Lac county, Wisconsin.

Still Fond of Boy.

"Are you still fond of Ted," Attorney Reid asked.

"I am! I still am!" she declared with emotion.

This question was also asked of other witnesses, including Mrs. Elsie Grabo, 5311 Ludlam avenue, a neighbor, and the school boys. All replied that they still like the boy. All told of his courtesy and of the love they believed he felt toward his mother. Their testimony caused Danielsen to lose his woebegone expression for a while.

As on Wednesday, there were several classes of school children in the courtroom. Yesterday they were from St. Barnabas parochial school and included Judge Harrington's son, Cornelius Jr., 13 years old. Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach talked to these eighth-graders in a low voice while several minor cases were disposed of in the morning before the Danielsen case was resumed.

"You see in these cases, and in the Danielsen case, that the law always catches up with you sooner or later," he told them. "Stay out of little troubles, like truancy, because they often lead to serious troubles, and to crime."

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—Edith Barrett, the rollicking serving wench in "The Shoemaker's Holiday" will be married Saturday morning to Vincent Price, young actor who achieved distinction as Helen Hayes' leading man in "Victoria Regina." The ceremony will be performed at St. Thomas church. They are appearing together in "Holiday."

Miss Barrett is the granddaughter of the famous Lawrence Barrett, rival and friend of Booth. Wearying of "purity" rôles, she flatly refused for a whole season to take a job unless it was "a rôle with guts."

Price is the young actor who, in 1935, only two years out of Yale, found himself in one of Broadway's choicest parts, playing the prince consort to Miss Hayes' Victoria.

Harry Gross, contributing to delinquency of a child, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; John Robinson, rape, sentenced to 18 years in the penitentiary by Judge George Fred Rush.

William F. Gillmeister, a former state senator, was sentenced yesterday to 60 days in the Bridewell and fined $200 by Judge Robert Jerome Dunne in Criminal court for operating a confidence game. Gillmeister was arrested in December when former policemen advised Mayor Kelly that he had told them he was commisisoned to collect $500 from each of 65 former policemen and 35 former firemen for restoration of their jobs. It was represented that the money was to go to the Chicago Christmas Benefit fund. The mayor had Gillmeister arrested and testified against him in a bench trial on April 4.

FORMER JUDGE, AT 76, MARRIES A FOURTH TIME

Former Judge Charles P. Barnes of McHenry county was passing cigars among his townsfolk in Woodstock yesterday after announcing his marriage in Clinton, Ia., Wednesday, to Mrs. Elizabeth De Vries of 263 Washington boulevard, Oak Park. Judge Barnes is 76 years old and his bride is 48. It was his fourth marriage.

The ceremony was performed by District Judge D. V. Jackson of Clinton. Judge Barnes' daughter-in-law, Mrs. C. Percy Barnes of Woodstock acted as one of the witnesses. Judge Barnes practiced law in McHenry county for nearly fifty-five years.

BOYS TAKE OVER CITY OF CHICAGO AND RUN THINGS FOR AN HOUR

Mayor Kelly retired from office under pressure yesterday. The pressure lasted only an hour, however. It was supplied by sixty-five boys of the American Boys' Commonwealth, Albany Park Boys' club, and Deborah Boys' club who took over the administration at the city hall. Jack Michlin, 16 years old, 2601 Haddon avenue, became mayor. George Levinson, 16, of 2553 Division street, became police commissioner. The others formed the city council. The main concern of the sixty minute reign of youth was reduction of juvenile crime.

The stunt was part of Chicago's Youth week program. During the morning eight youths of the Manley Men's club took over administration of education at Manley High school, 2935 Polk street.

TIPSY HUSBAND SHOOTS WIFE IN SPAT OVER MEAL

Because George Heinold had been drinking, his stepdaughter and step-granddaughter did not invite him in last night when they cooked dinner and carried it to the sickroom of his wife, Anna, 63 years old, in the home at 7201 South Campbell avenue.

Heinold, who is 66, fired through the closed door with a shotgun, wounding Mrs. Heinold so severely that Dr. Robert Thoma, attending her after she was taken to Holy Cross hospital, said he feared she could not recover. The couple's stepdaughter and her daughter were not injured. They are Mrs. Erna Rathert, 39, of 6742 South Claremont avenue, and Miss Lucile Hansen, 24, who lives with the Heinolds.

Police, who had been called by Mrs. Rathert when Heinold became threatening, arrived just after the shooting. Heinold surrendered to them.

Finish Canvass of Votes in Three Election Classes

Canvass of primary votes for congressional, state and county offices in precincts under the jurisdiction of the board of election commissioners was concluded yesterday. John S. Rusch, clerk of the board, said the canvass of state senatorial district votes will be finished today. He said the proclamation of the total votes for all offices probably will be made late next week.

LET GOOD TIMES COME BACK.

The house of representatives has recovery on its hands. By the stubborn action of its members on a conference committee it is preventing the repeal of a tax law which has paralyzed the business of the country. The senate bill, which the house group has held up, would provide the powerful stimulus needed to turn business up. A parade of business men, big and little, friends of the administration as well as foes, even representatives of organized labor, united in telling a senate committee that a voidance of the surplus earnings tax and modification of the capital gains tax were conditions precedent to an upturn in business.

Other methods have failed entirely. Last November the President proposed to the country that the fastest relapse in history, which was then gathering momentum, should be stopped in its tracks by a building boom. Five months have elapsed and not only are there scant signs of renewed construction, but the consensus is that the amount of building work done this year will fall below last year's poor record. Business meanwhile goes steadily downhill.

Now the proposal is to prime the pump. Public money is to be paid in increasing amounts to certain groups, and the banks, which cannot find borrowers for the funds they could already lend under previously existing regulations, have had their lending facilities expanded.

These steps will not help more than the conversation about more building did. Money is in great abundance. It simply isn't being used. Individuals and corporations have 52 billion dollars in their bank accounts on which they can draw. That is 3 billions more than they had on the average during the seven prosperity years from 1923 to 1929.

With approximately as much money in banks as there was last March, the aggregate of bank checks drawn last month in 101 leading cities was down 10 billion dollars. What is needed is not more money or more power to lend money, but to create conditions that will encourage people to employ the money they already have.

People are afraid to use their money, afraid even to spend as much for ordinary living expenses as they spent last year. Business, big and little, is paralyzed by the continuous attacks from the government; repeated restrictive laws, especially punitive taxes. Some of the country's best informed government officials, such as Senator Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, and Senator Glass, President Wilson's secretary of the treasury, agree with business leaders, bankers, labor leaders, and economists that the most important cause of the paralysis of business is the act of congress of 1936 which put a confiscatory tax on the funds which corporations retained for business expansion out of any year's earnings. By general agreement the repeal of that tax is the first step to be taken if the end of the depression is seriously desired.

Although leaving something to be desired, the senate's bill would get rid of the worst of the taxes. The house of representatives in its own bill has insisted upon the principle of the odious tax. The house will have to back down and accept the senate bill if the business depression is not to be prolonged indefinitly.

SINK HOLES OF PUBLIC MONEY.

The decision of the federal authority to abandon operations of the Illinois and Mississippi [Hennepin] canal ought to be followed by the abandonment of other sink holes of federal money. The Hennepin with its thirty-two locks has been unprofitable as a waterway for years, but it is only one of hundreds of similar affairs kept going at the expense of taxpayers without adequate return to the public. They ought all to be shut down as some relief to the nation staggering under a growing burden of public debt.

In the case of the Hennepin the abandonment of an unused waterway may result in an important addition to the arterial highway system and public recreational facilities of the state.

A VACATION THAT WILL LAST.

Enrollment for this summer's citizens' military training camps began Monday. It will continue for thirty days and the quota for Cook county is only 1,200. Youths and young men—the age limits are from 17 to 24—who wish a vacation that will be much more than a vacation would better make prompt application, for each year there are more applications than places.

No wonder. The government provides transportation to the camps, which are in attractive locations, and home again. It provides board, lodging, uniforms, equipment, medical attention, laundry service free of charge. Thus a youth of the right sort can have a month's vacation without expense and an experience whose benefits will last. He will enter a comradeship of which he should be proud. He will have skilled training and instruction which, if war comes, will give him advantages over his untrained fellows. In his mornings he will have military drill and instructions and lectures on appropriate topics. He will begin to learn what an army is. In the afternoons he will have sports. At the end of the month he will know that he has had more than a good time. He will know that he has had an experience that may be made to count for his welfare throughout his life. He will know that he belongs to the great tradition of democratic citizenship.

It is a pity congress does not provide for every young man in the nation who wishes to have this experience. The training camps are one of the best investments a republic could make. But until that fact comes home to congress the reward will go to the most alert. The Cook county quota should be soon made up.

NEW DECISIONS IN EUROPE.

The supporters of Mr. Chamberlain's government and policy are making the best and the most of the newly signed accord with Italy and his opponents are making the worst of it. The critics think that the course of the prime minister is dishonorable as well as disastrous; that he surrenders vital principles and gets nothing in return other than the vaguest of promises which will be forgotten and pledges of good faith which will be betrayed.

Mr. Chamberlain's defense can be that he didn't make the conditions with which he has to deal; that the league of nations could not remake the world with which it was confronted, and that, like it or not, the peace of Europe is in the hands of dictatorial men with whom one must have either understandings which may provide for peace or misunderstandings which may lead to war.

Mr. Chamberlain is not the first European statesman to say that he will not go to war for a strip of Africa, for a people whose freedom he cannot find closely knit to the welfare of the British empire, or for ideals admirable in themselves but of small material value to the people of Great Britain, who might have to die to sustain them. A man at the head of a representative government might often question the certainty of his ideas regarding right and wrong and feel that he was on surer ground when he dealt with the question of public welfare. The alternatives of history present questions interesting to academic thought but always leading nowhere. Decisions have to be made in matters of great moment. There is never a guarantee that the course of action taken was the one of the greatest wisdom. That is why nearly every debate on public policy is so puzzling. Opposite sides can be made equally persuasive.

Only one thing seems to be fairly clear cut. The wisdom of the decision may be found in the thoroughness with which it is pressed and executed. Even a wrong direction vigorously taken may come to a better end than will be attained by stumbling over a better road. That has been illustrated time and again in the treatment of the present troublesome dictatorships in the last few years. If the road which Mr. Chamberlain has abandoned were the better one, any advantages it offered were lost by the irresolution of the nations which had committed themselves to travel it. That is apparent now, even if it were not at the time. Whatever chance of inducing Japan to abide by what the western nations regard as its treaty obligations in China was lost when the British government refused to cooperate with our own secretary of state, Mr. Stimson, in Manchuria. That may not have been the better way even then, but it was the one to which the nations were committed and it was to be adopted then or to be forever forgotten. The nations were worse than irresolute. They reneged on their own policy. For the British Manchuria was not South China and the policy of seeking stability by treaty arrangements was destroyed in the far east.

When Mussolini decided that he would have Ethiopia regardless of any treaty obligations, the question was whether he should be allowed to go ahead or stop. The nations opposed to him said one thing and did another. They ordered him to desist and refused to use the force which would stop him. Whether their decision was good or bad, their manner of applying it was so wrong that it would have made the best reasoned policy a disaster.

When Hitler began to test his new strength against the league of nations each of his maneuvers required a decision, principally on the part of Great Britain and France. When he decided to rearm it was necessary to permit it or stop it. The decision was to do nothing. When he entered the demilitarized Rhine district the dilemma was whether to act instantly and throw him out or to acquiesce. He was allowed to take military possession. When Italy and Germany decided to overthrow the Spanish government the question was whether to throw them out or allow them to win. Here France and Great Britain pretended to be getting them out while allowing them to go ahead.

Every one of the decisions made from 1931 to the present moment prepared the way for what Mr. Chamberlain is now trying to do. If Hitler and Mussolini cannot be intimidated, coerced, or bound by the treaties disadvantageous to them, it would appear that the peace of Europe depends upon coming to such understandings with them as will satisfy them without endangering the essential interests and the general welfare of the nations which make friends with them. Even that now may not work. The conflict may be irreconcilable, partly because of the restlessness inherent in dictatorial egotisms. Men of the Hitler-Mussolini type cannot keep quiet. Grand adventure gets in their blood and it also becomes a requisite of their control. Constant aggrandizement is necessary for success. Even if some of their people incline to tire and begin to weary, the tactics of dictatorship are necessarily theatrical and demand that the population be always running a fever. Peaceable government may be a humdrum affair and the ruler a man of tedious routine and little acclaim except for the laying of corner stones and the visiting of orphan asylums. Hitler and Mussolini cannot be restricted within that narrow circle. They belong to the Alexander myth of more worlds to conquer.

"Dizzy Dean Is Here."

Dr. Stock—"Papa" Stock in affectionate parlance—directed the orchestra in the last children's concert of the season this week and was full of jokes and fantasy, probably relieved that his own grown-up daughter, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is improving. When Beethoven's Fifth Symphony was played, he suggested the children hum the tune. They didn't do it very well, so he suggested they sing words. "Sing 'Dizzy Dean is here,'" he intoned from the podium. And the children sang lustily to Beethoven "Dizzy Dean is here."

What I Want to Be.

(By a sixth grade pupil.)

I would like to be an old maid when I get big. But I don't want to work. I want to be lazy. But I would also like to be a teacher, too. So I can get some money to travel. I haven't decided which I want to be. An old maid or a teacher.

LOVE SONG from Mickey to Minnie Mouse (suggested by Betty Mae Wells): "Squeak Your Heart."

Something Was Expected of Audiences, Too.

What was expected of genius in Mozart's time, as set forth in a program for a concert he gave at Mantua (from an old copy of the Etude):

A symphony of his own.
A piano concert to be read by him at sight.
A sonata to which he should add variations, with repeat in a new key.
The words of a song which he should sing, improvising both melody and accompaniment.
Themes given by the audience upon which he should make a sonata and a fugue.
A trio for which he would improvise the violin part.
Another of his symphonies in conclusion.

Color Blind Artist.

A tall, blond, dreamy-looking young man seen entering the Fine Arts building frequently is John Pratt, one of Chicago's versatile young artists. Painter, ikon maker, costumer—he is costume director for the Federal Art theater in Chicago—Mr. Pratt is color blind. He has exhibited in a number of Art institute shows, and at the Roullier galleries. His latest creations are the "blown glass" costumes to be used by Vincenzo Celli and his company in their ballet "Blown Glass Figurines," to be given at the Studebaker Sunday. Because cellophane is the only material that has the appearance of glass, new costumes have to be made after each performance of the number.

The one I most would like to drown
Is he who bleats "Your Chicago and mine,"
As if, my Gawd, it were something divine!

Or hand a dime to West Madison bums?
Did he ever sniff the stockyards stench,
Ever encounter a starving wench?
Oh, no! not he, the poor romantic!
To him, of course, I sound fanatic!
Well, okay mister, I had to blab it;
It's your Chicago . . . and you can have it!

Lilydale.

One of the interesting sections of Chicago is Lilydale, the Negro community that lies on either side of South State street, between 93d and 97th streets. Lilydale, with its little frame houses, cottages, and gardens, is like a sleepy southern town. Gas lights are still used for street illumination, and after 9 p. m. the community is asleep. Its population is 100 per cent colored and has the highest percentage of home ownership of any Chicago district. Most of the homes were built by the residents themselves.

LILYDALE originally was a Swedish settlement, and truck gardening was the principal activity. Some twenty years ago a real estate firm subdivided the land and Negroes flocked there. There were 300 in 1920. There are 1,400 now. The old community lies west of State street. There is a social distinction between the residents east of the tracks and those who live west, who are postal employés and teachers and civil service employés. Stockyards and steel mill workers, Pullman shop employés and domestic workers live west of State street. A survey of Lilydale is being made under the direction of W. Lloyd Warner, professor of sociology and anthropology at the University of Chicago, and Horace Caton, formerly research assistant, by the WPA as a part of a general survey of the Negro in Chicago.

A CHICAGOAN NAMED HERBERT SHIMP went to a roadhouse near French Lick recently, and after dinner dropped $5 worth of quarters in the slot machine without getting a return. Turning to the attendant, he inquired how often the jackpot paid.

"I couldn't say, sir," said the honest lad. "I've only been here two years."

FOOD ADAGES—TRUE AND FALSE.

THE old adage, "Good digestion waits on appetite and good health on both," holds today. Of course, we mean an appetite that is normal—one that is satisfied with wholesome edibles. Old Dr. John Armstrong, in his poem on the art of preserving health, tells us how necessary food is to the body when absorbed into the blood—"warming and nourishing every part."

With most of us hunger is a safer guide than any bill of fare. Animals instinctively seek and find sustenance that is suitable. Otherwise existing species would have become extinct centuries ago. Nevertheless, there are those who believe that every natural desire of the stomach is abnormal—unholy; that we should be obliged to mortify ourselves with this or that nutriment just because some one has said "it is good for you." I know many an obese person who conscientiously will omit butter while loading up on carbohydrates that supply more calories than ten times the amount of fat ordinarily consumed. The result is that many such are missing important chemical elements.

Another grossly slandered, yet valuable, article is the potato. "I never eat potatoes because they contain so much starch" is heard on every hand. But the one who forgoes a luscious baked tuber is likely to consume a generous slice of cake that supplies a dozen times as much starch and sugar.

Corn [maize] is an American product—one that does not find its way into nearly as many homes as it should. We have cornbread, muffins, cakes, and mush served with cream or fried lightly and decorated with a teaspoonful or two of maple sirup. Of course, we must not depend on this cereal for our proteins, but with a little meat, milk, and butter, it will take care of practically all human requirements.

Onions—because they are so odoriferous and tasty—form the basis of many diets. Some time ago a very intelligent woman informed me solemnly that she was cured of gallstones by eating a large helping of stewed onions each day. There is no food, medicine, or anything else that will dissolve such concretions. If she gained in health after her orgy some other difficulty was responsible—not bowlders in the gall bladder.

Is garlic a blood purifier? Probably not. Are carrot, onion, or beet juices remedies for every ill? No, indeed. I have been told by one that tomatoes cause cancer; by another, that they cure it; that eating liver will bring on jaundice as well as relieve it.

None of these statements is true, or approximately so. I was once consulted by an extremely thin woman who complained of fatigue which was constant and persistent. Because she was afraid of becoming obese she had omitted all starches from the diet. She had been following this plan for nearly two years. Her blood sugar was found to be abnormally low. All that was needed was to eat more. I suggested a tablespoonful of glucose [corn sirup] three times daily and an additional dose in the middle of the afternoon. In a month her fatigue practically had disappeared. A gradual increase in her menu dissipated her symptoms entirely.

When a child rushes into the house in the afternoon with, "Please, mother, may I have a slice of bread and butter and brown sugar?" he is simply asking for enough energy to continue play. If he presents no digestive problem and is free from diabetes, the request is a normal, hygienic demand—one that may be met with safety and with great benefit to the youngster.

I draw the line at bird's nest soup, but little else. The essentials to be watched—as most of us know—are quantity and balance. We can starve on cornbread alone or upon almost any one dish. But add a little variety and all is well. Some day our faddists will succumb to starvation—that is, if they practice what they preach.

CONTINUE TREATMENTS.

R. W. writes: About a year ago I suffered from a partial facial paralysis on the right side. The face now looks normal but it doesn't feel right. When I try to chew on the affected side my eye seems to draw down. My eye tears quite a bit and I get headaches on that side of the face. Do you think electric treatments or massage would help me? I have been under a doctor's care all this time.

REPLY.

You apparently had what is known as Bell's palsy with involvement of the seventh nerve or some of its branches. As a result, the muscles supplied by this nerve were paralyzed. By all means continue treatments. The fact that your face has returned to its normal appearance is highly encouraging. Massage and electrotherapy are excellent remedial measures.

MIDDLE EAR INFECTION.

M. M. writes: About every four weeks I develop a dull earache—sometimes in the right and sometimes in the left ear. What would cause this in a woman of 46 who is otherwise well? After two or three applications of warm oil there is a discharge and the pain disappears. During the attack I am deaf in the affected ear.

REPLY.

Trouble in the middle ear. If there is a discharge it means that the drum has perforated. The warm oil softens the plug over the opening, permitting the pus to escape. I would advise a careful examination by your physician. Infections of this sort usually enter via the Eustachian tube, which leads from the throat to the middle ear. Keep the throat clear of harmful microbes by means of mild antiseptic gargles.

DIET IN GOUT CASES.

L. F. writes: What foods should not be eaten in gout?

REPLY.

As far as practicable, all nitrogenous or albuminous substances should be reduced in quantity. Undesirable foods and drinks are: pastry, condiments, veal, sweetbreads, liver, kidney, smoked meats or fish, alcohol, and coffee. Most vegetables may be taken except mushrooms, asparagus, spinach, beans, and peas. Send a stamped addressed envelope for a low purin diet, applicable to gout.

FAILS TO TELL AGE.

L. F. writes: What can I do to increase my height?

REPLY.

You do not state your age. As a rule, growth ceases about the age of 20 and little can be done thereafter. You can gain a half inch or so by cultivating an erect posture. An additional lift or two on the heels of the shoes will help.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

A SOUTHERN WOMAN ON THE NEW DEAL.

Chicago, April 18.—Good for you, Jess Harlow, for voicing those sentiments on Herbert Hoover. Those have always been my sentiments, and we who really have common sense realize he was at an awful disadvantage while in the White House with no Republican support in congress. At least he didn't do too much, as the present leader has, and is trying to do with his senseless experiments which cost so many millions and have caused this recession due to our fear of what he is going to do next. It is disgusting to hear people say Hoover did nothing to help the country, isn't it?

I also want to challenge the party who wrote in this column that there are no real Democrats who have turned against the New Deal. I am a southerner and had the old Democratic traditions instilled since childhood, but I feel real pride in being a good American, and, regardless of party, voting as my common sense tells me to. I am the only one among seven children who is not still for Roosevelt, and it shames me that my brother and sisters cannot have the foresight and common sense to realize what a state this glorious country of ours is now in because of the many crazy moves of the President. Forget your party duties, Mr. and Mrs. Citizen, and let's put a successful, economical business man in to run our affairs next time. I should like to see Henry Ford at our helm, or some one like him who uses his head wisely.

Isn't it senseless, too, the New Dealers saying business is purposely holding back. Wouldn't that be cutting off their noses to spite their faces? They want to see business go ahead as well as you or I. Here is a middle classer who is for big business being let alone by the government. After all it is they who pay our salaries, enabling us to eat and have shelter, even though it isn't much just now.

MADGE CARSON.

A PLEA FOR BETTER CAR SERVICE.

Chicago, April 20.—The North Western's "400" covers the 85 mile distance between Chicago and Milwaukee in 75 minutes. It requires more than an hour of waiting, straphanging, jolting, and crowding to negotiate the 10 mile stretch between the loop and Austin avenue on the Milwaukee avenue car line. If any city in this land of the free and home of the brave has a more inhumane and barbaric public transportation muddle than we have here in Chicago, the best we can do is offer our heartfelt sympathies.

It would be most unreasonable to expect a street car ride to be a soothing experience. But why should Chicago people be so unmercifully penalized, both as to time required and conditions imposed, in going from one place to another within the city?

WHY NOT PAVE IT ALL?

Chicago, April 20.—Why do the politicians fool around with paving just about half of Lincoln park? Why not pave the whole thing, along with the rest of the country? However, they should be sure not to put in any sidewalks or provide any means of crossing these roads by pedestrians. Let those who own automobiles have fast runways from one end of Chicago to the other, but don't let the "have-nots" get across the street without risking their lives.

GERRY BRUCE.

BUT IT'S NOT SO WARM NOW.

Chicago, April 18.—I am seriously thinking of starting a new club in Chicago, to be known as "Let's Get Them off before July Fourth club." No, I'm not referring to red flannels, but to overcoats. As a newcomer here from the west I have been struck with the way in which Chicago men hang on to their coats in sunny weather.

Just to illustrate: The other day loop thermometers were standing at 75 degrees. The sun was shining brightly, so that it was at least 85 in the sun. A lovely spring day. Kids were playing on school grounds in their shirt sleeves. Yet in walking four blocks in the loop I saw forty-one men with topcoats and overcoats on and some with winter mufflers. Many of these were heavy double-breasted overcoats. The hotter Old Sol beat down, the tighter they seemed to button them up.

Sunday morning, on a hot train—so hot that even the conductor was trying to cool it off—at least ten men on our car sat in overcoats as if afraid a breath of fresh air might strike them.

Men—let's welcome spring without fear. Let's get the spirit of youth which isn't afraid to get out without an overcoat and an umbrella and other accouterments when spring days come.

SPENDING IS NATIONAL SUICIDE.

Sumter, S. C., April 14.—Unwilling to insure the return of public confidence and business recovery by the simple method of leaving business and agriculture alone, repealing all unsound taxes and forgetting social "reforms," the administration now proposes more spending to "prime the pump." This is unpardonable folly because:

1. It will not work. In the past it has failed.

2. It is not needed. There is ample capital in private hands ready to go to work when confidence is restored.

3. It will necessitate overwhelming taxes and perhaps the confiscation of private capital, thus preventing all hope of business recovery.

4. It will result in national bankruptcy and ruinous inflation.

5. It will destroy the savings, life insurance and investments of citizens.

6. Its real purpose is to help insure the election of New Deal congressmen this fall—NOT to help the needy, unemployed and business.

Every citizen should demand that his senators and congressmen vote to stop this suicidal spending.

STANLEY F. MORSE.

SKYROCKETING LICENSE FEES.

Chicago, April 19.—As operators of a wholesale food establishment we would like to voice a strong protest, through the medium of your newspaper, to the new scale of license fees now thrust upon business people of Chicago, increasing the fee of an establishment employing one to fifteen people 600 per cent. The former license fee was $25; present license fee, $150.

How a body of men intrusted with the welfare of the people who have elected them to office can perpetrate such a holdup under the seal of the mayor of Chicago is beyond the power of any decent citizen to understand. This new ordinance was apparently rushed through last August, during vacation time, and the first intimation taxpayers have is when they get their bill, after elections are over.

T. M. DUCHE & SONS, INC.

NO TOWNSEND PUMP.

Chicago, April 16.—I was very pleased to note that you mentioned Dr. Francis E. Townsend in the article entitled "Pump Priming" in THE TRIBUNE of April 15, 1938, but beg to advise that the Townsend plan is not a pump priming plan. The Townsend plan does not provide for paying any money to old folks; it does provide that old folks be given the right to distribute money every month to industry. If they do not pay out the money monthly they get none. Also the money given to the old folks for monthly distribution is not taken out of the United States treasury.

RICHARD J. JACKER.

DOES HISTORY REPEAT?

Bronson, Mich., April 19.—In 1848 our people rushed to California in the gold rush.

In 1938 the New Dealers are rushing to Kentucky to dig the gold.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, April 14.—[Friend of the People.]—A lady came to the United States on March 21, 1921, on a false passport and under a different name. She is married at present. She and her husband are not citizens. They have three children. Can she be deported to her own country; or in case her husband takes out citizenship papers, can she be deported or not? In a case like this, will the parties who let her use the passport of their daughter face any kind of punishment for that?

M. S.

Under the facts stated, it does not appear that she is subject to deportation. Under existing legislation, aliens who entered the United States prior to June 3, 1921, of whom there is no record of legal admission for permanent residence and who have not been absent from the United States since that time, may apply for legalization of their residence here. Further information and appropriate application blanks may be obtained at Room 718, New Postoffice building, Chicago.

It is not stated whether the daughter is in the United States and, if so, the date and manner of her entry is not given. If she is here, it is suggested that she call at the office of the immigration and naturalization service in order that her immigration status may be determined. She would not be subject to punishment.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Immigration and Naturalization, Chicago District.

ESTATE PROBATE.

Chicago, April 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am interested in an estate which concerns land in North Dakota. Deceased passed away nine years ago without leaving a will. Wife and three children will share in estate.

1. Is there any limited time for estate to be settled?

2. Will heirs lose out if it is not settled after a certain number of years? A. N.

1. Ordinarily an estate should be closed in about a year after the commencement of the probate proceedings if that is what you mean to ask.

2. No, in general, probate can be entirely dispensed with unless the nature of the assets or the problem of reducing them to possession necessitates probate.

JAPANESE RUSH HUGE NEW ARMY FOR WAR IN CHINA

Premier Visits Emperor; "No Need to Worry."

TOKIO, April 21.—(AP)—Japan, it was reported today, has moved regular army units into China from Manchukuo and is sending others from the homeland to avenge reverses in the nine month undeclared war.

Depots and trains were thronged with troops, but, since all war office matters are secret, the number of regulars being rushed to China was not disclosed. The army previously had used mostly second and third line reserves in China.

Today's troop movement was the first on a large scale in many months. Streets were filled with departing soldiers bidding farewell to their families, and the scenes are comparable to those of last September when Japan entered the conflict in earnest and began moving large home forces to the front.

Premier Returns to Duties.

The pulse of the capital quickened not only with the movement of men and munitions, but with the return of Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe to his official residence and the arrival of War Minister Gen. Gen Sugiyama from an extensive tour of the war fronts.

The premier had been away for nearly a month. He was ill, it was said, in his villa at the edge of Tokio. During his absence there was a sharp increase in political tension. The army was reported to have demanded further control in the wake of recent setbacks in China, and there were rumors of the premier's impending resignation. Konoe, however, was said to have refused the military demands and the resignation reports were denied.

Finds No Cause for Worry.

On his arrival today the premier said "there is no need to worry" about a clash between the government and militarists. He did say, however, that "the China question must be the basis for solution of all outstanding domestic problems."

The Domei [Japanese] News agency said it was believed the premier and the war minister now would confer on "internal policies to strengthen national unity."

Emperor Hirohito received the premier in a brief audience soon after the latter's return to his offices. An official announcement said merely that Konoe "reported on the status of matters under his jurisdiction."

Gen. Sugiyama's return to Tokio ended an airplane tour of war zones which covered 2,400 miles. He first visited the North China fronts early this month. Afterward he returned to Tokio and then visited Shanghai.

Japs Open Flank Attack.

SHANGHAI, April 22.—[Friday.]—(AP)—Reinvigorated Japanese troops pushed south from captured Lini today for a sweeping flank attack on the Talerchwang-Yihsien sector of the Central China front where Japan suffered a major defeat early this month.

With the Japanese in full possession of Lini after five days of heavy bombardment which culminated in intense street fighting, the Chinese sought new defensive positions in the hill country south and southwest of the ancient walled city.

Unable to endure continuous artillery and aerial attacks on open positions, the Chinese were reported forming small mobile columns in order to take full advantage of natural protection afforded by the rough terrain.

Ordered to Aid Yihsien.

The Japanese were ordered to break through the Chinese line—not only to "redeem Talerchwang," about forty miles away, but also to relieve 5,000 Japanese beleaguered for nearly two weeks in the walled town of Yihsien, twenty-four miles northwest of Talerchwang. They hauled up light artillery to support the thrust of the main force down the valley of the Yi river from Lini. Planes coöperated in the drive.

One Japanese column was cutting directly toward Yihsien from Feihsien, twenty-two miles northwest of Lini, in a right wing protective action.

A renewed drive southward along the Tientsin-Pukow railway toward Suchow, its junction with the east-west Lunghai railway, was awaited as an important supplement to the renewed offensive. Suchow is about seventy miles southwest of Lini.

The Chinese command was reported to be moving heavy reënforcements into Southern Shantung to meet the Japanese offensive.

THE CRIME CLOCK

Chicago's Record Since Jan. 1

"Half of all the crimes in Cook county are committed by repeaters."—The Chicago Crime commission.

AFTER 27 DAYS POLICE ASK TIME TO SOLVE KILLING

Have No Trace of Shuler Slayer, They Admit.

Twenty-seven days after Edward A. Shuler was assassinated in a shooting attributed by police to his union activities, the inquest into the murder was continued again yesterday. Police and the state's attorney's office admitted the killers had never been traced and asked more time to search for them.

This admission by the authorities came 70 days after Lloyd Rourke was beaten to death with a baseball bat in the Del Prado hotel strike on the south side. The police and state's attorney's men said they are still investigating, but that the Rourke murder was likewise still unsolved.

Seek Mysterious Stranger.

Capt. Harry O'Connell of the North avenue police said his men were still searching for the stranger who left the City National Bank building at 208 South La Salle street with Shuler a few hours before Shuler was found shot to death in front of 2222 Ohio street on March 25. Shuler, a member of local 399 of the International Union of Operating Engineers, was employed as an engineer at the bank building.

His wife, Madelyn, who lives at 1442 East Marquette road, has charged that her husband was threatened for months before the murder because of his activities in the union. She attended the resumption of the inquest at the county morgue yesterday, and heard James J. Whalen, deputy coroner, continue it until May 27.

Wren Publishes a Letter.

Richard J. Wren, president of the union local, made public a letter he sent to the members in which he defined the local's position regarding the murder. He praised Shuler, who was a leader in a faction opposed to him, and said the facts had been maliciously misconstrued.

"Local No. 399 deplores the foul play that was meted out to Brother Shuler," the letter said. "Every effort has been made and will continue to be made by the officers of the local to coöperate to the fullest extent with the police in the apprehension of the person or persons responsible for the crime."

ROB GARAGE SAFE OF $75.

An armed robber forced Floyd McNabb, attendant in the Alpert garage, 110 North Wacker drive, to open the door of the safe early yesterday, and took $75.

BROKER VICTIMS TELL OF LOSSES TO GRAND JURY

Delve Into Affairs of Three Officials.

Evidence against three officials of the Hoagland & Allum company, Inc., who are charged with perjury and embezzlement in connection with the failure of the firm, was presented to the grand jury yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney C. Vernon Thompson.

Peter B. Carey.

Among the witnesses were Mrs. Mary Llewellyn, 8046 Ellis avenue, who had securities and cash to the amount of $18,500 with the company; Mrs. Agnes Johnson, 3424 Cortland street, who lost $1,400, and Stephen Karwoski, whose $1,045 is missing.

Two Employés Testify.

Others who testified were Peter B. Carey, who has been appointed receiver for the brokerage company; Investigator Eugene O'Connor of the state's attorney's office, and two employés of the concern, Harold Railey and Miss Maude Anderson. Additional witnesses will be heard today.

Meanwhile, the officials, George F. Allum, president; Henry A. Engel, secretary-treasurer, and Olaf Andrew Larsen, vice president, are in the county jail, unable to make bonds of $300,000 each.

Investigators, who are still searching the records, said that apparently the partners had sold 40,000 shares of stock that cost investors $420,000 and bonds that had cost $206,000. The receipts were all spent, as well as $60,000 in cash balances. Further, the company owes a $15,000 rent bill. The total loss, according to operatives of the securities exchange commission, will go above $700,000 and will affect about 200 clients.

It has not yet been determined whether any federal prosecution will be attempted. Postal inspectors are investigating, however, and charges of misuse of the mails may be made.

Auction Furniture Monday.

No substantial assets of the company or of the partners have been found, although safe deposits and bank accounts have been subjected to thorough scrutiny.

Another loser, who reported to the state's attorney yesterday, is Miss Jennie McGuire, 70 years old, employed as a housekeeper at 419 North Central Park avenue. She said she had left bonds worth $1,200 with the firm, that they were sold, and that she was unable to get a settlement although she asked for one on several occasions.

MRS. WILLIAMS TAKES $6,000 A YEAR TO END SUIT

A settlement yesterday halted the hearing on the separate maintenance suit of Mrs. Margaret Ehman Williams, 39 years old, of Berkeley, Cal., against her husband, Chester S. Williams, real estate dealer and loop property owner. Williams, who lives at 2322 Commonwealth avenue, agreed to give his wife one-third of his $18,000 a year income from the estate of his father, John M. Williams.

He also withdrew his cross-bill, charging desertion. Judge John Prystalski gave Mrs. Williams permission to amend her suit, which charged cruelty and desertion, to one for divorce. A hearing on the divorce petition will be held Tuesday. She is expected to get custody of their son, Lucien, 17 years old.

YOU, TOO, will be amazed at the difference American Family Flakes' double suds make.

TUNE IN:

Truman Bradley with "News on Review for the American Family" Monday through Saturday, 9:45 A. M. Central Standard Time—WBBM. And "Manhattan Mother," a thrilling heart story, every day Monday through Friday, 1:00 o'clock—WBBM.

ARE you perhaps being penny-wise and pound-foolish about the soap chips you buy? If so, this advertisement may be the means of saving a considerable amount of money for you.

Cheap soaps usually make skimpy suds that simply won't get clothes clean unless you rub and rub. And it is this constant rubbing which wears out clothes—actually robs you of months of service you have every right to expect.

And the use of cheap soap chips is such a needless risk, with American Family Flakes at your command. Just read what these superb flakes do:

First, American Family Flakes' "double suds" float out grimiest dirt—without hard rubbing.

Second, American Family Flakes provide fastest washing with utmost safety to clothes because they depend on rich "double suds" instead of harmful chemicals.

Third, American Family Flakes leave the wash fresh and clean—with colored fabrics bright—and linens and white goods spotlessly white.

For ninety years American Family has demonstrated that it saves time, saves work and, most important, SAVES CLOTHES. That is why more Chicago women use American Family than any other brand. You really can't afford to use cheap, harsh soaps that wear out clothes all too soon, and which require more soap to do the job. Try American Family Flakes your next wash-day—and note the difference.

SPOTS OF BEAUTY DOWNSTATE LINE AUTOING ROUTES

Early Historical Scenes Will Interest Tourist.

This is one of a series of auto travel stories that you may want to clip for future reference.

BY HAL FOUST.

With Chicago schools closing this afternoon until May 2 southern Illinois is bidding for tourist patronage during the next nine days. The southern part of the state is at its best at this time of the year, and it contains attractions that are foreign to many Chicagoans who in summer habitually drive north for recreational motoring.

Amid rugged river scenery are sites of early Illinois history. Two hundred years ago, long before Chicago was settled, there were 2,000 French in villages along the Mississippi river south of St. Louis. Shawneetown, on the Ohio river, was a growing community when Chicago was an Indian trading post.

Summer Arrives Early.

The Tribune road car recently toured this remote section of Illinois and found the countryside in early summer luxuriance.

At the confluence of the Illinois and Mississippi rivers, on a bluff overlooking the two mighty streams, is a monument to Pere Marquette who found these waters in 1673. A state park with picnic grounds and hiking trails is nearby.

A couple of hours driving on southward, near East St. Louis, 292 miles from Chicago, is Cahokia Mounds state park. On the flat American bottoms, an old river bed, a prehistoric race built hills of earth for reasons that are obscure. One of these hills, the Monk mound, is 100 feet high and covers 16 acres. It is larger than the pyramid of Cheops.

French Influence Apparent.

The village of Cahokia, 10 or 20 miles farther south, has a clapboard Church of the Holy Name, which was built in 1799. Some of the older houses in villages en route southward reflect French influence in their architecture.

On the Mississippi river, 342 miles from Chicago, good concrete roads lead to Fort Chartres state park. Here the state is reproducing a 1753 stone fortress.

Cairo a Southern City.

There is rugged scenery continuing south on Ill. 3, not far from the river at any time, to Cairo, the city on the tip of Illinois between the Mississippi and the Ohio rivers.

On U. S. 51, 345 miles from Chicago, is Giant City state park. The peculiar name of these acres of natural beauty is due to a peculiar geological formation. Strata of rock have broken, leaving formations resembling streets with apartment houses.

Fort Massac, near Metropolis, is another state park, located on the Ohio river where George Rogers Clark brought the Stars and Stripes and the Kentucky Long Knives to Illinois to drive the British from Kaskaskia and from Vincennes. Up the Ohio river a couple of hours' drive is another state park, Cave-In-Rock park.

Turning back north, Vandalia is worth a stop. This was the capital of Illinois from 1820 to '39. Still standing is the state house built in 1836, where Abraham Lincoln served in the legislature. Near Mattoon is a reproduction of a log cabin in which Lincoln spent a few years as a boy.

For most Chicagoans, such a tour is an education in the geography and history of their state. For downstaters, such touring is of economic benefit. Expenditures on recreational motoring in Illinois are estimated at $75,000,000 a year.

Mrs. Margaret Gamauf in court with son, Donald, age 5.

When Mrs. Margaret Gamauf, 24 years old, of 5769 Wentworth avenue, faced her husband, Frank, a salesman, in the court of Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday, his attorney, Harry Rothenberg, asked that the judge try to reconcile the couple because they have two small children.

"O no, judge," said Norman Becker, attorney for Mrs. Gamauf. "Wait until you hear this. When my client attempted to leave her husband a football team of his relatives fell upon her and beat her." Mrs. Gamauf then showed the court some bruises.

"There wasn't a football team of relatives," retorted Rothenberg. "There were only seven relatives, and they only tried to keep her from leaving."

Judge Finnegan ordered Gamauf to pay $9 a week for the support of his wife and two children, Ellen, 8 years old, and Donald, 5 years old.

Truck Owners Sue to Block Illinois Trafic Code

Springfield, Ill., April 21.—(AP)—Suit for injunction to restrain the state from enforcing a section of the state trafic code limiting the length of truck tractors and semi-trailer vehicles to thirty-five feet was on file in Circuit court today. The action was brought by the Automobile Shippers of Michigan, the S. & C. Transfer company of Illinois, the Association Transfer company of Missouri, the Dealers' Transfer company of Illinois, and the Cossens Transfer company of Illinois. All operate forty foot vehicles.

IDENTIFY DROWNING VICTIM.

The body of a man found in the lake at Lake Forest on Tuesday was identified yesterday as that of Olaf Samuelson, alias Nyvold, 44 years old, who was ordered deported from Chicago in 1923.

BOY KILLED AS HE HITCHES BIKE RIDE BY TRUCK

Leonard Kraft, 17 years old, 4932 North Central Park avenue, a sophomore at the Lane Technical High school, was killed yesterday when he fell beneath the rear wheel of a truck while hitching a bicycle ride. The accident occurred as the truck swung out to pass a street car at 4644 North Western avenue and knocked him against the curb.

Dearel Brown, 25 years old, 3846 Forest avenue, Western Springs, died in the Berwyn hospital last night of injuries suffered in a collision between two automobiles at Ogden avenue and Austin boulevard, Cicero, last Saturday night. One other man, Harold Spencer, 25, also of Western Springs, was killed, and five persons were hurt.

An unidentified man, about 55 years old, died yesterday in the County hospital from injuries incurred Wednesday night when he was struck by an automobile driven by Ernest Goranson, 563 Pine avenue, in Washington boulevard, near Throop street.

Seymour De Graf, 17 years old, 1626 South Central Park avenue; Louis Kaplan, 16, of 3540 West 13th place, and Morris Rubin, 17, of 1510 South Ridgeway avenue, were injured early today when an automobile in which they were riding overturned at Cicero avenue and 50th street. They were taken to the Holy Cross hospital. The car is owned by David Finkelstein, a manufacturer of St. Johnsbury, Vt., who is in Chicago visiting his son. The car had been reported stolen from a 14th street garage an hour before the accident. De Graf, Kaplan and Rubin said they were given a ride by a man they knew as Schwartz, who was driving at the time of the accident. He is being sought.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 266 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 214 were killed in Chicago, where 5,078 were injured in the same period.

FIVE MOTORISTS GET JAIL TERMS; TWO MORE FINED

Five motorists were sentenced to five days each in the county jail for reckless driving by Judge J. M. Braude in the Safety court yesterday. Two others were fined.

Those sentenced were Jesse Green, colored, 4017 South Park avenue; Jacob Gjoen, 4244 Kenmore avenue; Christ Kenzel, 4021 North Kildare avenue; Robert Glover, colored, 5140 South Park avenue, and Ben Goldsher, 3737 Windsor avenue. The driving rights of all but Goldsher were suspended for varying periods. The sentences of Goldsher and Glover, who had been in jail awaiting trial, were considered served.

Joseph Muscrello, 4525 Broadway, and Walter Turkowski, 1422 North Washtenaw avenue, were fined $10 each for reckless driving, and their driving privileges also were suspended.

EXAMINE CLEWS TO SLAYING OF POULTRY DEALER

Police last evening were examining meager clues to the slaying of Jerome Lazar, 38 years old, 2230 Cortez street, a kosher poultry dealer, who was found fatally wounded earlier in the day at his market, 2515 Division street. He died later in the Lutheran Deaconess hospital.

Jerome Lazar.

Lazar apparently had been shot in the head by a bandit who followed him into the store shortly after the doors were opened yesterday morning. The killer turned Lazar's pockets inside out, and $300 which the poultry dealer had taken to the shop from his home was missing. The dying man was found by his brother and partner, Label Lazar, 2609 Hirsch street, a rabbi, when he went to the shop shortly before 7 a. m.

The rabbi told police his brother had taken in between $600 and $700 Wednesday, but failed to bank it. Taking it to his home he left half the money with his wife and brought back the other half. Police are searching for those who might have known that Lazar was carrying the money with him.

$11,000 Damages Awarded for Loss of Eye in Crash

A verdict for $11,000 damages was returned yesterday by a jury before Judge Albert H. Manus of Freeport, sitting in the Circuit court, in favor of Nicholas Peiffer, 1659 Winona avenue. Peiffer was injured and lost the sight of one eye when his car collided on Aug. 22, 1936, with one driven by the defendant, William French, 759 Reba place, Evanston.

STORY OF MILLION DOLLAR ESTATE ON RADIO SUNDAY

Court of Missing Heirs Calls Doyles, McQuins.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Court of Missing Heirs is calling all Doyles and McQuins on its broadcast next Sunday night at 9:30 over WBBM-CBS. An estate of a million dollars, most of it in gilt edged securities and the rest in Kansas farm and oil lands, left by Ellen Doyle, awaits distribution to rightful heirs.

The Doyle fortune was established by Ellen's father, Patrick, who married Mary McQuin of St. Louis. Full details of the case will be dramatized on this broadcast. This program already has found a half dozen missing heirs who have established legal claims to fortunes—and a thousand or more claimants who are trying to convince the courts.

Bloomington, Ill., is planning a welcome home celebration on April 29 for Paul Rhymer, author of Vic and Sade, whose locale is laid in that city. More than 1,000 Bloomingtonians, including Mayor Mark Hayes, will be on hand to salute the former filling station attendant on his return home. Seats of honor have been reserved for Jerry Sampson, gas station proprietor, and Russell Miller, first and second men to fire Rhymer, thereby paving his way to a radio career. The Vic and Sade company, including Art Van Harvey, Bernardine Flynn, Billy Idelson, Bob Brown, J. Clinton Stanley, and Glenn Webster, will also attend the banquet.

The Musical Clock will tick off its eighth birthday on WBBM this morning. During the last seven years Halloween Martin, the voice of the clock, has announced 74,000 musical numbers and seen 89 records of the theme song worn out. Miss Martin has seen the wake-up program grow from a "one girl" show to one requiring the ministrations now of nine. Parker Wheatley, Paul Luther, and Tom Builta now share the announcing duties with her.

Tito Guidotti and his Swing sextet, a Chicago unit, will be guests on the Paul Whiteman broadcast this evening. . . . King George VI. will make one of his infrequent broadcasts when he opens the Scottish Empire exposition at Glasgow at 2 p. m., May 3, over W-G-N-Mutual. . . . Stella Tremayne, young sister of Les Tremayne, is to make her first network appearance on the First Nighter broadcast at 9 tonight on WMAQ-NBC in "Split Second," in which her brother and Barbara Luddy play the leads.

Another broadcasting network, to be composed of small stations, is reported in process of organization under the direction of the Western Newspaper union, which distributes editorial matter to several thousand newspapers. It is learned that several hundred low powered station operators are being sounded out on their attitude toward such an enterprise and that favorable responses have been obtained from many.

JOHN H. M'GOVERN, CABARET OWNER 40 YEARS, DEAD

John H. McGovern, for forty years a night club and tavern owner on the near north side, died yesterday in the Illinois Masonic hospital after an illness of several weeks.

He owned and operated the Liberty inn, 661 North Clark street, where, in that one location, he had been in business since 1907. He lived above the cabaret. He was 71 years old. During the prohibition era he had several tilts with law agencies. His great boast was that he was the first person to operate a night club north of the river.

Surviving McGovern are two sons, James and John. Funeral services will be held from the chapel at 935 North Wells street to Holy Name cathedral at 9:30 a. m. Monday. Burial will be in Calvary.

LABOR TROUBLES PERIL BRITAIN'S ARMAMENT RACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 21.—Efforts of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to align labor behind Great Britain's huge armaments program met a new setback tonight when engineers in government dockyards, arsenals and aircraft works decide to present demands for wage increases and improvements in working conditions.

The principal demands will be for a flat wage increase of $2 or more weekly, two weeks' vacation with pay annually, revision of overtime arrangements and uniformity in treatment for men on sick leave.

Between 20,000 and 30,000 engineers are directly concerned, but it is understood other classes of government workers are likely to present similar claims.

The powerful Amalgamated Engineering union, key organization in arms production, is behind the engineers' demands, which were discussed today in a meeting of its president and forty delegates from government establishments in Manchester. The conference will be resumed tomorrow.

ROOF COLLAPSES; 16 KILLED, 54 HURT IN ALABAMA CAFE

Phenix City, Ala., April 21.—(AP)—Sixteen men, all Negroes, were killed and 54 others were injured today in the collapse of a roof, bringing a two story wall of the building down with it.

The building, housing the Ritz café, a licensed liquor store, was weakened by a burden of rain water on the roof, according to R. L. Ray, city building inspector.

The dead and injured were taken from the wreckage by firemen, police, Alabama highway patrolmen and soldiers from Fort Benning, army camp near Columbus, Ga., across the Chattahoochee river from here. The rescue work was retarded to some extend by fear other walls of the building would fall.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 21.—(AP)—A request for a judicial inquiry into the guardians' management of the Dionne quintuplets has been filed with the Ontario attorney general's office on behalf of Oliva Dionne, their father.

Henri St. Jacques, Ottawa attorney, said tonight he had been retained by Oliva Dionne two weeks ago and that he sent his request to the attorney general's department several days ago. He added that no reply has been received and declared, "I suppose the government does not know what to do."

In his request to the department, St. Jacques urged that the investitgaion include inquiry ino the supervision of Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, the children's physician, and his fellow guardians' management of the quints' financial affairs.

Within ten days the opposing fleets will clash by sea and air in simulated combat to decide whether any future real enemy could successfully attack California. The "green" fleet sailed Monday.

Work was begun yesterday on the south basin wall of the lock and water diversion control gates under construction at the mouth of the Chicago river. The basin must be enclosed and the gates in working order by 1939 under a United States Supreme court ruling in the lake level case against the sanitary district.

The basin and locks are being constructed to prevent reversal of flow in the river and pollution of the lake by sewage after 1939 when, as ordered by the court, the flow of water into the river is cut from 4,000 cubic feet a second to 1,500 cubic feet.

The south wall will be 1,185 feet long and 30 feet wide. It will extend along the line of Randolph street from the Naval armory to the government breakwater, bisecting what is now Chicago harbor. Ships entering the river will pass through the locks and across the basin formed by the shore, the new wall, the government breakwater, and the United States North pier. The wall will cost $424,144.

NEIGHBORS FIRST HEAR OF STILL AS IT EXPLODES

Neighbors in the quiet Kensington district discovered they were living close to a wildcat still when the still exploded yesterday, wrecking the house at 426 West 104th street, in which it was concealed. A man who admitted being in the house at the time was found fleeing five blocks away and taken to the Roseland Community hospital, where he was treated for severe burns. He said he is William Bradshaw of 12012 Calumet avenue. The still, of 200 gallon capacity, was in a subbasement reached by a trap door. Bradshaw was arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin Walker and held in $1,000 bonds for hearing May 3.

RECIPES VARY FLAVOR THEME OF ANGEL FOOD

Maple and Honey Types Use Sirup Method.

Do you know what is meant when the directions say to marinate or to cut julienne? Do you know what croustades and a ragout are? You'll find the explanations of foreign food terms in Mary Mead's booklet, "The Culinary Dictionary," on sale for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. It will be mailed for 5 cents in stamps. Mail requests should be addressed to Mary Meade.

It hasn't been so long since we printed a recipe for a large angel food cake, one requiring a dozen eggs and a 10 inch tube pan, but it has been some time since the smaller standard angel food and several angel cake variations appeared in this column.

The maple and honey angel foods must be made by what is known as the sirup method. It's the same method used to make many boiled frostings and make divinity fudge. A warm sirup is poured into stiffly beaten egg whites during constant beating.

Standard Angel Food.
[Eight-Ten Eggs.]
- 1 cup egg whites
- 1 teaspoon cream of tartar
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1¼ cups sifted sugar
- 1 cup sifted cake flour
- 1 teaspoon flavoring

Sift one-quarter cup sugar four times with the flour. Beat egg whites, cream of tartar, and salt to a stiff foam with wire whisk or rotary beater. Add the sugar a little at a time, beating it in thoroughly. Add flavoring. Fold in the flour a little at a time, sifting it over the egg white and sugar mixture. Bake an hour in an ungreased tube pan at 300 to 325 degrees' oven temperature. Let cake hang upside down on a cake rack to cool completely before it is removed from the pan.

Maple Angel Food Cake.
[Nine-Ten Eggs.]
- 1¼ cups egg whites
- 1 teaspoon cream of tartar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups maple sirup
- 1¼ cups sifted cake flour

Heat the maple sirup and boil until it spins a thread [240 to 242 degrees] and set aside to cool slightly. Beat egg whites, cream of tartar, and salt to a stiff foam. Pour the warm sirup in a thin stream over the egg whites, beating constantly. Continue beating until the mixture is almost cool. Fold in the flour, sifting it a little at a time over the egg white and sirup mixture. Bake in an ungreased tube pan at 300 to 325 degrees for an hour. Turn upside down to cool for an hour before removing cake from pan.

Honey Angel Food.
[Six-Seven Eggs.]
- ½ cup sugar
- ½ cup cake flour
- 1 teaspoon cream of tartar
- ¼ cup honey
- ¾ cup egg whites
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon flavoring

Sift sugar and flour together five times. Beat the egg whites until frothy and add salt and cream of tartar. Continue beating until stiff, but not dry. Add honey slowly, beating it in with rotary beater or whip. If honey is thick it should be warmed slightly by placing it over hot water for a few minutes before pouring. Fold in flour and sugar mixture, adding about a fourth of it at a time. Add flavoring. Bake in an ungreased angel food pan in a 325 degree oven for about 50 minutes. Invert pan to cool.

Whipped Cream Angel Food.
[Four-Five Eggs.]
- 1 cup whipping cream
- ½ cup egg whites
- 1 cup sugar
- 1½ cups cake flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Whip the cream until stiff, drop in the egg whites and whip until light. Sift in the sugar gradually, beating it in well. Add salt and vanilla. Whip in flour and baking powder which have been sifted together four times. Bake in two layers in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 30 to 35 minutes. Line the bottoms of the pans with waxed paper, but do not grease sides. Cool and put layers together with a cream filling. Frost with chocolate or boiled white icing.

Caraway Seed on New Potatoes a Fine Relish

New potatoes with caraway seed are destined to become a runner-up to potato salad as the favorite accompaniment of frankfurters. To prepare the potatoes, boil in their skins in salted water until tender. Drain and peel. Drop the peeled potatoes into a saucepan containing melted butter. Turn the potatoes so that they may be evenly coated with butter. Place in a serving dish and sprinkle with salt and caraway seeds. Serve with grilled frankfurters.

It's Jelly Season Again

It's time to get ready for the jelly making season. Time to bring the jelly glasses up from the basement and time to check up on your favorite recipes. The recipe for the "jelly-in-the-making" shown here is in Mary Meade's booklet, "Jellies and Preserves from Early Gardens." The booklet is on sale for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; or will be mailed for 5 cents in stamps. Address mail requests to Mary Meade. It contains nine recipes for using strawberries and six for using rhubarb.

RECTOR REVEALS CLAM SECRET IN SUNDAY TRIBUNE

At Rector's, in the middle '80s, a piquant sauce raised minced clams on toast to epicurean fame. George Rector, the famous chef, tells how to make the sauce in his article in the woman's section of THE TRIBUNE next Sunday.

Mr. Rector also will divulge the recipes for other dishes of the celebrated resturant. Among these, oysters en brochette and a special sauce made with the oyster liquor; a curry flavored crabmeat dish; a standard recipe for a delicious mayonnaise.

Ending this column of food delights will be the formula for a "never to be forgotten" Cumberland sauce, a marvelous palate pleaser with cold cuts or game.

SARDINES MAKE SAVORY FILLINGS FOR SANDWICHES

SARDINE AND EGG SANDWICH

CARRY A FULL POCKETBOOK TO SHOP THIS WEEK

Most Food Prices Up; Butter on Sale.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

When shoppers make the rounds of grocery stores and butcher shops today and tomorrow they will find many foods advanced in price following the Easter and lenten sales. There is a comparatively short list of foods reduced in price this week compared with last.

Tall letters and figures are being used by merchants this week to dramatize reductions in the price of butter. THE TRIBUNE's retail price survey records, kept for many years, show that butter is offered to consumers today at the lowest price since September, 1935. It is about 6 cents a pound less than a year ago.

Banana Sales Start.

Banana sales are on in some stores. Green peas are off 2 cents to 4 cents a pound, but still are regarded as high. Some green grocers are not offering fresh peas this week. New potatoes are slightly cheaper. Rutabaga and celery are cheaper in a few places. Many stores have cut carrot prices a half a cent a bunch.

Strawberry shipments are increasing and prices are lower. They are now available in quart boxes. The berries are coming from Tennessee, Arkansas, and Louisiana. Rhubarb is becoming plentiful and prices are regarded as reasonable.

The trend is upward on several staples and fruits and vegetables. Eggs are up 2 to 4 cents a dozen. Most brands of flour have been taken off the bargain counters and the prices have been put back up to levels that prevailed before Easter.

Grapefruit Prices Rise.

The end of the grapefruit season is near and there is a tendency for prices to go slightly higher. Green beans are up 1½ cents a pound in several places. Onions are higher—green onions are 1 cent a bunch higher and dry onions are up a cent a pound in some stores.

Vegetables that are higher in some stores and lower in others include spinach, fresh tomatoes, cabbage, and cauliflower. Asparagus prices began tumbling this week. It is cheaper, generally.

Several grocers are featuring canned peaches, baked beans, package cheese, crackers, and cookies today and tomorrow.

Consumers will find the trend in meat prices upward this week-end, but with both live stock and fresh meats going down at Union Stockyards, lower retail prices are expected soon. Butchers in city and suburban shopping centers are offering rib roast at 2 cents a pound higher than last week.

Frying chickens are up a penny a pound in most shops; a few butchers boosted their prices as much as 8 cents a pound. Leg of lamb is up 4 cents a pound and pork loin roast is 2 cents a pound higher than last week in some shops. A few shops are featuring beef pot roasts at 6 cents a pound less.

Official reporters say that cattle, hogs, and sheep, and beef, pork and lamb prices are all lower this week than last. Good and choice steers are off 25 cents a hundredweight with the top steers selling at $10.50 this week. Beef from good and choice steers is 50 cents a hundred less. The highest price paid for hogs was $9 a hundred pounds with farmers receiving 10 to 15 cents a hundred less than last week.

Fat lambs brought 40 to 50 cents a hundred under last week's market at Union stockyards. The week's top was $8.50 a hundred. Dressed lamb carcasses fell off $1.50 to $2 a hundred pounds.

Nearly a score of items are lower than last week on the central fruit and vegetable market, according to federal reports. Only a few are higher. Truck crops are maturing earlier than usual in the southern states this spring and shipments are increasing from a gradually expanding area.

Stork Breaks Eggs Ibis Tries to Hatch

Washington, D. C., April 21.—The woolly necked stork at the National zoo today was accused of breaking all three eggs which the scarlet ibis was trying to hatch. Keeper Malcolm Davis said the stork appeared to have resented the scarlet ibis' recent romance with a white ibis.

DISHWASHING DIRGE!
Here's An Easy Answer To Those Protests Over "Doing Dishes"

"DO I have to do those old dishes?" Ever hear laments like this at your house? Maybe there's good reason—perhaps you could make those dishwashings a lot easier. For it's grease—stubborn substance that adheres to dishes, silver, baking pans and skillets—that makes dishwashing doubly difficult. Modern housekeepers use a grease solvent—Climalene. They find this thrifty cleanser produces a thicker, longer-lasting suds . . . yet actually reduces soap bills one-half or more. Dishes . . . silver . . . pots and pans emerge grease-free . . . glistening. And remember, when you reach once for Climalene you'll never need to reach twice for soap.

STOCKINGS WASHED IN DREFT LAST 120% LONGER, Swears Miss Eileen Lottinville

Women are so excited about this new washing suds, that in town after town, more Dreft is sold, than all other fine-fabric suds put together.

And no wonder! Dreft not only makes stockings look better . . . but women say it helps them to wear longer . . . saves pulls and runs.

Dreft does a better job washing your stockings because it's a different, modern suds. It has all the advantages of soap flakes and not one of the disadvantages.

Dreft makes suds as easily in hard water, as in soft—5 times more suds, than any soap flakes in hardest water.

Dreft dissolves as easily in cold water, as in hot. Dissolves instantly in water just the right temperature for washing delicate fabrics. Never leaves any undissolved particles.

And Dreft is so mild its suds won't hurt your eyes any more than water will. These gentle Dreft suds don't contain any alkali at all. So it's literally "safe in water, safe in Dreft."

Try this amazing suds! Ask your dealer for a package of Dreft today. Procter & Gamble.

"I found that my silk stockings washed in Dreft lasted 120% longer than when washed in soap flakes. And it was marvelous how much better they looked, too.

"And Dreft makes my silk prints so much better and newer looking, my woolens so soft and fluffy."

D. A. R. Sidetracks Attack on Roosevelt to Hear Him Speak

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today called for the education of American youth in the fundamentals which impelled colonial ancestors to throw off the yoke of Fascism in the American revolution. He spoke extemporaneously at the annual congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Only a few hours before the resolutions committee hastily erased an attack on his administration from a list of resolutions. The resolution condemned government intervention in economic planning as leading to "state socialism, thus resulting in loss of freedom and oppression of minorities, as witness European totalitarian governments today."

The resolution was deleted on the argument that its passage immediately before the President's visit would be in bad taste. The resolutions innocent of any slight against the administration were passed unanimously a short time before the President told the congress he was proud to be a descendant of revolutionary ancestors and charged them to "remember, you and I are descended from immigrants and revolutionists."

Finery Awaits Spring Rush of Brides-to-Be

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Happy brides-to-be and dozens of their excited relatives can go to town any day now and have the fun of collecting a trousseau and all the clothes for the wedding. The best of everything has been put on display for the seasonal rush. Weddings are planned with limited budgets or with sky high cash supplies in mind.

Some of the most romantic of satin wedding gowns are priced way down and gleam resplendently. Unusual colors are featured in bridesmaid dresses and the loveliest flower arrangements ever carried are being sponsored.

One startling wedding party was in shades of green, two of the bridesmaids in leaf green organdy cut with wide circular skirts, tiny bodices, and short puffed sleeves. Two more bridesmaids in deep dark cypress green organdy. All wore skull caps of dark green glossy leaves. The bride was gowned in white with a short white veil, the gown either of organdy, net, lace, or chiffon.

Another wedding idea was in dove gray and white, the bridesmaids in gray chiffon with tiny tri-corne turbans of dubonnet red. The flowers were old fashioned compact bouquets of three shades of carnations ranging from spicy pink to deep red. Around the waistlines of the chiffon dresses were swathed sashes of fuschia and purple. Lace wedding gowns are exceptionally beautiful in long princess lines, the gleaming satins are picturesque, and the cool filmy nets and organdies keep every one hesitating over a final decision.

Page boys in white make ideal train bearers, especially if you can manage a towhead and a youngster with a nice shiny black head of curls. If you insist upon tiny little girls you can dress them in Kate Greenaway dresses with 12 inch hems and velvet sashes around the high waistline. And the sugar pink weddings still are going strong, ever; one likes them, and practically every personality can wear pink.

Learn Normal Weight, Then Be Consistent

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

We have let up somewhat on the subject of reducing recently, with regrettably ill effects in some quarters. Or, to quote a certain friend: "You know, when there was more talk about reducing I had a figure of which I was proud. Since the talk has gone out of style I've been fooling myself that extra flesh didn't matter so much, and look at me now! Eighteen pounds over!"

We certainly are not for reviving reducing as a popular conversational topic. It's terribly boring chatter. No one is interested outside of the narrator. So, the thing to do is not to talk about it, BUT DO IT when it is necessary. Although other women may have released themselves from the calorie and the latest diet theme, they're still pretty mean-eyed toward a sister who lets herself run to excess padding. That, however, is not the impetus, nor should be, so much as that extra poundage when it tips the scale at 10, 15, and 20 pounds is not healthy.

Right it is to eat what is needed—but only what is needed. Right it is to eat three meals a day—but not three heavy meals. Right it is to get full maintenance requirements from food—but no more than that. No more crazy diets are wanted any more than you want the conversational theme, reducing, revived. Both were destructive. The constructive thing to do is to know your normal weight and keep it. I refer to knowing one's right weight for one's height and age, because a couple of women recently asking about reducing methods hadn't the glimmer of an idea of what they should weigh.

The weight charts gotten out by insurance organizations are as good as anything you can be guided by. They're good because they permit you a thoroughly decent amount of padding. Many slender women studying them will say: "But that is more than I weigh." So, you are not asked to become a shadow or a wraith. You are permitted enough weight to keep cheeks rounded and your health good.

Know your right and normal weight, then, and if you would avoid all future reducing trouble DON'T let yourself even get more than 3 pounds overweight.

Lingerie Duet for Summer

With summer only a few short weeks away you really should give serious consideration to the lingerie problem. No doubt you have an adequate cold weather supply, but you also know that in summer you change your undies so many times a day that a large supply is needed, or you will have a hamperful to launder every time you turn around. The pattern today suggests panties and matching brassiere and may be used over and over again for duets in many colors and of many fabrics. Materials for these garments are inexpensive, and no time at all is required to sew them. You can have so many sets that one washday a week will be sufficient to keep you in fresh undies.

The brassiere is uplift in design and may be tailored and plain, or trimmed with lace or a bit of embroidery. The panties fit snugly at the hips, but have comfortably full legs, which may be edged with lace or left plain, the only adornment being a repetition of the embroidery, as shown in the illustration.

The embroidery pattern is No. E-11176 and is available for 10 cents extra.

Style No. 3335 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 1¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 3 yards of lace for brassiere and panties.

Art Institute's Janitors Open Show Tomorrow

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Chicago's unique school of janitor-artists will hold the fourth annual exhibition at the Art institute for two weeks beginning tomorrow.

There are twenty-seven exhibitors, including Betty Hazlett, the girl who dusts the offices every morning, whose entry is a "Portrait of Michael," a former Rumanian student, who donned rich medieval robes for her.

The janitor student-artists all work under Charley Kerr, a real janitor, who wears overalls and cap and scorns artistic note for himself. The foreman of the group is Ernest Koeppel. He and his crew take off their smocks and wield mop and broom daily in the long corridors and classrooms. Any creative work with paint and brush must be done outside the classrooms to be eligible for this show.

In cartoons by Everett Fairchild, who says he has a fine set of rejection slips from magazines but who keeps on trying, the gay life of the janitors is revealed. In one scene they are painting the ceiling of a classroom and dropping pots of paint on each other's heads while Kerr covers his eyes with horror. In another, called "Cavalcade," they are marching to work with mops and brooms singing as sturdily as the "Heigh-ho" chorus of the seven dwarfs on their way to the diamond mines.

It is their hope and the hope of the institute that diamonds will be uncovered here. Several members of this year's force have reached such proficiency that they have had paintings accepted for important exhibitions which are held in the east wing galleries. The janitors for the present are to exhibit in the lobby. In the past several members of this group have been awarded traveling scholarships.

If they become discouraged they may recall that at their age George Innes, one of America's greatest landscape painters, was a grocer's clerk and had to work his way through schools of engraving and art.

Outstanding in the exhibit, perhaps, is the work of Emerson Woelffer, who has two pictures in a humorous ultramodern style, giving effects that may be variously interpreted. One is a macabre figure called "The Dance," which is merely two intertwined skeletonlike figures that somehow seem to express a mood of life.

George Kachergis has a painting called "Abstraction" which, he says, is merely things he noticed around his room and put together for form and design. The inanimate seems to take on some sort of primordial life.

Walter Kozak and Sidney Jones have sought to put actual scenes on canvas, in "I. C. Yards" and "Harbor View," respectively.

Murray Jones, one of the group, is represented in the 42d annual exhibition of artists of Chicago and vicinity with his painting "Crucifixion." Woelffer, who is in his third year at the school, has two canvases, "White Undershirt" and "Kalamazoo River Scene," in the Chicago artists' exhibit, and a lithograph called "Young Girl" in the International Exhibition of Lithography and Wood Engraving.

Ray Calkins, another janitor-student, has three of his landscapes in the international exhibition which will open on April 28 with thirteen countries exhibiting.

Among others exhibiting in the janitor-student show are Albert Goodspeed, Adolph Goutman, Jim Israel, M. D. Becker, Dawson Rieman, Albert Enzenbacher, Frank Lucas, Dow Sanders, Wendell Stevenson, Edward Voska, and Ovie Mensinger. The students come from all parts of the country.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

"Handies" are the newest wrinkle in soap. These are on short white cords to suspend from the wrist so that the precious cake can't possibly slip out of your reach in the tub.

They're wonderfully inexpensive and quite attractive—each cake with a long slender hand delicately etched into its surface. The yellow cakes are scented with verbena, the green with pine, the pink with rose, and the blue with jasmin. People are crazy about these as bridge prizes, but they're equally welcome as home bathroom trimmings.

With pink the high fashion color this spring, used in Paris for everything from pearls to champagne, a nail polish house has seen to it that finger tips will be in the swim.

One of the newest shades is pink rose, a lush shade that's dainty, but with warmth enough to give it character. Women who like delicate shades will go for this.

Another new shade is cedar rose, which is more rose than anything else, but has a very soft brownish cast. This is to be worn with the off shade yellow and greens and with dead white.

The bath preparation that acts like champagne and comes packaged like it, even to the wicker basket and all the impressive gold foil about its neck, is now available in splits as well as quarts.

This makes one of the sprightliest of gift choices and for all its de luxe getup isn't as expensive as you might be frightened into thinking. It makes the water all bubbly and scents it with a fresh, clean fragrance.

Garden Party to Be Held at Bevan Estate

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Lake Forest Garden club is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year by giving an early June garden party that undoubtedly will be a lovely one, if nature coöperates to the extent of making Saturday, June 11, a fair day. The party will be given at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Dean Bevan, at 740 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest.

The estate, one of the handsomest on the north shore, still is better known as the Judah place than by the name of its new owners, for they bought it last fall and just occupied it this spring.

Not many have seen the interior of the French château style house, nor explored the twenty acres of gardens because when the late Noble B. Judah and Mrs. Judah [now Mrs. Rudolf Santini] lived there, the place was only visited by their friends. Later when it was rented for a couple of years to the John Kieckhefers of Milwaukee, a few Lake Foresters were in it because Mr. and Mrs. Kieckhefer kept up their Milwaukee associations during the short time they lived on Chicago's north shore.

Gardens Beautiful as Well as Vast.

The gardens are exceptionally beautiful, as well as being vast, with an orangery, a formal garden with water lily filled pools from which a terrace leads down to a swimming pool, an informal garden into which one steps from the living room, and a patiolike inclosed garden in the center of which stand three giant elms, taller than the house itself. The vegetable gardens are laid out like flower gardens and surrounded by clipped hedges, and magnificent trees and lilac bushes line the long driveway that leads to the cobblestone courtyard from which one enters the house.

There will be a flower market in the walled courtyard of the garage the day of the garden party and flower arrangements will be on view in the orangery. Each year the club puts aside about one-third of its garden tour profits to improve a conservation park in Lake Forest, and another part of the proceeds goes to the Lincoln memorial in Springfield.

Mrs. John W. Gary is president of the Lake Forest Garden club and Mrs. Howard C. Phillips is in charge of judges. Mrs. Thomas A. Connors and Mrs. Keith Carpenter are cochairmen of the garden party committee, with Mrs. Clymer S. Bowen as ticket chairman.

Others working on the committee are Mrs. Knight C. Cowles, Mrs. G. Corson Ellis, Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy, Mrs. Edward K. Welles, Mrs. William A. P. Pullman, Mrs. Lawrence Williams, Mrs. McPherson Holt, Mrs. Norman Into, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord, and Mrs. Charles S. De Long.

Orchestra Has a Gay Program for Final Week

BY EDWARD BARRY.

"The same—and faster!"

This is no mere quotation from Frederick Stock's address of last evening to the final Thursday night audience of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. It is that address in full.

These four words—cryptic enough outside of their context—carried the indulgent promise of a repetition of the Paganini Moto Perpetuo [which had just tickled the eardrums of the audience so enchantingly] and confirmed the suspicion that Mr. Stock was in as gay and elfin a mood as any member of his audience.

So the Moto Perpetuo was repeated, the rule against encores received another setback, and a jammed Orchestra hall had a second chance to watch all the fiddlers of the band saw away in perfect unison.

The evening was gala from the word "go." The "Egmont" overture of Beethoven, rousingly but not too rousingly performed, led to the Brahms First Symphony. Both the public and the orchestra seem to like this latter about as well as any work in the répertoire, and the tempest of applause which blew through the house at its conclusion had some lusty "Bravos" mixed in for variety.

Mr. Stock allowed the ghost of a self-satisfied little smile to play over his face as he turned at the end of the final movement to face the tumult. He had successfully reached the climactic point of the last regular program of the season and had convinced himself completely that his orchestra could still play Brahms and that his audience was still glad to eat it up.

Two high points in the performance of the symphony were the beautifully questioning tone of the first violins in the second movement and the epic delivery by the brass of the chorale theme of the finale. The symphony moved powerfully on from first note to last, achieving in the final movement a terrific urgency and sonority which did much to evoke the demonstration of enthusiasm that was to follow.

After the intermission came lusty "Till Eulenspiegel," complete with his melodious pranks, his two fetching and gnomelike little themes, and his unhappy destiny. The Paganini Moto Perpetuo led to excerpts from "Götterdämmerung," which brought the concert to a solemn conclusion on the grandiose pronouncements of Wagner.

So ends the Thursday night series. A repetition of last evening's program this afternoon will conclude the Friday cycle, and tomorrow evening's "pop" concert will write finis to the Chicago Symphony orchestra's forty-seventh season.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

The Answer

Hollywood, Cal., April 21.—In reference to the query addressed by this column to Nat Holman a few editions ago, here is Holman's answer, which should settle the whole controversy.

"Dear Ed: Hank Luisetti, in my opinion, is an outstanding basketball player, the best today in the amateur ranks. However, Dutch Dehner and Marty Friedman in their day would make Hank look like just another player until he had been properly seasoned. Regards."

Should Old Acquaintance Be Forgot?

Hollywood, Cal., April 21.—The New York chapter of the Ziegfeld Girls' club has sent me a letter asking for a piece on Florenz Ziegfeld for the journal that will be published for their third annual party at the Hotel Plaza on the 30th. The girls who worked for Ziggie are loyal to his memory; they don't believe that auld acquaintance should be forgotten.

So they want a Hollywood piece on Ziegfeld? They came to the right place, because in this town, where the Zanucks speak only to the Mayers, the Mayers speak only to the Selznicks and Schencks, and the Schencks speak only to the Zukors and Le Barons, Ziegfeld's name still is a synonym for the last word in stagecraft.

Performers out here who worked for The Great Ziegfeld mention that first when you interview them. "I was with Ziegfeld"—Irene Dunne said it proudly when I interviewed her. "I was with Ziegfeld"—Fred Astaire told it to me, and there was the same note of pride in his voice.

W. C. Fields, Cantor, Fannie Brice, Virginia Bruce, Charlie Winninger, Lynn Overman, Edna May Oliver, William Anthony MacGuire, Frank Morgan, Bert Wheeler, Bob Woolsey, and Eleanor Powell are just a few of the Ziegfeld alumni.

Recently when Goldwyn's "Follies" were previewed an important critic wrote: "Goldwyn comes closest to Ziegfeld in the matter of good taste and discrimination." His name is a stamp of approval, a yardstick of quality.

This town, which has scant respect for any one outside the industry and not much respect for any one within the industry, still respects Florenz Ziegfeld. He represented on the Broadway stage what Thalberg represented out here on celluloid. In other words, he was the No. 1 man. He had imagination, he was extravagant, and he was a great showman. Should auld acquaintance be forgot? No indeed, not when the old acquaintance was a Ziegfeld.

The Jack Haleys had a party the other night, and it was interesting to hear the former Broadway musical comedy performers and vaudeville headliners reminiscing and a bit tragic to realize that their generation is gone for keeps.

They recalled famous restaurants at which the troupers ate in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, D. C.; Boston, Kansas City, and Chicago. They talked of the night that Marion Harris wowed 'em at the Little club; of the afternoon show at which Sarah Bernhardt refused to go on unless the manager first paid her off in gold dollars; of the night at Minneapolis when W. C. Fields, because he didn't want to follow the Marx brothers, convinced the manager that his right hand had become paralyzed; of the night at London's Palladium when George Burns, to bolster his courage, drank five Scotches and fell flat on his face on the stage.

Movie stars of today know none of these things and have no fund of trouping knowledge on which to draw. The musical comedy stars and the vaude headliners at Haley's party went back to the war days, when Irving Berlin was presenting "Yip Yip Yaphank" and sang the lyrics of Berlin songs that I'd never heard.

They roasted theater managers who made life miserable for them on the old Keith circuit, and the memories of backstage injustices got them all burned up afresh, as though these things had happened yesterday.

Listening to their colorful recollections you felt a real stab of regret that those days were gone forever, for that was the vigorous, lusty youth of show business. Probably it looks better in retrospect, too, because distance and enchantment are allies of old standing.

It had its injustices and drawbacks. A little act was at the mercy of the headliner, who had his or her pick of songs, for instance. George Burns recalled that he and Sid Gary arrived at a theater and rehersed their big song. The headliner sent word that she intended singing it and instructed them to omit it. So they flopped. The song was their piece de resistance, and they were lost without it.

Jack Benny thought back to the times when a vaudeville show started out from New York as a unit booked solidly to the coast for 52 weeks. When they left New York it was one big happy family. The girls cooked meals for each other. By the time they got to Vancouver they weren't even talking. They were fighting about billing, enraged at the reviews in the local papers, snarling at their partners. Funny to look back at; not so funny when it was happening.

Of course, there's plenty of auld lang syne in the picture business. Harry Cohn, head of the now prosperous Columbia studios, who has just signed Marlene Dietrich, was telling us recently that if there had been an air mail service to the coast years back every studio in town would have gone out of business.

For this reason: In the early days of Hollywood the producers were always so close to financial embarrassment that they stalled for time. They'd mail a check east by the slowest train. The four or five days eaten up by the train would give them time to raise the money to cover it. Air mail would have put them all into bankruptcy.

No Affront to Parent When Child Is Cross

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Now, here's a wholesome, intelligent letter from some one who can look on at parents and children from an outside vantage point—or perhaps I should say somewhat from an outside vantage point, since she is "several times an aunt."

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: Will you be good enough to send me all the information you possibly can in adolescence?"

"Last night a very dear friend of mine told me with tears in her eyes of her worries concerning her daughter, a girl of 14. I was astonished at her ignorance on the subject of adolescence and told her I read frequently in your column advice on how to handle youngsters going through this very difficult period. She is so disturbed she just wanted to cry and mope, but I told her I would write to you and I am sure she would get very helpful information.

"Since I became an aunt [for the fourth time, now] I read avidly your columns so that I will not commit any grevious wrong with my nieces and my nephews, and in fact I have fallen into the habit of reading your column daily. So I am really surprised that the mother of three youngsters knows so little about child rearing that she takes it as personal affront when her little daughter is in bad humor.

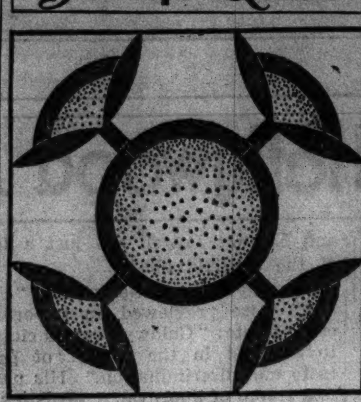
"If you can recommend any particular book I would appreciate it."

What strikes me most about this letter is the keenness of the comment, "she takes it as a personal affront when her daughter is in bad humor."

That is exactly what happens far too often where teen age children are concerned. The rapidly developing son or daughter is the victim of a moodiness, an unevenness, that he or she is not fundamentally responsible for. At these times—in fact, all through adolescence—the greatest understanding is needed.

What seems like an antagonism or irritability directed at us is not usually at all a personal affront, and should not be taken as such. It is simply that we are always there to get the impact, and that anyhow all human beings are freer with their nearest and dearest—free to be unpleasant to them as well as to be sweet and companionable with them.

TODAY'S QUILT



Modern Peony.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

It must have been the beauty of the early fall which inspired this new applique design, "Modern Peony." It is as simple as those first applique patterns made a century ago. The full blown peony in the center is of soft pink, with a deep rose band forming the outline. The buds are of the same pink, with rose bands and green leaves completing the flower. The applique blocks are set together in an alternate arrangement with plain blocks and surrounded by a wide seventeen and one-half inch border and a half inch bias binding. The quilting design in the border is a sixteen inch peacock fan, while the eleven and one-half inch plain blocks are quilted in a princess feather design.

SYNOPSIS.

Gordon Stone returns to Barranca after 8 years in prison. Gordon was framed by Lyn Gilbert, owner of the Bar B B ranch, and his foreman, Curt Ford. Because Gilbert's niece, Karen, has a friend, Hal Ferguson, take her to the hideout of Gordon and Jack Turnbull, and warn them in time to save them from a posse of Gilbert's riders, her uncle threatens to make her marry Firkins, his secretary, and imprisons her at his ranch. Gordon and Jack start a campaign against Gilbert. The affidavit of Line Conway, who was kept by threats from coming to Gordon's aid, is published in the Courier. It accuses Gilbert and Ford. Gordon rescues Karen from the ranch. Heading a band of men Gordon captures four Bar B B riders rustling cattle belonging to Gordon's uncle, John Fleming, owner of the J F ranch. Gilbert offers his rider Cheyenne Karen's hand in marriage if he will kill Gordon. He has Ford abduct Karen and take her back to the ranch. At the Longhorn club Gordon confronts Gilbert, who has Webb, one of the released rustlers with him. Gordon is forced to kill Webb in self-defense. Gordon is released on bond. At the ranch one of Ford's men tells Karen he has a message for her from Hal Ferguson, asking her to meet him that night. He persuades Karen to send a message back without Hal's name on it. Too late Karen realizes the note is to lure Gordon into a trap. She manages to escape to warn him. Gordon gets the message. Though suspicious he sets out with Jack Turnbull. Nearing the place they hear a woman scream. They encounter and outwit Jack Hayes, lying in ambush for them. Meanwhile Karen is captured by Cheyenne.

INSTALMENT XLI.

A MAD GAMBLE.

Cheyenne pulled the slip knots that fastened the ponies and brought them to her.

Karen faced him, eyes steady. "I'm not leaving here unless the other man goes, too."

A heat burned up into her eyes as he looked at the slim, lovely young woman. Gilbert had told him to marry her. Well, by God, he would do it. All he asked was twenty-four hours alone with her. Given that long, he could make her see this his way. This was the first chance he had ever found to be alone with her. If he didn't make the most of it there would never be another.

He did not argue with her any further. His strong hand seized her wrist as he swung to the saddle of his horse, the bridle of the other animal looped over his arm. Stooping, he dragged her up in front of him. She screamed, trying to struggle free. A palm clamped over her mouth and he set the cow ponies in motion. Almost she succeeded in breaking free and wriggling to the ground.

"Let me go," she cried furiously, still attempting to loosen his hold.

The sound of a shot came to Karen. She stopped fighting, to listen. Beneath her ribs the heart of the girl died. There was no second explosion.

A barb wire fence barred the way. He lowered her to the ground, his fingers clamped around her arm, and slid from the saddle himself.

"Let us go back," she begged piteously. "We may still be in time."

With a wire cutter he snipped the strands.

"We're not going back," he said curtly. "I'm taking you from that old scalawag Gilbert."

The faint pop of a distant gun explosion reached them.

"Let's go back first and stop the shooting."

"No. Too late anyhow. It's all over. Looks like Buck muffed the job. If he hadn't, there would not have been any need of a second shot ten minutes after the first. It would not surprise me if Stone had got Buck. Serve him right if he did."

Karen turned and ran. Her thought was to cut back to the horses, yet she knew that to try it was useless. Before she had retraced one-third of the distance his reaching arm had caught her shoulder.

"Nothing doing, lady," he panted.

Her small bosom rose and fell in deep breaths. "What do you want?" she cried. "Have you gone crazy? You can't do this to me."

"We'll have lots of time to talk about that, missy. I'm not a-going to hurt you any."

"If you'll only go back with me first and make sure——"

"I won't. Forget that fellow for a while. He's a criminal. I aim to save you from him and from yore old skunk of an uncle, too."

"You know what would happen to a man in this country who tried to kidnap a decent girl?" she asked, trying to speak quietly without hysteria.

"I'm not kidnaping you," he grinned. "I'm rescuing you."

It would be better to seem to yield, she thought. On a separate horse she would find a chance to bolt and perhaps escape.

"All right," she said. "I'll go with you. But it's a silly business. What is it you want with me?"

"I want you to get acquainted with a man. With me, Cheyenne. If you take a shine to me we might get married. You need some one who can stick up for yore rights with that old scoundrel Gilbert. I'm the hairpin that can do it."

"Much obliged, but I'm not looking for a husband," she told him.

Undisturbed, he chewed his quid of tobacco. "I reckon you don't know what you're lookin' for," he replied. "Give me time. You might find out I was the running mate you needed. Sure, I've been a tough citizen and helled around considerable, but you're the kind that needs a man of experience. Me, I've had it."

"I'm not interested," she said, disdain in her cold voice. "You rode out tonight to kill a man for pay. That's all I need to know."

"I've heard of one killer you're not so hard on," Cheyenne retorted. "And I'll say this for him, though I don't like a hair of his ugly head, I'd trust him a lot farther than I would that mealymouthed uncle of yours. There has to be some rockbottom decency in a man that makes him draw the line somewhere. Lyn Gilbert hasn't got it."

"And you have?"

He did not resent her contempt. It was entirely natural. He meant, if possible, to change her point of view. But that would take time.

"If a fellow hasn't gone rotten, if he lives by some law inside him, he can make a new start and run straight. It's like giving up drink. All he needs is to set his teeth in it."

"Am I to understand that you are beginning a new life of righteousness by kidnaping me?" Karen asked.

There was a gleam of mirth in his saturnine face. "Rescuing you," he corrected.

When they had reached the horses she flung a question at him abruptly. "Where are you taking me?"

Cheyenne knew that the slender, spirited girl who faced him with head up was smothering fear and he admired her for it.

"I don't know just where right away," he answered. "Back to yore friends in town when I get around to it. But I expect Buck Hayes will report to Curt if yore friend the convict hasn't got him, and Curt will get busy on the telephone. It would annoy me to run into an ambush and get filled with lead on the way in to Barranca. We'll have to hide out a while."

"Why do you do this mad thing?" she pleaded. "Don't you see that you are destroying yourself? Why play with words and talk about rescuing? The men who hunt you down won't do that. Kidnaping is what they will call it. You will just be a wild beast to them, to be hunted down like a wolf."

"I'm taking a chance that in twenty-four hours you'll be on my side," he admitted with frank hardihood. "All my life I've taken long chances. I like to gamble for big stakes."

"But I won't be on your side. What you are doing will make me detest and hate you. You are throwing away your life for nothing. It's not a gamble, but just madness."

"I'm not of that opinion." He swung a horse around and held the stirrup for her. "Get on, miss, or I'll throw you up."

Karen pulled herself to the saddle and he adjusted the stirrups, letting the bridle trail as he did so. When he had finished he lifted flinty eyes to hers.

"I'm letting you guide this horse, because we can travel faster that way. If you've got any sense you won't try any shenanigan. You wouldn't get fifty yards."

Karen did not say anything. She was sick at heart and full of fear. They rode for miles in silence.

Friday Concerts to End Today.

Some in Orchestra hall this afternoon will be saying au revoir until next fall, for many of the women who go regularly to the Friday concerts seldom see each other except on Fridays during the concert season. But because they are neighbors in the concert hall and because of their mutual interest in music, women who live far apart and whose paths almost never cross except at the Friday concerts, develop a feeling of friendship for each other.

So today at the last of the Friday series, these concert acquaintances will be saying warm farewells and wishing each other a happy and pleasant summer.

And when next they reassemble, on Friday, Oct. 14, they will greet warmly their old neighbors in Orchestra hall, for seats on Friday belong to the same women year after year. Oftentimes a daughter, or a daughter-in-law inherits a seat, and it is seldom that one has a new neighbor at a Friday concert. When the final notes of the final number on today's program, the finale from Wagner's "Götterdämmerung," have died away the women will disperse, some to go upstairs to the Cliff Dwellers to tea, others to go to the Cordon in the Fine Arts building, and still others to go north to Mrs. Walter R. Kirk's Lake Shore drive apartment for a meeting of the Chicago committee of the Evanston music festival.

Reports on Ticket Sales to Be Made.

Mrs. Loyal Davis will assist Mrs. Kirk as hostess. Reports will be made by the Chicago women who are disposing of tickets for the festival, to be held in Northwestern university gymnasium on May 17, 19, and 21.

The Cliff Dwellers and the Cordon are each bringing their Friday tea parties to an end, for their weekly teas are planned as after the concert affairs. Lillian Gish, now playing in "The Star Wagon," will be the especial guest at the Cordon today and Mrs. Andrew Sherriff, soprano, will give a musical program.

Mrs. Charles H. Hamill is to be hostess at the Cliff Dwellers, assisted by Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Chalkley J. Hambleton, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, Mrs. Frederick A. Stock, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, and Mrs. John Paul Welling.

London Girl in City to Attend Carr Wedding.

Miss Dorothea Worsley-Taylor of London, who is here to be a bridesmaid at the wedding on Saturday of next week of Miss Martha Carr and Peter G. Moon, will be an authority on American and English parties by midsummer, for after attending all of the festivities planned for Miss Carr and Mr. Moon she will return to London to take part in the debutante activities there.

Miss Carr's cousin, Robert F. Carr Jr., and his bride of last January, the former Miss Vesta Culbertson, are expected to return today or tomorrow from their long honeymoon trip. If they arrive today they will join the bridal party at a buffet dinner another cousin, Mrs. Marshall G. Sampsell, and Mr. Sampsell are giving tonight in their Walton place apartment.

Miss Betty Lord, who is to be a bridesmaid, is entertaining at dinner and dancing tomorrow night at the Drake hotel for Miss Carr and her fiancé, and on Sunday John I. Marshall Jr. will take the bridal party by bus to the farm in Indiana of his brother and sister-in-law, Maj. and Mrs. William Rafferty, to an all day picnic.

Charles T. Atkinson returned recently from an interesting holiday that included two cruises in the Caribbean sea. Mr. and Mrs. John T. McCutcheon, with whom Mr. Atkinson spent two months at Treasure Island, their home in the Bahamas, arrived yesterday with their son, Barr.

Mrs. Miller to Attend Meeting of Pen Women.

Mrs. Franklin M. Miller is leaving today for Washington, D. C., to attend the fourteenth biennial convention of the National League of American Pen Women. Mrs. Miller wrote the lyrics for four songs that are to be sung in Washington next week. Carrie Jacobs Bond wrote the music for one, Charles Wakefield Cadman another, and Radie Britain and Jeanne Boyd the others.

The Cradle auxiliary of Evanston will hold its spring rummage sale next Thursday at 615 Davis street, Evanston. Mrs. Harry A. Swigert is general chairman. Donations of clothing, china, and bric-a-brac are being solicited and will be called for by Mrs. Merrill C. Meigs if the Cradle society at 2059 Ridge avenue, Evanston, is notified.

DON'T MONKEY WITH TAKE-OUT DOUBLES.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

The best advice that I can give the would-be bridge expert is to keep his take-out doubles above reproach. Of course, there are a multitude of other points which can become pitfalls for the unwary, but none is more important than this department of take-out doubles. Some of the greatest catastrophes I have seen at the bridge table resulted from the misuse of this highly effective but delicate weapon. In the hand described below a 2,000 point penalty followed East's horrible take-out double.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Double	Redouble	Pass
Pass	2 hearts	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

Before I describe the play and report the gruesome fact that East took precisely one trick, the trump ace, on his eight trick contract, let us devote our attention to the more important phase, the bidding.

North's spade bid obviously was based on a shaded biddable suit, but probably was his best choice, and it certainly had a splendid outcome. East's take-out double was the sort of bid that fairly begs for trouble. A substantial part of East's unsubstantial strength was in the spade suit itself where it could be highly valuable on defense but of questionable worth if East-West should play the hand. East should have made no bid whatever. He should have passed with the hope that the opponents would climb to a high spade contract against which he, of course, would have splendid defense.

I call special attention to South's redouble. Many players are afraid of this type of redouble on the ground that they have such bad support for partner's suit. Under normal circumstances, I grant, adequate trump support is desirable, but in this situation South rightly assumed that his great strength in diamonds and clubs would be ample compensation, at the one level, for his singleton spade. It makes a vast amount of difference in so far as trump support is concerned whether declarer will be called upon to take only seven tricks, or nine, or ten. At the lower range individual tricks, as represented by aces and kings, often are sufficient, whereas at the higher ranges establishment plays usually become necessary. Thus, a redouble such as South's in this hand is strongly recommended because it has the dual advantage of offering a chance for game by merely taking seven tricks, or slaughtering the opponents if they run from the redouble.

West should not have passed to the redouble, such a pass indicating "acceptance," and of course West's holding did not warant such acceptance. He should have taken out to two clubs, which would have been at least one trick better than two hearts. East, on top of his previous dangerous take-out double, also was guilty of a horrible choice when it came to rescuing himself. One no trump would have been a much more logical rescue, leaving the way open to a bid of any other suit at the two level.

There was not much to the play. South decided that he could do more harm by attacking the trump suit itself than by ruffing a couple of spades, hence opened the heart jack. After that inspired lead East was helpless to take a single trick, except the heart ace. He led a spade. North won with the ace and returned the king, queen, and a low heart. South then led the club jack through dummy's queen, and it was all over, a diamond return from North settling declarer's hash.

The Housewife

If you hang your winter clothes in a special closet and close the door for the summer, or if you shut your house and move to the country or the seashore for the warm months, you can do so without fear of moths if you hang a box containing a product that kills them in the place where you store your garments. The container is not expensive and when one of the fillers is used it's simple to put in another.

This product, its makers claim, kills all stages of moth life, and this includes moth eggs, the worms, and the moths themselves. The vapor coming from the container penetrates every nook and cranny of the closet. This vapor is not odorless—in fact, it has a rather strong smell. But we have yet to find any moth preventive that does not have a decided smell. And this one does not cling to clothes.

THROW AWAY harsh LAXATIVES
—Use This Simple Plan!
THEY have discarded harsh laxatives entirely since using this milder method, many people write us. So we are passing the news along.
Immediately upon arising every morning, squeeze the juice of a lemon into a tall glass of cold or warm water. Into another glass, put half a teaspoonful of ordinary baking soda (bicarbonate). Pour back and forth, and drink when foaming quiets.
Do this regularly every morning and chances are you'll never need a harsh laxative. This simple beverage made with household ingredients may be all the corrective you need. Actually, we are told by many who have used this method for years, it increases in effectiveness when followed regularly.
Lemon and soda both help to keep the system normally alkaline and aid in increasing resistance to infection. Many have told us that this reduces their susceptibility to the common cold.
Try it ten mornings—the juice of a Sunkist Lemon in a glass of water with one-half teaspoonful of soda (bicarbonate) first thing upon arising.
See how you benefit—right from the start.

Anglo-Catholics Oppose Change in Doctrin.

LONDON, April 21.—(AP)—An advisory council representing more than 2,000 clerics and 50,000 laymen within the Church of England today declared its determination "to resist to the utmost the threatened disintegration of the Church of England."

The declaration was contained in a statement strongly criticizing the recent report of the church's commission on Christian doctrin.

This council, whose title is the Catholic advisory council, represents Anglo-Catholics within the Church of England.

Church Conflict Visioned.

It declared that if doctrinal standards of the Church of England in regard to the ministry continue to be set aside "bishops will eventually force upon many loyal and devoted churchmen a most painful conflict between their attachment to the Church of England and the allegiance they owe that one holy catholic and apostolic church in which they daily profess their belief."

By the term "one holy catholic and apostolic church" Anglo-Catholics mean those branches of Christendom which derive the ministry from apostolic succession.

Thus Anglo-Catholics consider the Roman Catholic church, the Greek Orthodox church, and the Church of England all parts of this one universal church.

Many advanced Anglo-Catholics regard claims of papal infallibility as the only point separating them from reunion with the Roman Catholic church, despite the latter's refusal to recognize the validity of any ordination but its own.

Says Bible Is Not Infallible.

The report which the council statement criticized was issued Jan. 13 by a 21 man commission headed by the archbishop of York. The commission was appointed in 1922 to resolve doctrinal differences.

Described by some church leaders at the time as the most important Anglican document in almost 400 years, it declared the Bible was not infallible, historical evidence for Christ's birth from a virgin mother was inconclusive and the Church of England was bound to resist papal claims.

The commission was divided on whether miracles occur but agreed God "could do" them if he "would." It said "it is legitimate to suspend judgment" on angels and demons or treat them "symbolically."

The Catholic advisory council said it was determined to maintain the integrity of those Catholic principles which are "now more seriously endangered than at any time in the last three centuries."

Opposes Women as Clerics.

Its statement reaffirmed the historical truth of the virginal conception and the resurrection of Christ.

It declared rejection of biblical evidence for miracles, the existence of good and evil spirits and eternal punishment of the finally impenitent was "clearly inconsistent with that scriptural and historic Christianity to which the Church of England irrevocably is committed."

The council deplored what it called the current tendency of official quarters of the church to recognize the validity of a non-Episcopal ministry and to admit women to the ministry.

Its statement also scored "many bishops" for "toleration of the use" of birth control methods and the policy adopted "in their dealings with divorced persons who have 'remarried' during the lifetime of former partners."

She plans to divorce her present husband, Jack Gordon, a Forth Worth, Tex., columnist, in Paris, and then to marry a millionaire.

REDS OF MEXICO USE OIL SEIZURES IN MEMBER DRIVE

Agent Reports 20,000 on Communist Rolls.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, April 21.—The Mexican communist party expects to utilize the relations between the United States and Mexico following the latter's recent seizure of oil properties to enlarge its membership further, said a report from a Moscow agent now in Mexico. The report was published in the Leningradskaia Pravda.

The communist movement is growing rapidly in Mexico, and Moscow now can count on 20,000 reds, the number enlisted at the end of 1937, as compared with 1,500 in 1935, the report said. A campaign for more new members was reported under way.

The American communist party also was reported to be working diligently in the United States to enlist sympathy for Mexico in its alleged struggle against exploiters, particularly against Germany, Italy, and Japan. They, it was charged, are anxious to develop Mexico into a "powerfully armed Fascist state which can threaten America with invasion."

Report Drive Against Trotzky.

Mexican communists were said to be leading a campaign to expel Leon Trotzky, anti-Stalin Russian revolutionary, who is accused of being involved in a Fascist plot and who, they charge, is a dangerous enemy of the Mexican nation.

The plan to organize a popular front party in Mexico following the lines ordered by Georgi Dimitrov, general secretary of the executive committee of communist internationale in Moscow, already is approaching completion, the report said.

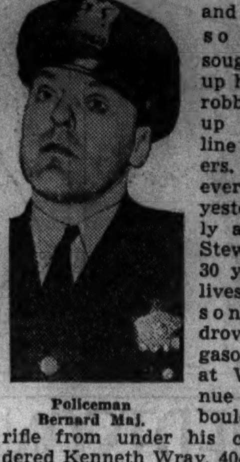
The success of the communists in Mexico, the report concluded, is expected to have an important influence in strengthening the program of communist internationale in the Central and South American republics.

Anti-Stalin Radio Active.

Secret radio broadcasters specializing in anti-Stalin broadcasts, still on the air three and a half weeks after their initial program, are urging Russian workers and peasants to utilize the May day holiday in Russia to demonstrate hostility to Josef Stalin's dictatorship. THE TRIBUNE on March 28 reported the first broadcast.

Radio amateurs in the Baltic states believe that not one but several stations are participating in the anti-Stalin campaign. It is believed also that the speeches are being broadcast from phonograph records, each station in turn broadcasting a record in an effort to prevent the GPU [Russian secret police] from locating the source of the messages by the use of radio direction finders.

GAS STATION OWNER WHO TURNED BANDIT SHOT BY POLICEMAN



Policeman Bernard Maj.

Business apparently wasn't so good at Clyde Stewart's gasoline filling station at 51st and May streets, so Stewart sought to make up his deficits by robbery. He held up other gasoline station owners. Police, however, caught him yesterday. Shortly after 7 a. m. Stewart, who is 30 years old and lives at 3232 Jackson boulevard, drove into the gasoline station at Western avenue and Jackson boulevard, took a rifle from under his coat, and ordered Kenneth Wray, 4042 North Mozart street, the attendant, to put up his hands.

The proceedings were seen from the filling station office by Policeman Bernard Maj of the Warren avenue station, who had been assigned there for just such an emergency. Policeman Maj shot Stewart in the abdomen.

Stewart was in the Bridewell hospital last night. He confessed six gasoline station holdups in the Warren avenue district and is suspected of four more.

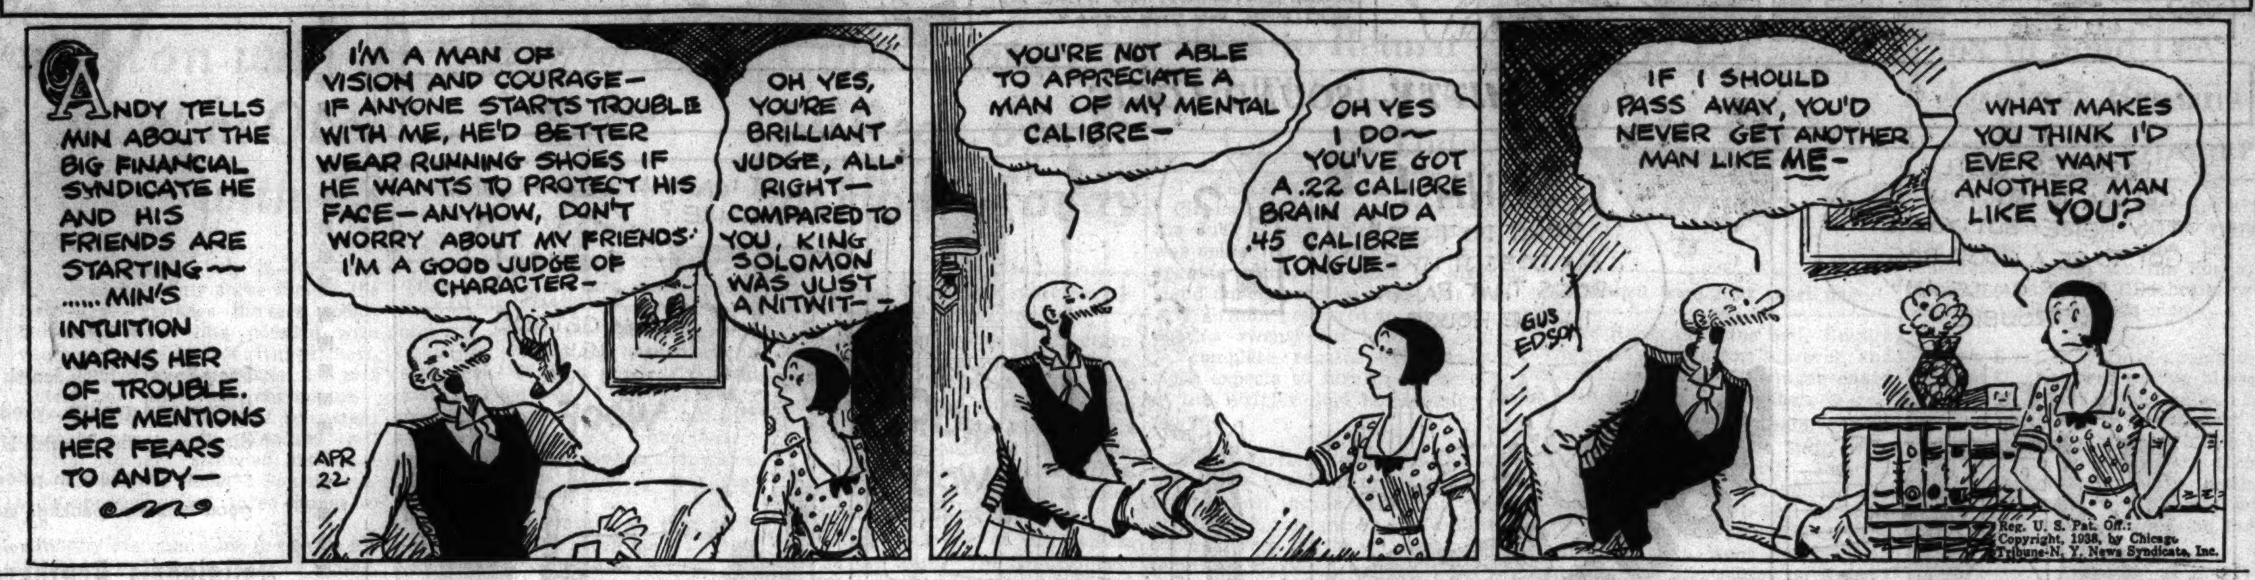
NAME CHICAGO SQUAD TO FIGHT EUROPE'S CHAMPIONS

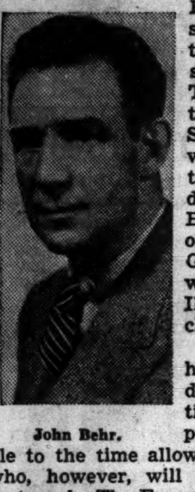
THE GUMPS—O MIN!



18 ARE PICKED TO START DRILL IN I. A. C. MAY 4

Invaders Will Work Out Aboard Ship.

BY WILFRID SMITH.



John Behr.

Chicago's Golden Gloves squad, which will meet the champions of Europe in the seventh international matches sponsored by the Tribune Charities, Inc., in the Stadium May 18, was named tentatively yesterday by John Behr, head coach of the team. The Golden Glovers will report in the Illinois Athletic club May 4.

Chicago will have two weeks' drills in preparation for the Europeans, comparable to the time allowed the invaders who, however, will be handicapped by travel. The European squad again will be in charge of Arthur de Kankovzky of Budapest, secretary of the International Boxing association.

There will be ten boxers and representatives of the nations which place these contestants on the international team in the party.

Arch Ward, sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who now is in Europe for the preliminary trials, has arranged for the group to sail May 4 from Cherbourg on the Queen Mary.

Work Out on Ship.

The European boxers will work out daily aboard ship and will resume their drills in Chicago May 11.

Eighteen boxers now have been selected to start training in the I. A. C. Changes later may be made in personnel and these largely will depend on whether the boys now listed can make weight. All of the eight 1938 champions will be asked to report, however. If any cannot make weight—the international rules do not permit a one pound allowance—they will have a chance to win a berth in the next higher weight class.

It is probable that all ten of the European boxers will fight in the Stadium but in deciding the international title the championship fights quite likely will be the only ones to count in the scoring.

Personnel of Chicago Team.

118 POUNDS—Frank Kainrath, Chicago C. Y. O., champion; Clayton Johnson, Sioux City, Ia.

126 POUNDS—Eddie Dempsey, Moline, Ill., champion; Bill Eddy, Flint, Mich.

160 POUNDS—Cornelius Young, Chicago C. Y. O., champion; Joe Benna, Valparaiso, Ind.; Booker Beckwith, Gary, Ind.

Two of these boys may have weight problems. Kenny Lottman, the flyweight champion, may not be able to get down to 112 pounds. In this event he will move up to the bantamweight class, where he will compete against Frank Kainrath, captain of the 1938 intercity squad, for a chance to fight against Europe. Clayton Johnson, bantamweight alternate, may have to advance to the featherweight class.

Well Fortified Division.

With Jesse Salzar of Omaha, Neb., who reached the semi-finals of the recent National A. A. U. tournament in Boston, and with Walter Cavalieri of the C. Y. O. also named in the flyweight class, the team will be well protected. Cornelius Young, the middleweight champion, who was unable to fight in New York last month because of a broken nose, may be ready to compete against Europe. Two other amateur boxers also have been named for this division.

The Chicago team again will be trained by John Behr, Fred Caserio, Paddy Kane, and Issy Kline, the same group of coaches which directed the Chicago squad in its 9 to 7 victory over New York in Madison Square Garden March 21. This was the first victory in the eleven years of intercity competition ever won by the invading team. Chicago now leads New York, 6 to 3, in the intercity series. In 1928 and 1936 the two rivals fought draw decisions, 8 bouts to 8.

Tickets Still Available.

Mail orders for tickets to the international show May 18 still are being accepted and there are seats remaining in the $3.30, $2.20, $1.65, and $1.10 sections. All 55 cent tickets have been sold. Send your check or money order to the Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower.

Bull Lea Defeats Menow in Test of Kentucky Derby Rivals

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warren Wright.

Menow, champion 2 year old of last season, the 1 to 9 choice in the betting today, and the second choice in the Kentucky Derby future book wagering, was soundly trounced in a mile and a sixteenth by Bull Lea from Calumet Farm stable, owned by Warren Wright of Chicago.

As a result the devil red and blue silks of the Chicago sportsman are flying high. Kentuckians are smacking their lips tonight in the thought that they had possibly watched the Kentucky Derby winner in action today.

Battle Long Awaited.

Bull Lea and Menow came together in the Merewith purse. A battle between the two had been awaited for weeks because they were the leading Derby contenders in training here. Because Bull Lea was making his first start of the season and Menow was going to the post on the heels of a spectacular victory at six furlongs a week ago, the plungers backed Menow.

Those who like the slightly better looking Bull Lea, because he is longer than Menow and is thus capable of taking greater strides, put down their small wagers on the Wright colt.

It was never close. Bull Lea was in front from beginning to end although the luck of the only bad start Bill Hamilton has made here this spring was against Menow.

Menow was caught flat-footed when Hamilton rang the bell. Bull Lea was ready to run at the drop of a hat. The start might have cost Menow a length. Bull Lea beat him much more than that margin. He won by three lengths from the Greentree stable's Birthday, with Menow third in the four horse field and four and one-half lengths back of the flying Bull Lea.

Once in motion Bull Lea not only proceeded to run like a smooth working piece of machinery, but he kept it up throughout the mile and a sixteenth to break the track record.

Sets New Mark of 1:44.

The old record was 1:44 4-5. The new one which Bull Lea hung up today was 1:44. Bull Lea ran the first quarter in 24 seconds, the half in :48, the three-quarters in 1:12 2-5, the mile in 1:37 1-5, then traveled the last sixteenth, while those behind him were staggering, in six and four-fifths seconds.

In the betting, due to the enormous plunge on Menow, Bull Lea paid $7.80. No place or show mutuels were sold. The total wagering on the match was $8,350.

Bull Lea is a much better looking colt than he was last year. He has thinned out in the neck and withers and is much more of a route running type than he appeared to be as a 2 year old.

Goes Back to Farm.

Bull Lea was cooled out after the race in the Keeneland receiving barn, then was vanned down the Versailles pike to his stall at Calumet farm, which is just a little more than a mile away.

He will be back at Keeneland a week from this afternoon to wind up his Derby training in the mile and an eighth Blue Grass stakes which closes the meeting here.

Owner H. P. Headley still believes Menow can win the Blue Grass stakes and also the Derby. He believes the start was a big handicap to his colt, which likes to run in front. Menow also may have missed the hard riding Jocky Charles Kurtsinger, his regular pilot, might have given him. Due to Kurtsinger's suspension in New York, Jocky Charles Stevenson was in the saddle on Menow today.

Golf's Man Who Came Back

Guldahl Close to Winning 1933 Open, but Falters

(Ralph Guldahl is the national open golf champion. He also has won the last two western open titles, and was the scoring champion of 1936).

BY RALPH GULDAHL.

When the time came for me to qualify in the national open of 1933, the tournament in which I made my real big time debut, I decided that I would attempt to qualify at the Chicago district trials, which were to be decided at Medinah rather than in my own St. Louis district. Since Chicago's North Shore club was to be the scene of the tournament proper, it had been allotted 27 places. I felt I had more of a chance to win a spot in the show here than I did at St. Louis, where there were only two or three places open.

Furthermore, the St. Louis field was a fast one, considering that there were so few places open. Among those entered there were Jim Fogertey, Orville White, Frank Moore, Coleman and Clark Morris, and Ben Richter, the southpaw star. The papers kidded me a bit for going up to Chicago, but I was mighty glad I did, for my 81—76—157 at Medinah was more than good enough to qualify. The winners at St. Louis had to be in the low 140s to make the grade.

A Title Looms—and Then Fades.

I wasn't playing very well at the time, and finished eighth in the St. Paul open. The national open came around and I began to hit my shots well, but was still six shots away at the end of 36 holes. John Goodman, the eventual winner, matched my 70 in the morning round of the last day, and those same six shots still separated us.

It wasn't until I reached the tenth tee of the last round that I even suspected I had a chance. The pressure had begun to tell on Goodman, who was playing in front of me, and he slipped to a 39 while I was getting a 35. That left me two shots back at 63 holes, but Johnny rallied coming home, and I decided to play at least for the $1,000 which goes to the first professional in the open.

Johnny finally reached home with a 37 for a finishing 76. There was a

WHITE SOX HAVE RELAPSE; TIGERS TRIUMPH, 9 TO 3

Nine Walks, Three Errors Aid Detroit.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Maybe the Sox were tired of beating the Tigers, or maybe they were just plain weary as a result of their leisurely spring training curriculum. At any rate, their arches flattened yesterday after four innings of sprightly baseball and when they retired to their bathhouse at the end of nine rigorous innings they were a whipped ensemble, the Tigers having come out on top, 9 to 3, in the final of the opening series in Comiskey park.

Under the Sox spring conservation of energy scheme no pitcher was permitted to pitch more than five innings in any exhibition game. Wednesday Sox pitchers walked eleven batsmen, but nothing much was thought about this in relation to the calisthenics plan, as the Sox emerged triumphant. When nine more were walked yesterday, two of them with the bases loaded, it may have occurred to some observers that the Sox would do better by going into spring training, after all.

Errors Are Bad Business.

Another factor in yesterday's outcome was the error business, which the Sox had abandoned with cheers after committing twenty in five games during the last week of their exhibition season.

The Sox committed three errors, all of which contributed to run making.

The Sox were going great guns before fatigue set in. They had two runs before the Tigers had made their first hit. They were in a 3-all tie at the end of the sixth, but things got tough in the seventh and weren't so good in the ninth. The boys must have rejoiced in the refreshing qualities of their showers.

All the Tigers' attainments were not due to Sox weariness, however. For instance, there was a homer by Hank Greenberg in the sixth inning. Hank smashed the ball onto the roof of the left field grandstand, something no one except Jimmy Foxx ever has done. This was one of the Tigers' total of eight hits, three of which were made off Clint Brown, who finished the game, even as he finished the first and second games of the series.

Bill Is a Little Wild.

The first inning indicated that Dietrich hadn't warmed up enough or maybe that he had so much stuff he couldn't hold it. After retiring Cullenbine, Bill walked Walker, Gehringer, and Greenberg to load the bases. Then York hit into a double play, Berger to Hayes to Kuhel.

The Sox made two runs while the Tigers were looking for their first hit, Kuhel registering both of them. Joe walked to get the second inning under way and went to third on Owen's single to center. Berger popped a foul to Ross. Cullenbine then made a backhand circus catch of Rensa's foul, Kuhel scoring. Dietrich flied to Cullenbine.

Tigers Fight Back.

The Tigers tied the score in the fifth on their first hits, a walk and two errors. Fox pushed off with a double along the left foul line, and forthwith scored on Ross' single to right. Rogell walked, but Auker, attempting to sacrifice, forced Ross, Dietrich to Owen.

Kuhel fumbled Cullenbine's grounder, and the bases were loaded. Walker fouled to Kuhel and Rogell broke for the plate. Rogell missed the plate while Rensa was receiving Kuhel's throw and was called out by Umpire Hubbard when Rensa tagged Rogell as he took a second dive for the plate. Hubbard turned from the plate for the customary umpire strut and did

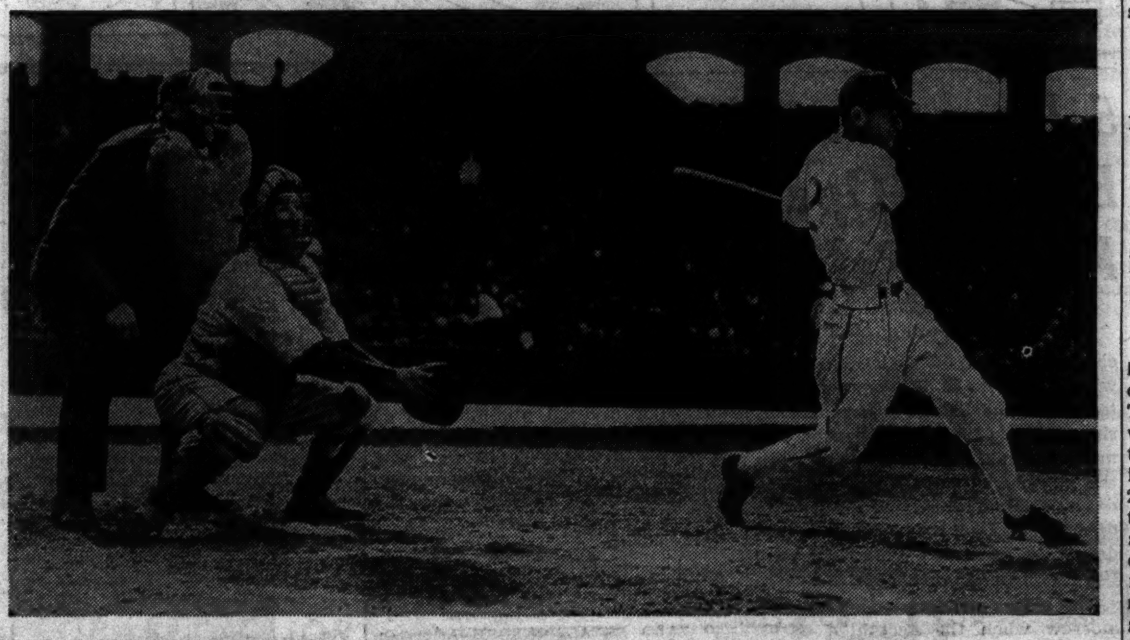
White Sox Set Up a Run and Then Score It



Marvin Owen, White Sox third baseman, singles in the second inning of yesterday's game with the Detroit Tigers in Comiskey park, sending Joe Kuhel from first to third. Joe later scored the first Chicago run. The Detroit catcher is Rudy York and the umpire is Cal Hubbard. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

FARR SAYS HE'LL FLY TO EUROPE; DENIES MARRIAGE

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—Tommy Farr, British boxer, who arrived at Newark airport from California today, accompanied by Charles Barnett, British newspaper man, informed reporters he "expects to fly back to Europe with Capt. Jones." He did not say when the flight would be made and he did not further identify Capt. Jones.

Farr mentioned the flight to Europe by way of changing the subject when a reporter questioned him as to whether he had been married. A "Mrs. Thomas Farr" on the plane's manifest had been scratched out and a reporter asked Farr whether he had married Eileen Wenzel.

"What are you doing, joking again?" Farr inquired. "She's got a contract with Universal. One word stopped us from being married. She said 'No.'"

Rambler Polo Team Beaten by Optimists

With Merrill Fink setting a new scoring record for one chukker, the New York Optimists last night advanced to the finals of the indoor polo tournament in the 124th Field Artillery armory. Fink made seven goals in the second period to lead the 15 to 7 rout of the Chicago Ramblers.

Fink exceeded the former armory mark of five goals in one chukker. His total of ten for the game was one short of the record made by Winston Guest of the Optimists in 1933. Guest last night scored only one goal, preferring to star at defense in which capacity he spoiled many Rambler attacks and fed the ball down field to his teammates, Fink and Billy Zimmerman.

Will Meet New York A. C.

By the victory the Optimists qualified to meet the New York Athletic club, winner over the 124th Field Artillery in Tuesday's semi-final, for the open title tomorrow night.

The crowd got a thrill when a goal by Herb Lorber and two by Steve Hammond put the Ramblers ahead, 4 to 3, early in the second period. Then Fink went to work, scoring seven goals in less than five minutes.

Black Horse Troop Wins.

The Chicago Black Horse troop won the first game of the evening from Fort Sheridan, 11 to 8. A five goal spurt by the troop trio in the second period, during which Fort Sheridan was held to two points, was the margin of victory.

LEE TO PITCH AGAINST CARDS AND WARNEKE

Drop Cincinnati Final, 6 to 2.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., April 21.—Paul Derringer, who for years has featured himself as an old meanie so far as the Cubs are concerned, was on the job today for the Reds and the good news the Chicagoans had hoped to send on ahead to Chicago to herald their homecoming tomorrow had to be withheld. Big Paul, acting just as he always has acted against his foes of the day, slipped them a 6 to 2 whipping for their first setback of the season.

For the homecoming the Cubs will be hosts to the St. Louis Cardinals, various members of whom have drifted into Chicago uniforms. Even the pitchers carry out the alumni theme. The Cub starter will be Bill Lee, originally purchased from the Cardinals. Against him will be the noted Arkansan, Lon Warneke, who ceased to be a Cub when, more than a year ago, he moved to St. Louis in return for Rip Collins and Leroy Parmelee.

Tex Carleton Suffers.

While Derringer was busy working his old magic on his pet enemies, one of his former St. Louis stablemates, Tex Carleton, had no end of trouble with the tail enders of 1937. Tex, although the victim of at least one hit in every inning, kept himself in a 2 to 2 deadlock for six innings. But that exhausted his influence. In the seventh the Rhinelanders suddenly developed a tough streak in which four solid knocks assembled three runs, and not content with that margin they picked up another in the eighth.

Derringer, who might be quite a man if he would display to other teams the same stock in trade he puts before the Cubs, was so good on this occasion that completion of his day's work was delayed by only four hits. Half of these were carried off by Herman Coaker Triplett, the rookie left fielder, but they didn't figure in the scoring. Neither did a single by Carleton. The other Cub hit was important. Ken O'Dea hoisted a drive into the seats after a pass in the third and thus gave his team a momentary lead as well as all of their runs.

One Hit in Six Innings.

The skill of Derringer was evidenced by the fact that in six of the nine innings only three Cubs faced him. In one of these six Triplett got his first single, but went out stealing. There would have been a seventh three up and three down session if it hadn't been for an error. The Cubs' feebleness against the fellow who now has beaten them 25 times while losing 12 can be pictured more vividly by mentioning that in the last six innings he issued only two passes, one intentional, and allowed one single.

Derringer's performance put a crimp in what the Cubs figured would be an impressive record to carry home for their Wrigley field inaugural. In the opener, which they won, they were a crowd of slashing bat swingers. They piled up 15 hits. The next day they fastened down victory with 16 safe blows. But through all this, today included, there have been a few weak spots. Despite a grand total of 35 hits, Billy Herman and Frank Demaree, the two fellows usually most deadly at the plate, have made only one safety apiece.

Marty Makes Error.

The Cubs fell over three in a row in the first inning, but the Reds, although not scoring, were a bit more fortunate in their initial effort. After Goodman had led off with a fly ball to center, Riggs singled to right center. Marty dashed over to retrieve

JOE MARCIENTE MEETS ENGLISH RING CHAMPION

Williams, Franklin Also Fight in White City.

Joe Marciente, New York trial horse, will face high class opposition in Ginger Foran, featherweight champion of England, in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, tonight. The meeting is one of four matches set for eight rounds.

Paul Williams, south side heavyweight, will endeavor to repeat his victory of July 30 when he meets Lem Franklin, Golden Gloves product from Cleveland. Williams has been idle since then, while Franklin has scored four triumphs in five appearances. The hard hitting Franklin knocked out Lou Campbell, Max Zona, Harold Ullmer, and Paul Ambers and lost to Freddy Fiducia.

Williams refused to sign until after Promoter Mique Malloy promised him a return bout in case he lost.

Johnny Helstrom, student at North Park college, will try to make it two in a row over Harry Booker, colored lightweight. Last March 30 Helstrom conquered Harry in Milwaukee.

Amateur boxers from Kankakee and Chicago will meet in a series of intercity fights this evening in the Madison Athletic club, 4711 West Madison street. George Dion, Kankakee welterweight, is paired with Ike Gaynor, Chicago; Gil Longton, Kankakee bantamweight, with Andy Canal, Chicago; Andy Franks, Kankakee featherweight, with Mike Sopko, Chicago, and Ed D'Orsey, Kankakee flyweight, with Ed Trinidad, Chicago. . . . Other shows tonight will include those in Armour Square gymnasium, 33d street and Shields avenue, and Aurora armory.

Ralph Mendoza, former professional lightweight, now boxing instructor at Armour Square gymnasium, will hold ten bouts. Joe McNamara, who has not officiated since he appeared in a preliminary battle on the Joe Louis-James J. Braddock heavyweight title card last June 22, will referee. Clarence Weaver of Aurora and William Jefferson, Savoy A. C., will top the Aurora Armory program.

THOMAS LASTS 5 ROUNDS IN MIXED RING, MAT BOUT

Kansas City, Mo., April 21.—(AP)—Harry Thomas, who lasted nearly five rounds with Joe Louis, lasted just that long against Lee Wykoff in a boxing-wrestling match here tonight. The match was scheduled for fifteen three-minute rounds.

The first four rounds were practically all Thomas'. Late in the fourth Wykoff, bobbing up from the canvas, grabbed Thomas' legs and quickly spreadeagled him. The bell rang before he could gain the fall, but in the fifth round he started earlier and the bout ended with Thomas rolled out.

M'CARTHY WINS IN QUARTER-FINAL HANDBALL MATCH

Three of the four quarterfinal matches in the Central A. A. U. handball singles tournament in the Medinah club last night were extended to three games.

Other results:

George Carson, Hyde Park Y., defeated Bob Kendler, Medinah, 21-17, 21-9.

SPARTA SOCCER TEAM TO LEAVE FOR NEW YORK

The Sparta Garden City team will leave tonight for New York to play the second game of the national soccer championship series with the St. Mary's Celtics on Sunday. Jimmy MacDermott is the only doubtful starter. He was carried from the field last week with a head concussion and two fractured ribs, but Manager Charles Fencl hopes the star center forward will be able to play against his old teammates. Sparta won last Sunday's game, 3 to 0.

Vinciquerra, Hartnek Win in Bouts at Omaha

Omaha, Neb., April 21.—(AP)—Carl Vinciquerra, former Omaha Golden Glover, floored for a count of nine in the first round, came back to win a six round decision over Salvatore Ruggerillo, Los Angeles, tonight. In another match Paul Hartnek, Omaha, was awarded a technical knockout over Bruno Dooley, Chicago, in the third round.

Armour Tech Tennis Team Beats Normal, 6-1

5 Decathlon Events to Open Kansas Relays

Lawrence, Kas., April 21.—[Special.]—The first of the athletes who will participate in the Kansas relays tomorrow and Saturday began to arrive today. Glenn Cunningham, former Kansan, who will compete in the mile, and Claude Kilday of Occidental college, considered the leading opponent of Dick Kearns of Colorado, defending decathlon champion, were the first two to reach here.

The relays will get under way tomorrow when the decathlon opens. Nearly 2,800 Kansas high school athletes, here for the thirty-fourth annual interscholastic meet, also will begin competition tomorrow.

Mile Run Is Chief Event.

The mile run in which four stars are entered will be the outstanding event. The stars are Cunningham, Don Lash, Gene Venzke, and Archie San Romani.

While fans are looking to the establishment of a meet record below the 4:12.7 set by Cunningham here in 1934, Glenn was not so optimistic today. He pointed out that the relays come between seasons.

"I am not so sure I'll set a new record," he said, "but one of the others might if they've had a chance to do more training than I."

The five events of the decathlon to be run off tomorrow are the 100 meter dash, broad jump, shot put, high jump, and 400 meter run.

Twenty-three in Decathlon.

The preliminaries for the relays and the closing five events of the decathlon will be held Saturday morning, with the relays proper getting under way Saturday afternoon. The 23 entered in the decathlon are:

Roller Derby Opens Tomorrow in Coliseum

A field of roller skaters well known to followers of the sport will open the annual Derby in the Coliseum tomorrow night. Among the teams which have won in other cities and in previous Chicago races are Ivy King and Johnny Rosasco, called the fastest combination on skates. Hazel Love and Joe Evans also are expected to be in the running from the start. A program of relay races will feature the opening card.

Londoners Like American Hocky; Wings Beaten, 5-4

LONDON, April 21.—(AP)—London vociferously hailed its first demonstration of American pro hocky complete with power plays and with an overtime period thrown in for good measure as the Montreal Canadiens defeated the Detroit Red Wings, 5 to 4, tonight. HUBBELL MAKES FIRST START AND BEATS BEES, 3-2

Competent as Ever in His 1938 Debut.

New York, April 21.—(AP)—All's well with the Giants. Carl Hubbell made his 1938 debut today and was as masterful as ever in pitching the National league champions to a 3 to 2 victory over the Boston Bees.

Hubbell fanned seven, walked only three, and was generally on top as he gave the Giants a 2 to 1 margin in their first series of the season.

Each side made eight hits and one homer. Al Cuccinello performed that chore for the Bees in the fourth, and Hank Leiber for the Giants in the same inning. Leiber later drew credit for driving in the winning run when he was walked with the bases loaded in the fifth.

DODGERS, 9; PHILLIES, 0.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 21.—(AP)—Young Forrest Pressnell, fresh from the minors, made his National league debut today by pitching the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 9 to 0 shutout over the Phillies.

Pressnell yielded nine hits, fanned three and walked only two while the Dodgers were combing Hugh Mulcahy and Harry Kelleher for fifteen hits to take the season's opening series, two games to one.

Pressnell looked particularly effective in the pinches, especially in the fourth inning, when the Phils connected for four hits and were unable to push a man across.

PIRATES, 6; CARDINALS, 5.

St. Louis, Mo., April 21.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates made a clean sweep of their opening series with the Cardinals by taking the third and final game today, 6 to 5.

The Pirates pounded Curt Davis for 12 hits in eight innings and added two hits in the ninth off Guy Bush and Max Macon to break a 4 to 4 tie. Davis was making his first appearance in a Cardinal uniform since coming here from the Cubs in the Dizzy Dean deal, but the defeat was charged to Bush.

MOON MULLINS—THE ADVANCE GUARD

Boston with 3 Hits Wins Over Yanks with 13

Boston, Mass., April 21.—(AP)—The Red Sox made only three hits to the New York Yankees thirteen today, but those three hits, coupled with wildness on the part of rival pitchers, were enough to give Boston a 3 to 2 victory over the world champions.

Still minus any kind of consistent batting punch, the Yankees left twelve runners stranded on base. The defeat gave the Red Sox the season's opening series, three games to one.

Johnny Marcum went the route for the Red Sox. Only in the fifth inning, when a single, Frank Crosetti's double, a walk, and George Selkirk's fly produced one run, and the ninth, when consecutive two baggers by Red Rolfe and Selkirk scored the other, was Marcum unable to hold the Yankees in check.

Atley Donald, making his major league pitching debut as a Yankee, walked eight, and that was the cause of his downfall before he was taken out in the seventh inning. In the third, three walks, Joe Vosmik's single and Jimmy Foxx's fly scored two runs, and in the seventh a walk and Vosmik's three bagger added the winning run.

Cleveland, O., April 21.—(AP)—Lyn Lary's double with the bases full in the eighth inning gave the Cleveland Indians a 4 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Browns today. Cleveland won the series, two games to one.

Earl Whitehill, 38 year old southpaw making his first start of the season, held the Browns to four hits in the eight innings he worked.

Guldahl Almost Wins 1933 Open

long, hot wait at the 17th, but at last I got through that and headed for the last green. I hit a good drive, and then smacked what I thought was a good six iron, only to see it fall into a bunker off the green. I had perfect confidence in the explosion shot which followed, and it came up four feet from the cup.

The strange feature of that putt, which would have given me a tie with Goodman and forced a playoff the next day, was that it was identical with that I had had on the same green in the morning round. I pushed that one off line, and the grain of the green kicked it farther away. In the afternoon I played it more to the right, but it was not a well hit putt, and cut sharply away. It is significant in those two rounds I used 35 putts in the morning and 36 in the afternoon, and was putting poorley on the final eighteen.

I would like now to add a few more thoughts on the explanation of the backswing which I started in yesterday's article. Let's say you are at the top of the backswing, and you ask, "Where has the weight been shifted to in this portion of the swing?"

In the course of the backswing the weight has been so shifted that it is largely on the right foot, although a substantial amount of weight is resting on the instep of the left foot. Usually the left heel is about half an inch off the ground when you have completed the backswing.

Right now I should like to give my opinion on the present day trend in regard to shifting of the weight, body turning, etc. Most ranking pros have gotten away from the long backswing and the full turn of the body. In limiting the backswing and body turn they have achieved greater firmness and compactness, as well as full control of the clubhead at all times.

Avondale Volley Ball Team Wins Park Title

Cubs Beaten by Reds, 6 to 2; at Home Today

the ball, but let it escape his grasp. Riggs sprinted to third on the error. Cooke looked a bit tough at the plate and was served bad pitches at which he wouldn't bite. The result was a pass. Carleton adjusted this situation by getting Craft on three strikes and McCormick on a pop up handled by O'Dea in front of the plate.

The Cubs got out of the runless class in the third. The first happening was a pass to Lazzeri. A moment later O'Dea drove his homer into the right field bleacher. Carleton followed with a single to right, but Jurges bounced to Derringer and a double play was put together. Myers threw out Herman.

Reds Solve Carleton.

Carleton's two run lead was melted down to a 2 to 2 tie before any of the Reds were retired in their portion of the third. Goodman launched a series of booming hits by slamming the ball over the center field wall. Riggs sent Triplett chasing into the left field corner for a two bagger. Triplett chased another two bagger, this one by Cooke, and Riggs scored. Craft then flied to Triplett, McCormick gounded to Collins and Jurges threw out Lombardi after the latter's grounder had sneaked past Lazzeri.

The Reds' fifth started in a fashion indicating that the deadlock was about to be dissolved. That's what the Reds thought, but Carleton fooled 'em. Goodman beat out a bunt and was safe at second when Carleton tried to force him on Riggs' sacrifice. Cooke sent Demaree back toward the wall for a long fly, Goodman taking third after the catch. Then Craft struck out and Herman threw out McCormick.

Cubs Fade Out.

The Cubs got themselves all set to do a little scoring in the seventh, but faded out with nothing. The inning opened with Demaree being tossed out by Myers. Marty walked and went to third on Triplett's single to center, this being the first Cub hit since the third inning. Triplett continued to second on the futile throw to third to catch Marty. After Lazzeri had disregarded a third strike, O'Dea was purposely passed. Then Carleton popped to Myers.

The Reds' profitable seventh started harmlessly on Goodman's pop up, but the real offensive was launched immediately. Riggs singled to left and stopped at third on Cooke's double to right. In hopes that a double play might result, Craft was purposely passed to fill the bases. McCormick singled to left center and Riggs and Cooke counted. Bad Man Lombardi slapped a single to right, Craft scoring and McCormick going to third. McCormick tried to get home on Kampouris' tap to Carleton but didn't succeed. A force play on Myers' roller to Jurges ended the agony.

Hack to Return to Third Base for Cubs Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., April 21.—Stan Hack, the Cubs' regular third baseman who was spiked on the right hand in the opening game, was back at his old stand during practice today, but Manager Grimm preferred to give nature another twenty-four hours in which to complete repairs. The ex-bank clerk expects to furnish his services in the Wrigley field homecoming tomorrow.

Phil Cavarretta, who was the regular first baseman until hit by a pitched ball in the exhibition game of April 13, thought he had fully recovered from the blow, but upon attempting to swing a bat discovered the soreness hadn't vanished. Just for safety the bandage was restored to the injured right hand today.

Dizzy Dean, who made a Cub debut in successful fashion yesterday, was able to lead a fairly peaceful life today. All that he had to do about 1,000 times was to repeat that his arm felt swell. Diz was a bit burned up because a visiting St. Louis writer had spread a report that there was a knot in his arm.

The Reds went to Pittsburgh tonight and they weren't very happy about that. You couldn't blame 'em. Last season they dropped twenty-one out of twenty-two games to the Pirates.

The Cincinnati fans, after their usual opening day splurge, have returned to normal. The attendance today was only 2,155.

The two pitchers who started today — Carleton and Derringer — were youngsters with the Rochester International league team in 1929. Their manager that year was Bill McKechnie, now leading the Reds.

Sox Pitchers Wild; Tigers Triumph, 9-3

Score Is Tied Again.

Greenberg started the sixth with his mighty homer, but Dietrich speared the next three batsmen. The Sox tied the score at 3-all in their half. Steinbacher doubled off the right field wall, went to third on Radcliff's sacrifice, paused on Kuhel's short fly to left, and scored on Owen's single to right. Berger forced Owen.

Then came the big Sox collapse in the seventh. Rogell opened with a single and was forced by Auker. Cullenbine singled to left, Auker stopping at second, after which Walker walked, loading the bases. Gehringer grounded to Kuhel, but, in an attempt to force Walker, Joe hit Dixie in the back, the ball bounding into left field. Auker scored on the fielder's choice and Cullenbine followed him across on the error, Walker reaching third. Greenberg was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. York also walked, forcing Walker across the plate. Cox replaced Dietrich and walked Fox, forcing home Gehringer. Ross hit into a double play, Berger to Hayes to Kuhel.

Gick Isn't So Bad.

Gick pitched the eighth and allowed only one runner to reach base. He hit Auker with a pitched ball. The Sox had the bases loaded with two out in the eighth, but Rosenthal, batting for Gick, lined to Fox.

Brown came in for his customary assignment in the ninth. Gehringer knocked a single to right and Greenberg beat out a bunt toward third. York walked, filling the bases, and Fox hit into a double play, Owen to Kuhel, Gehringer scoring. Ross doubled to left for the Tigers' eighth hit, scoring York.

Six Private School Swim Teams Compete for Title

Six schools, Harvard School for Boys, Luther institute, Wheaton academy, Francis Parker, North Park academy, and Chicago Christian High, will compete in the third City Private School league swimming meet this afternoon in the Central Y. M. C. A. Day High school pool, 19 South La Salle street. The Harvard school is defending champion.

Sox to Send Lee Against Browns in Road Opener

The White Sox will participate in the St. Louis Browns' home opener this afternoon. Thornton Lee is scheduled to pitch for the Sox and dispatches say Oral Hildebrand will start for Gabby Street's men.

Monty Stratton warmed up spiritedly while Dietrich was getting himself in a jam with first inning walks. Before the game Monty vowed he'd be starting games by May 1. If his injured arm has undergone the recovery he thinks it has, the betting gents, it is said, immediately will move up the Sox a few pegs on their pennant slates.

When Greenberg knocked a fair ball out of Comiskey park in the sixth he joined Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, and Jimmy Foxx on the list of those who have accomplished the feat since Greater Comiskey park was dedicated in 1927. Foxx is the only one who had cleared the left field stand before.

Jess Dobernic, an earnest young man who seeks to be a major league pitcher, yesterday was sent by the Sox to St. Paul on option.

The Sox made twenty hits in the three game series with the Tigers. An average of 6⅔ swats a game will not establish them as a murderous crew, in the opinion of students of the great national pastime.

The Sox used nine pitchers in the series, if you want to count Clint Brown, who finished all three games, as three pitchers.

OAK PARK NINE BEATS PROVISO ON ERROR, 2 TO 1

Oak Park was limited to two hits by Scharf of Proviso, but scored two runs on an error to defeat the defending champions, 2 to 1, in a suburban high school league baseball game yesterday.

Leon, Oak Park catcher, singled in the third and went to second on a fielder's choice. In attempting to throw to first on the next play, Miller threw the ball away and the runs scored.

A home run by Shortstop Dewey with the bases full in the sixth inning gave New Trier a 5 to 4 decision over Evanston.

Morton pulled into a tie for first place with Waukegan by shutting out Highland Park, 3 to 0, for its second league victory. Benac held the Highlanders to four hits. Score:

THE WILKEN FAMILY
BLENDED WHISKEY

Here's us on the river boat eating with the captain
We were surprised when Cap Dill trotted out The Wilken Family Whiskey. Was he surprised, when we sprung on him it was our own Family's Recipe! Harry E. Wilken

Real jolly folks favor Our Family's Recipe!

It seems like every time we go out, I've noticed the real jolly folks that love good eating and drinking always take mighty kindly to The Wilken Family Whiskey.

It's not the fact that they pay a real neighborly price that makes these folks so partial to Our Family's Whiskey. Their mind is set on getting a mighty tasty treat for their money and that's just what they get with the Personal Recipe of us Wilkens.

BRANSOME RUNS SOME TO BEAT SISTER FILLIES

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—Trainer Jim Fitzsimmons saddled his seventh and eighth winners of the metropolitan season at Jamaica today. In the third race he sent out William Woodward's Anaflame, an obscure Derby candidate, to win the Seaford purse from King Ranch's Sunshun, a still more obscure aspirant for 3 year old honors.

In the featured Prudery purse for fillies Bransome won by a head over Invoke, which led Rissa to the wire by three lengths.

Longden Rides Eighth Winner.

Johnny Longden, leading rider of the meeting, was in Bransome's saddle, thereby scoring his eighth victory since the season opened. Jimmy Stout handled Anaflame. Both were favorites, Anaflame being at 4 to 5 and Bransome a 9 to 5 choice.

For much of the way in the Prudery it appeared Bransome would lose. Coming into the stretch, Rissa showed the way.

When Rissa faltered in the closing stages both Invoke and Bransome went past. Bransome gave every indication of being a worthy candidate for filly honors in the stakes ahead. Bransome's time was 1:12 1-5 for six furlongs over a fast track and she shouldered 114 pounds.

Uallno Wins; Changes Hands.

Uallno, winner of the first and last race of the Jamaica meeting, to date is the first double winner. He changed hands for $3,000 after scoring in the final event today for George D. Widener.

SEABISCUIT HERE SUNDAY.

Two carloads of horses from the C. S. Howard stable, including Seabiscuit, will pass through Chicago en route to Belmont Park, New York, Sunday morning. The horses will arrive on the North Western at 8:30 and leave by New York Central a few hours later. Seabiscuit is to meet War Admiral in a match race at Belmont May 30.

Jockies, New and Old, Await Aurora's Call

The Aurora race track's position as lead off for the Chicago turf season has established it as the proving grounds for jockies.

Some youngster develops annually from the Kane county track as a threat for the national leadership. Last year it was Paul Ryan. Three years ago there was Paul Keester and before that Jack Westrope.

The Aurora jocky colony for the meeting opening May 2 probably will be the largest since the Cattarnich interests began improving the plant.

The new rule raising the weight scale will bring back many of the better known older riders, but the list of promising apprentices and newcomers will be an imposing one.

Puppy Show to Be Held in Sherman Hotel

BY BOB BECKER.

More than 125 puppies of many different breeds will be on exhibition tonight at the show being held by the Midwest Puppy Match association in the Sherman hotel. The judging will start at 8 o'clock in the exhibition hall of the hotel. The judges who will pick the winning puppies are Martin Hogan, Alfred Mitchell, and Horace Lepman.

Livingston E. Osborne, president of the association, announces two features for tonight in addition to the regular judging of the puppies. One is an exhibition of Ludwig Gessner's performing Dobermann, Jacky von Hahn. The other is a class for novice handlers to be conducted by C. E. Harbison, who will give dog owners many tips on handling dogs in a show ring.

Two Other Events.

Two other important dog events are scheduled for this week-end. On Sunday morning at 10 o'clock the Western Boston Terrier club opens its 38th annual specialty show in the Sherman hotel. Harry J. Brogan of Buffalo, N. Y., has been chosen as the judge for this show. The advance entry for this show indicates that more than 100 Boston terriers, including many of the midwest's most famous champions, will compete for ribbons and prizes.

While Boston terrier fanciers are assembling in the loop Sunday morning, sportsmen and retriever enthusiasts will be meeting on the Thomas Howell estate about 3 miles from Barrington, Ill. The occasion will be the second informal retriever trial sponsored by the Midwest Field Trial club of Chicago. Fletcher Garlock, president of the club, has issued an invitation to all hunters who are interested in the retriever breeds and all retriever owners in Chicagoland to attend this informal trial which will include an instruction hour for novice handlers.

Retrievers to Perform.

This informal trial will feature the work of Chesapeake Bay retrievers, Labradors, Irish water spaniels and golden retrievers. Sportsmen and retriever fanciers who want further information about this trial Sunday and the licensed retriever trial scheduled for May 14 and 15 are advised to write Fletcher Garlock at 135 South La Salle street, Chicago.

COMMERCIALISM DESTROYING U. S. PARK BEAUTIES

Walton Members Hear Dr. Henry Ward.

The natural beauties of America's national parks slowly are being destroyed and commercialism is now invading these magnificent outdoor areas, said Dr. Henry Baldwin Ward former head of the department of zoölogy of the University of Illinois, yesterday when he addressed the sixteenth annual convention of the Izaak Walton league in the Sherman hotel. Dr. Ward, president emeritus of the league, warned the Waltonians that it was time for them to notice the trend of the department of the interior's policies governing the national parks. The department of the interior, of which Harold L. Ickes is secretary, has charge of the national park service and controls the policy of that service.

"The inroads of commercialism are increasing at an alarming rate in our national parks," said Dr. Ward. "Prospecting and mining are to be permitted, with inevitable destruction of natural beauties and unique features that are wonders of the world. Ancient trees are to be sacrificed for lumber or recreational opportunities. It's time that the nation was made to realize what is happening to our great national parks."

How the establishment of the famous Superior National Forest area in northern Minnesota, a wilderness canoeing and fishing area known to thousands in the central states, is threatened by commercial interests was outlined to the Waltonians by Ernest C. Oberholtzer, president of the Superior-Quetico council. Mr. Oberholtzer pointed out that, in spite of the overwhelming national support of the Superior National forest, special interests continue to fight every step toward the final establishment of the playground in northern Minnesota.

Ira N. Gabrielson, chief of the United States biological survey, will be the principal speaker on today's convention program.

A. A. U. TO HOLD BIKE ROLLER EVENTS SUNDAY

The first Central A. A. U. bicycle roller title events will be held Sunday afternoon in the C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street, under the auspices of the Southtown Sportsmen club. The races will be held on specially constructed treadmill rollers with three men competing at one time. The races will consist of half and one and two mile events.

FACTS BEHIND OUR HUMAN CUSTOMS . . .

When meeting you "SHAKE HANDS" Why?

Before the DAWN OF HISTORY, one of Man's most natural customs had its beginnings in a simple gesture. By dropping his club or stone war axe and extending his empty hand, Primitive Man showed that he was unarmed and peacefully inclined. From this crude manner of inspiring CONFIDENCE in early times comes our handclasp of today.

HERE'S ANOTHER CUSTOM BASED ON FACT:

The Confidence that the public today places in the name GLENMORE is based upon the way this house has made whiskey for two generations. The traditional GLENMORE formula of using only the very finest selected grains . . . together with Kentucky's famed deep-well water, has produced an unusual Kentucky Straight Bourbon that is the pride of Kentucky's largest independent distillery. The unswerving policy of giving the most faithful attention to the preparation of this fine Bourbon brings its distinctive GLENMORE flavor. These are the facts behind the widespread custom that everyone knows when we say pour GLENMORE . . . you get more.

PUBLIC DEMANDS MORE LIGHT ON BROKER STATUS

Two Recent Failures Stir Investors.

Aroused by the Whitney scandal in New York and the failure in Chicago of the bucket shop firm of Hoagland & Allum, Inc., investors are demanding that more complete information be made available on the financial standing of brokerage firms and investment houses.

Despite overlapping supervision by various regulatory bodies, the investor actually has available little financial information on brokerage and investment firms. Such concerns do not publish their balance sheets and earnings statements, although such statements in many cases may be obtained by customers on request.

A study of the present situation discloses that there is no means by which the ordinary investor may be absolutely sure that he is protected against risk in dealing with brokers and investment houses, but there are several precautions which he may take which should insure him against loss through failure or fraud on the part of the firm with which he deals.

Look Up Financial Standing.

First, he should ascertain the financial standing of the house with whom he does his business. In the case of brokers belonging to any of the recognized stock exchanges the check-up on financial standing is periodically done by the exchanges themselves. The New York Stock exchange was "caught short" in the Whitney fiasco only because the exchange did not believe it necessary to investigate the finances of firms which did no business directly with the public. The Whitney firm was a "broker for brokers."

Second, the investor should investigate the reputation and history of the broker or investment dealer in question. In the investment business, as in other businesses, individuals and firms can be judged fairly well by the trails they have left. Significant information concerning the doings of such concerns has a way of getting around "the street" and coming to the attention of other investment houses and banks. In the case of the defunct Hoagland & Allum it was disclosed that the concern had applied to the Investment Bankers' Association of America for membership several years ago and had been rejected.

Exchange Members Favored.

In buying or selling stocks listed on a recognized exchange it is generally regarded advisable to place orders through a broker who is a member or associated member of the exchange on which the stocks are listed.

The Chicago Stock exchange and reputable La Salle street investment houses and brokerage concerns have undertaken a campaign of public education to enable investors to distinguish good firms from weak or dishonest firms. Several members of the New York Stock exchange recently requested permission of the exchange to publish statements, but this was denied by the governors of the exchange as a "matter of policy."

The three principal regulatory agencies at present are the security exchanges, the Securities and Exchange commission, and the various state securities departments. The degree of regulation varies with the type of business conducted by each firm.

Some Closely Supervised.

Investment experts agree that members of leading stock exchanges are probably the most closely supervised. They are subject to examination and regulation by all the exchanges in which they hold memberships and by the state securities commissions in the states where they do business. Nonmember concerns who do business with members of leading stock exchanges also are frequently regulated by the exchanges as well as by the state commissions.

Each New York or Chicago Stock exchange member doing business with the public or clearing transactions on the exchange floor for other members is required to submit financial statements to the exchange. These statements are almost always prepared by an outside firm of public accountants.

Statements submitted by a member cover [a] custodian relationships —securities wholly owned by customers and held by the broker to facilitate quick sale at the direction of the customer; [b] pledgee status —or customers' equities in open trades, and [c] the firm's own position in the market.

Capital Requirements.

The exchanges require a member firm to have free capital equal to a 30 per cent margin over the market value of securities in which it is trading on the firm's or partners' accounts. A firm must also have at least $25,000 capital in addition to any tied up in its own market position.

The leading security exchanges make their own audits of member statements. They also may make a check test of the financial standing of any member firm by making a surprise visit to the firm's place of business in the same way that bank examiners visit banks without notice.

No nonmember of a leading stock exchange can get a wire connection with a wire member without signing an agreement giving the exchange authority to audit its books at any time. It has been disclosed that Hoagland & Allum sought a wire connection two years ago and was

Profits of 82 Companies Dip 45 Per Cent

The first 82 industrial companies reporting earnings for the first quarter showed a combined drop of 45 per cent in net income compared with a year ago, according to a Dow-Jones compilation made yesterday. Most companies reporting yesterday had lower profits for the quarter.

Combined net income of the 82 firms amounted to $40,754,754 for the period, compared with $74,067,272 in the first 1937 quarter. Only 21 showed an increase over a year ago.

Plymouth Oil company and General Baking company were among the few firms which yesterday reported higher first quarter earnings for this year. Lower profits were reported by National Cash Register company, General Finance company, and others. A number of companies had losses for the quarter.

Plymouth Oil Has Gain.

Net income of Plymouth Oil increased to $702,892, or 69 cents a capital share, in the quarter, from $640,320, or 61 cents a share, in the first three months of 1937. The improvement was made despite the closing of all oil wells in Texas on Sundays for most of the quarter, the company announced. Plymouth's crude oil production in March, moreover, was the largest for any month in the company's history. This increased production was due to well completions in the last nine months of 1937.

The company's net income for March also was slightly higher, amounting to $265,209, or 28 cents a share, compared with $251,780, or 24 cents a share, in March, 1937.

With an operating profit for the quarter of only $77,877, Cutler-Hammer had a net loss of $34,417 after depreciation, patent amortization, interest, and reserve for inventory price fluctuations. In the 1937 quarter net profit of $450,784 was reported by the company. Inventory reserve appropriated for the 1938 quarters was $30,000.

U.S. TO PUMP BIG GOLD CREDIT TO NATION'S BANKS

$50,000,000 of Loans to Be Paid Weekly.

(Statistics on page 27, column 5.)

The treasury announced last night in Washington, D. C., that it will pump $50,000,000 of "gold credit" into the banking system weekly by paying off that amount of maturing government securities. The maturities will be met from the credit accruing to the treasury from the gold desterilization program announced last week by President Roosevelt.

By paying off issues held by banks the treasury will be able to force a rapid growth in the supply of lendable bank money. This is one phase of the credit expansion program by which the government hopes to hasten economic recovery.

Plan Gets Eight Week Trial.

The new policy will be followed, a treasury spokesman said, for at least the next eight weeks. After that the rate at which the money is fed into the banking system may be slowed up or accelerated, depending on the results obtained.

Current maturities of short term government securities are running about $100,000,000 weekly and issues not met out of the gold credit will be refunded.

While the treasury was preparing to feed new money into the banking system, the federal reserve board reported that it had directed the sale last week by the central reserve banks of 108 million dollars of government securities, presumably to prevent a too rapid rise in prices.

Statement Shows Reduction.

The reduction in the holdings of government bonds was shown in the statement of the reserve system for the week ended Wednesday, which was released by the board last night. The banks replaced the bonds sold by corresponding purchases of shorter term treasury notes and bills.

The excess reserves of the member banks of the system soared 760 million dollars last week as a result of the 12½ per cent reduction in the reserves which the banks are required to carry. The cut in reserve requirements was a companion step to the desterilization of gold, both moves being designed to expand the amount of lendable bank money. The chief difference lies in the timing of results. The new gold credit will be converted into bank reserves only as fast as the government spends the money. The cut in reserve requirements results in an immediate expansion in bank reserves.

Issued Gold Certificates.

The first step in the desterilization program was taken last week when $1,391,000,000 of gold certificates were issued by the treasury to the central reserve banks against the previously inactive gold. The next step is to transfer the credit the treasury now has at the central banks to the member banks. This will take place with the gradual retirement of government securities under the program announced last night.

Statements of New York and Chicago member banks for the week disclosed conflicting trends. New York banks increased their holdings of government securities by 46 mililon dollars, but Chicago banks reported a shrinkage of 21 millions. Loans of New York banks to brokers and dealers rose 56 millions. Loans to commercial and agricultural borrowers declined in both cities.

BANK CLEARINGS DIP BELOW YEAR AGO FOR 23D STRAIGHT WEEK

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—Bank clearings in twenty-two leading cities during the week ended April 20 fell below a year ago for the twenty-third consecutive time, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. The week's total execeeded that of the preceding week, however.

Clearings totaled $4,759,234,000, a decline of 18.6 per cent from the like week of 1937, but a rise of $628,807,000 over the preceding week.

New York's total was $2,866,381,000, a loss of 17.2 per cent from a year ago. Chicago's volume was $275,700,000, or 20.6 per cent below a year ago.

Except for an increase of 10.4 per cent at Dallas, other centers continued to show declines from a year ago. These were: Detroit, 35.4 per cent; Pittsburgh, 32.4; Kansas City, 30.1; Buffalo, 26.7; Seattle, 25.6; Boston, 23.5, and St. Louis, 20.8.

SOUTHERN RAIL ASKS BIG LOAN TO BUY EQUIPMENT

Washington, D. C., April 21.—(AP)—The Southern Railway company asked the interstate commerce commission today for permission to borrow $14,000,000 from the Reconstruction corporation to purchase new equipment.

The railway said it planned to purchase four Diesel electric or gasoline passenger trains costing a total of $500,000 and 5,000 freight train cars costing a total of $13,500,000. It proposed to offer as security for the loan $14,000,000 of equipment trust certificates.

The commission authorized the Southern Pacific company to borrow $14,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. In approving the application the I. C. C. found the Southern Pacific "may reasonably be expected . . . to meet its fixed charges without a reduction thereof through judicial reorganization."

Drouth Brings Big Loss to Farmers of England

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 21.—The long drouth is causing serious loss to farmers, nurserymen, and horticulturists in all parts of England. Meteorological authorities see no sign of an early break in the dry spell which in southern England has lasted since March 21.

Britain Sends New Protest on Oil Seizure

Eduardo Hay, foreign minister of Mexico.

The British note refused to admit that the incorporation in Mexico of Aguila, subsidiary of the British controled Royal Dutch Shell, debarred diplomatic intervention in the company's behalf.

The note, signed by the British ambassador to Mexico City, Owen St. Clair O'Malley, and delivered to Foreign Secretary Edouardo Hay, also rejected Mexico's argument that there was no denial of justice in the expropriations—as Britain charged in her first communication.

The second note was presented promptly, it said, in view "of the period which may elapse before termination of proceedings in the Mexican courts; that the Mexican government was not awaiting the outcome of the proceedings, and that great damage has already been inflicted on British shareholders in the company."

Appeal Hearing Advanced.

The court proceedings referred to were appeals by the expropriated companies for an injunction against enforcement of the expropriation order which they attacked as unconstitutional. Executives of the companies were notified today the hearing on their appeal has been changed from Sept. 29 to May 11. The move was not explained immediately.

Meanwhile, United States Ambassador Josephus Daniels, who has conferred frequently with government officials regarding United States companies involved, left by plane for Washington.

A lid of silence was clapped on Mexico's negotiations to sell oil today. The department of propaganda and publicity henceforth will handle all statements from the national petroleum council and Government Export company, it was disclosed by a government official, who said there had been "too much loose talk."

Cabinet Meeting Postponed.

Heretofore Vicente Cortes Herrera, general manager of the petroleum council, and Gustavo Espinosa Mireles, head of the export company had enjoyed the privilege, not given any other Mexican official except President Lazaro Cardenas, of speaking for themselves.

President Cardenas, meanwhile, postponed until Tuesday a full cabinet meeting which had been set for today. After the cabinet meeting, it was reported unofficially, he intended to speak to the nation by radio on problems resulting from nationalization of the foreign oil industry March 18, including the glut of oil in government tanks.

A. O. SLAUGHTER & CO. DISSOLVES; STAF JOINS HARRIS, UPHAM

A. O. Slaughter & Co., brokerage firm located at 120 South La Salle street, will retire from business as of April 1 and their accounts will be consolidated with Harris, Upham & Co., 135 South La Salle street.

Kingman Douglass, senior partner of A. O. Slaughter, who made the announcement last night, will become a limited partner in Harris, Upham. Reginald O. Dunhill, Raymond F. McNally, Wallace C. Winter, and the entire production staf of the Slaughter firm will also become associated with Harris, Upham. McNally and Dunhill have been Slaughter partners, and Winter is a member of the board of governors of the Chicago Stock exchange.

With volume of transactions at present low levels, Douglass said, he is "not bullish" with regard to stock exchange business, and wishes to take a less active part in it.

Big Bond Sale Hints Flow of New Financing

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—The rapid absorption in the investment market today of the $60,000,000 bond issue of the Consolidated Edison company of New York was believed by bond dealers to have opened the way for a flow of new financing delayed for several months.

Morgan Stanley & Co., which headed the offering syndicate, reported that the entire issue had been disposed of to dealers by midafternoon. The bonds were quoted at a premium over the offering price on the market and the success of the offering, the largest in months, imparted strength to the bond market generally.

Aided by Idle Funds.

The fact that banks had on hand a large supply of unemployed funds as a result of the reduction ordered last week in bank reserve requirements was said to have been an important factor in the success of today's offering. Banks and other large institutional investors were reported to have taken large blocks of the new issue. Banks also were reported to have been heavy purchasers of government bonds during the last few days because of the additional idle funds they have. Government bond prices have been moving up steadily since the cut in the reserve and they advanced again today. Corporate issues advanced with government bonds today.

Millions Put to Work.

Investment dealers said that many millions of funds have been put back to work in the last few days, not alone by banks but by other investors who have been encouraged by the stronger tone in the market.

If the investment market reopens on a large scale, it was said, it may permit utility corporations planning expansion to sell securities to private investors rather than go to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for funds. President Roosevelt yesterday announced plans for making available RFC funds for the purchase of utility bonds.

Chicago investment bankers said yesterday that the success of the Consolidated Edison issue may encourage offering additional utility securities in the near future. The Commonwealth Edison company has been considering the offering an issue of convertible debentures for several months but market conditions have held up the issue. Inquiry yesterday indicated that the company has no immediate plans for marketing the issue.

C. & O. ASKS FOR PROXIES TO PROVIDE QUORUM

Cleveland, O., April 21.—(AP)—The Chesapeake and Ohio railway management asked stockholders today to give it sufficient additional proxies to provide a quorum at the railroad's adjourned annual meeting on May 10 in Richmond, Va.

At the original meeting, last Tuesday, 41 per cent of the common stock came to the support of the C. & O. management which Robert R. Young, Alleghany corporation chairman, is striving to maintain in office.

RAILS AND LABOR AGREE ON PLANS TO AID CARRIERS

Include $300,000,000 Equipment Loans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 21.—An emergency program calling for legislative action at this session of congress was agreed upon by railway management and labor at a conference conducted today by Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.]. It included $300,000,000 of equipment loans, Reconstruction Finance corporation loans without interstate commerce comission approval to save border line roads from receivership, and Works Progress adminstration work relief project.

Senator Wheeler.

After the conference Senator Wheeler, who is chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, said he hoped that legislation carrying out the emergency proposals could be enacted at this session.

Doesn't Include Earlier Plans.

Such legislation, however, would not include the recommendations made by President Roosevelt's committee of the interstate commerce commission for a federal transportation authority, a special court to administer railroad reorganizations, and revision of section 77 of the bankruptcy act to simplify and expedite reorganizations.

Senator Wheeler said he told the representatives of railway management and labor that there was no hope of direct subsidies to the railroads.

"Some of the railroads," he said, "ought to go through receivership and loans should not be made to them. But in border line cases where they might be tided over to see if general business conditions pick up, it was generally agreed that they should not be forced through reorganization."

Loans Without I. C. C. Approval.

This agreement referred to the proposal of the President's committee that the Reconstruction Finance corporation be empowered for twelve months to make loans for the railroads to meet their fixed charges without certification by the interstate commerce commission.

The President's committee also recommended that $300,000,000 be made available from government funds for equipment loans, and this proposal was agreed to at the conference today. Senator Wheeler said the money could come out of the

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—With public utility shares leading the way by advancing from fractions to more than a point, the stock market rallied mildly today and closed irregularly higher. Trading was quiet, with around 600,000 shares moving.

The better demand for the power and light issues was traced to the Washington administration's plans to aid utility companies finance new construction. The rapid absorption of Consolidated Edison's $60,000,000 bond issues was another favorable factor.

A flurry of activity in Chrysler in the fourth hour featured the industrial sector, which backed and filled indecisively for most of the session. The stock recovered from a 1 point loss to 44¾, for a small fractional net loss. Other motors, notably General Motors and Yellow Truck, closed at or near previous finals, labor troubles in the industry militating against the group.

Carrier shares moved narrowly and at the close the majority of leaders were not much changed from Wednesday's finals.

Profit taking, which was largely expected following yesterday's sharp increases, resulted in a narrowly mixed aviation group, although turnover still was fairly active.

Steel shares, notably U. S. Steel common, Bethlehem, Republic, and Youngstown, showed small net losses on the day, giving ground after a steady opening. The group was relatively inactive.

Chicago Stocks.

Stocks on the Chicago exchange moved irregularly yesterday, with 21,000 shares traded, against 17,000 on Wednesday. Most changes were fractional. Of the sixty-four issues traded, twenty-one advanced, twenty declined, and twenty-three were unchanged.

Most of the volume leaders were unchanged to fractionally higher. Middle West, in which there was the largest turnover, with sales of 3,100 shares, advanced ⅜ to close at 5⅝. Cities Service, next, with 1,450 shares, was unchanged at 1⅛. Commonwealth Edison was up ⅛ at 23¾, and Quaker Oats moved ahead ¼ to 95. Borg-Warner finished unchanged at 21½.

Arrangements were completed yesterday for the sale of a membership at $1,600, unchangd from the last previous sale.

Bank Stocks.

First National bank shares eased $1 yesterday at $171 bid, $176 asked. Continental Illinois National gained 50 cents a share to $60.50 bid, $62.50 asked. City National advanced $3 to $125 bid, $129 asked. Northern Trust rose $5 a share at $505 bid, $515 asked. Chicago Title and Trust company shares were $2 higher at $117 bid. Personal Loan advanced $1. Lake Shore Trust and Savings declined $1, National Boulevard dipped $5, and Terminal National eased 50 cents.

WHEAT PRICES ADVANCE EARLY, BUT THEN REACT

Wheat prices in American markets advanced more than 1 cent a bushel in the early trading yesterday in sympathy with strength in Liverpool, unfavorable crop reports from Europe, and evidence of further export business, only to react late in the session when Winnipeg weakened. Closing sales on the Chicago Board of Trade were unchanged to ¼ cent lower.

A decline of 6 cents a bushel in the premium for No. 1 northern spring wheat at Winnipeg led to liquidation by holders of futures in the Canadian market and the close was 1 to 1¼ cents lower on the old crop months. No. 1 northern was quoted 8 cents above Winnipeg May at the close, compared with 18 cents a week ago and 30 cents a little earlier. Liverpool futures were 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents higher.

Corn futures held within a range of ½ cent and closed unchanged to ⅜ cent lower. Some buying was attributed to exporters, but foreign demand was generally low.

GRAIN IN OTHER MARKETS

Commodities

Commodity futures markets for the second consecutive day moved unevenly, with changes narrow, and advances and declines well mixed.

On the upside were copper, rubber, silk, cocoa, and cottonseed oil futures. Declines were registered by tin, lead, hides, coffee, sugar, and wool top contracts. The Dow-Jones index of commodity futures closed yesterday 0.03 lower at 50.39 [1924-'26 average equals 100].

Copper contracts advanced 0.03 to 0.11 cent a pound. In the cash market, export copper prices drifted lower. Tin futures dropped 0.30 to 0.40 cent a pound and lead contracts dipped 0.01 to 0.04 cent. Zinc was unchanged.

Hide contracts slipped 0.04 to 0.05 cent a pound on sales of 3,680,000 pounds, about half of Wednesday's volume, when an advance was made. The cash hide market this week has been fairly active, with about 24,000 hides sold by packers in the last two days.

Rubber futures were 0.10 to 0.06 cent higher yesterday, with the May contract closing at 12.52 cents. Silk advanced ½ cent to 2 cents a pound.

Santos coffee dropped 0.01 to 0.04 cents a pound, and Rio contracts were 0.02 to 0.04 cent lower.

Cash prices as a whole advanced yesterday. The Associated Press index of 35 weighted wholesale commodity prices moved to 67,86, compared with 67.67 on Wednesday [1926 equals 100].

The bureau of labor statistics announced yesterday that the index of wholesale commodity prices for the week ended April 16 had advanced 0.01 to 78.6 per cent of the 1926 average of 100. It was the first week in the last six that the index moved upward.

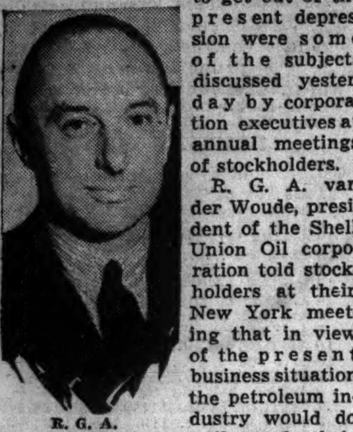
TRIM GASOLINE NEEDS ESTIMATE, SHELL HEAD SAYS

Dairy Head Tells of Tax Reports Made.

Excessive gasoline production, burdensome taxation reports, and ways to get out of the present depression were some of the subjects discussed yesterday by corporation executives at annual meetings of stockholders.



R. G. A. van der Woude.

R. G. A. van der Woude, president of the Shell Union Oil corporation told stockholders at their New York meeting that in view of the present business situation the petroleum industry would do well to make their estimates as to gasoline requirements on a more conservative basis. Present estimates of future consumption are generally based on some slight increase over last year's consumption, he declared.

"A revision upward at a later date could always easily be made should actual conditions justify," he said. "This is the more important in view of the excessive stock now on hand."

Report Every 15 Minutes.

Thomas H. McInnerney, president of the National Dairy Products corporation, which operates both wholesale and retail dairy products divisions in various parts of the country, complained of the burden of having to make out a huge number of tax returns. In 1937, he said, the company made 11,115 separate reports at a cost of $265,000.

One report was made for every 15 minutes of the business day during the year, he added. Reports of all kinds which the company had to make totaled 75,000 and cost $1,000,000. One government agency, he declared, asked 5,000 questions in one request for information.

McInnerney said the company for the first quarter of this year carried on its operations on a profitable basis.

Asked by a stockholder if he had anything to offer in getting out of the depression except to go back where we were, Edward J. Cornish, chairman of the National Lead company, replied: "When I get lost, that is what I try to do—get back where I started from."

Cornish said that the business of the company is off at least 30 per cent from last year, adding that the present depression is the most serious that he has ever known.

Vanadium Making a Profit.

E. D. Bransome, president of the Vanadium Corporation of America, told stockholders that the company operated at a small profit in the first quarter of this year. He said that inventories of alloys held by steel companies were quite low and any upturn in the steel business should cause Vanadium to increase its operations somewhat faster than general business.

The management of the Alpha Portland Cement company, meeting in New York, was upheld by the stockholders in its differences with Claude K. Boettcher, Denver, a member of the board of directors. The stockholders approved the reduction of the number of directors from ten to nine, and reëlected all directors except Boettcher.

Charles E. Adams, chairman of the board of the U. S. Industrial Alcohol company, said that gross sales in the first quarter of 1938 declined about 11 per cent from the volume of a year ago and that since April 1 the volume has declined further.

Purchase Robert Rau, Inc.

Adams announced that the company has arranged for the purchase of the assets of Robert Rau, Inc., Newark, N. J., manufacturer of synthetic resins, for 22,000 shares of common stock of the National Distillers' Products corporation. At the current price of about $20 a share the block of Distillers is worth about $440,000.

Stockholders of Horders, Inc., Chicago office supply store chain, were told that March business showed a decline from both March, 1937, and from the February, 1938, level. However, during April there was a leveling off, and at present there is an upward trend, it was stated. Glen A. Lloyd was elected to the board to succeed Benjamin Kulp.

New York Curb—3.

More than 1,000 security issues now are traded on the New York Curb exchange. Stocks are traded at 24 posts at various parts of the big trading floor. Bonds are traded over a series of flat-topped counters instead of around posts. Collateral loans are arranged at a "money" post in one corner of the floor.

Trading volume on the curb exchange has contracted sharply this year, as has trading in other markets. The volume in 1929, the all-time peak year, was 476,140,375 shares. The peak month was October, 1929, when 62,658,100 shares were traded. The biggest week saw 17,450,730 shares change hands from Oct. 21 to 26, 1929. The market's peak full day volume was 7,096,300 shares on Oct. 29, 1929, and the largest for any two hour Saturday session was 1,832,200 shares on July 13, 1929.

The New York Curb now has about 550 regular members and about 400 associate members. Of the total number of regular members, about 300 usually are on the floor during trading hours.

SEC SEEKS RECORDS IN QUIZ OF MEXICAN TIMBER LAND STOCK

Securities and Exchange commission officials investigating the acquisition of 2,000,000 acres of Mexican timber land by the Resources Corporation International, a Chicago company, concluded yesterday's hearing with a request that land contracts and other documents supporting the $9,000,000 valuation placed on the holdings by the corporation be submitted today.

The SEC hearing, held in the Bankers building, is on the proposed public offering of 35,000 shares of the company's stock at $11 a share. The shares are a part of the block of 735,000 shares issued to Harper S. Hoover, promoter of Resources corporation and chairman of its board, in exchange for his equity in the land. The SEC questions the value placed by the firm on the Mexican land holdings.

Hoover testified the $9,000,000 valuation was not the result of expert appraisal, but declared that it was a computation of his own based on such appraisal. Two tracts of the land were purchased by oral contract, he said. He was asked by SEC attorneys to search his files in an effort to find missing contracts for the four other tracts.

Officer Withdraws as Broker.

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—Arnold Joerns, vice president of the Resources Corporation International, has withdrawn his registration as a broker in the over the counter market, the SEC announced today.

SECURITY FILINGS IN QUARTER FALL TO 3 YEAR LOW

Effective Total Near 366 Millions.

Washington, D. C., April 21.—(AP)—The securities commission reported today that effective security registrations declined during the first three months of 1938 to the lowest total for any quarter in the last three years.

In the first quarter of this year, $355,819,000 of new securities were registered effectively under the securities act. Included in this total were $21,997,000 of securities registered against conversion of issues having convertible features. Excluding these reserved issues, new securities whose gross proceeds were estimated at slightly more than $333,822,000 became fully effective in the first quarter.

Fourth of 1937 Figure.

This total was about one-fourth of the $1,297,115,000 registered in the first quarter of 1937. It compared with $356,066,000 in the final three months of 1937.

The commission reported that the first quarter of this year included registrations of many large issues of investment and trading companies, which totaled 48.1 per cent of all registrations other than those registered against conversions.

276 Million Cash Sale.

Approximately $79,795,000, or 22.4 per cent, of all the securities registered during the quarter were intended for purposes other than immediate offering for cash. After deducting the securities registered for conversion and other purposes, there remained $276,024,000 of registered securities proposed to be offered for cash sale.

Of these securities $261,363,000 represented securities of established enterprises and $14,661,000 were scheduled to be initial offerings of newly organized companies.

SEC IS DIVIDED ON QUESTION OF CALLING MORGAN

Douglas Opposed by Other Members.

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—Whether to call J. P. Morgan as a witness at the current hearings into the failure of Richard Whitney & Co. is a question sharply dividing the members of the Securities and Exchange commission, it was learned today.

According to informed sources, only William O. Douglas, chairman, favored calling Morgan, several of whose partners have either been called or will be called to testify concerning the advance knowledge they had of the wobbly financial condition of Richard Whitney's brokerage firm. The other four commissioners were said to oppose calling him.

It was believed the attorneys might desire to ask Morgan whether the other partners followed a rule of the firm requiring the senior partner to be consulted in matters of large loans.

Three Morgan Partners Called.

Announcement was made yesterday that the commission would call Thomas W. Lamont, Charles Dickey, and Arthur Anderson, all Morgan partners, and it is expected that Lamont will be asked if he consulted Morgan concerning the $1,082,000 loan made to Richard Whitney through his brother, George, a Morgan partner.

The majority of the SEC commissioners, who have opposed the calling of Morgan, hold that no matter what justification might appear on the record for calling the well known banker, the public would regard it as a "smear" or "publicity stunt," it was learned.

It is understood that Douglas has contended that all pertinent witnesses should be called regardless of the importance. Not to call all who can supply facts would be to create the impression, as well as a bad precedent, that the commission bows to greatness, he is said to have contended.

Testify on Loans.

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—Millionaires, who lent Richard Whitney one fortune after another, without security, when his brokerage firm was headed toward bankruptcy, told the Securities and Exchange commission today how the convicted broker persuaded them to do it.

"I knew Mr. Whitney and I trusted him," said Kenneth B. Schley, of Moore & Schley, describing how he loaned the borrowing broker a block of stock in the Underwood, Elliott, Fisher company worth $128,000. "I never got it back," he added.

Walter T. Rosen, of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., told how he advanced $100,000 on Feb. 18.

Rosen said before he made the loan he asked Whitney "point blank" concerning the condition of his firm and Whitney replied: "Walter, beyond all liabilities, the firm's capital is $675,000."

Producing Oil Wells in Illinois Total 399; 51 Dry

Urbana, Ill., April 21.—(AP)—The state geological survey reported today that on April 5 there were 399 producing oil wells in the new Illinois fields and fifty-one dry holes within a quarter of a mile of production areas. A total of 82 wells came in as producers during March, the report said, including 57 wells in Clinton county and 19 in Richland county.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Restricted consumer buying of meats caused another slump in wholesale prices yesterday, some cuts falling to new four year lows for April. Beef was weak to 50 cents per hundred pounds lower. Veal was unchanged. Lamb meat ranged from weak to $1.00 lower. Declines in some cuts of fresh pork amounted to as much as 50 cents.

Unsatisfactory demand for meats was reflected in trading in live stock. Slaughter lambs dropped 15 to 25 cents to the lowest levels in almost a month. There was a weak undercurrent in the trade for most cattle. Steers and yearlings of good quality held about in line with the average of the preceding session, but slight losses were registered in some of the cheaper classes.

The 5 to 10 cent higher prices for hogs early yesterday caused most of the principal buyers to reduce their orders, and most of this advance was lost later.

RAILS AND LABOR AGREE ON PLANS TO AID CARRIERS

Include $300,000,000 of Equipment Loans.

proposed 4½ billion dollar "pump priming" program, which includes an authorization for the RFC to make loans for any purpose. The railroad equipment, Senator Wheeler said, would be put up as security for the loans.

Will Hold More Parleys.

Senator Wheeler said he would hold further conferences with leaders of the house of representatives, Chairman Jesse Jones of the RFC, and Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress administrator, before introducing the emergency legislation. He wishes to confer with Hopkins regarding the proposed railroad work relief projects. Under such a plan the WPA would provide projects for furloughed railroad workers, with the railroads supplying the materials and the government paying the wages.

The spokesmen for railway management and labor also agreed upon repeal at this session of congress of the long and short haul clause of the interstate commerce commission act. This law prohibits the roads from charging less for long hauls than the aggregate charge for intermediate short hauls. The bill to make this change passed the house by an overwhelming majority at the last session and is now pending in Wheeler's interstate commerce committee. Wheeler said he was opposed to the bill, but would hold a meeting of his committee Tuesday for the purpose of reporting it out and giving the senate an opportunity to vote on it. Its passage is conceded.

Would Eliminate U. S. Grants.

Management and labor further agreed that government trafic should pay full freight rates by eliminating land grant reductions, as proposed by the President's committee. Senator Wheeler's only stipulation, which was acceptable to the conferees, was that the transportation of troops and supplies in war time be excepted from the full rates.

The important question of wages was not discussed at the conference. The railroads, it is understood, will make a final request of the interstate commerce commission for a freight increase of 5 per cent, and if it is not granted they will demand that labor accept a 15 per cent wage reduction, carrying the demand if necessary to the national mediation board.

Chief spokesman for railway labor at the conference was George M. Harrison, president of the Railway Labor Executives' association, and management was represented by J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads.

CHICAGO MEETING LIKELY

Presidents of the leading railroads are expected to meet in Chicago next week to consider what can be done about the wages paid their employés, it was disclosed yesterday. Wage increases put into effect last year just before the railroads' revenues started to decline severely added about $135,000,000 to their operating costs and labor leaders have refused so far to accept wage reductions.

Both the full membership of the Association of American Railroads, as represented by the individual railroad presidents, and the board of directors of the association are expected to meet here. The meeting, it was said, will probably be opened on Tuesday morning at the Blackstone hotel.

At the offices of Chicago railroads it was said that no call to a meeting had been received, but one was expected.

With little more than a week before May 1, the best way to make the most of the remaining time is to consult the Tribune apartments-to-rent columns.

The large selection described in the Tribune every day provides a preview of the most attractive apartments now available. The Tribune prints more apartments to rent want advertising than all other Chicago newspapers combined. The Tribune's method of listing apartments—by sections of the city and suburbs, and by numbers of rooms—helps you compare quickly a large number of apartments, so that you can select for inspection only those which seem most suitable.

Save yourself hours of needless walking and stair-climbing by consulting the apartments-to-rent columns in the Tribune.

FEDERAL LOANS LEAD IN BROAD RISE OF BONDS

Some Issues Near 1936 All-Time Peak.

New York, April 21.—(AP)—The bond market developed new strength today under the impetus of heavy demand for United States government issues. As a group, government bonds were at their highest level of the year and some issues were close to the all time peak established late in 1936. Gains generally ranged from ¼ to around ½ of a point. Treasury 3¾s of 1956-'46, the most active issue, were 13-32s higher and the 3⅛s of 1949-'46 rose 17-32.

Institutional inquiry increased sharply as "the street" believed that the treasury would expedite its credit expansion program by using "de-sterilized gold," at least in part, to retire maturing bills, thereby hastening distribution of this gold into bank reserves.

New Issue's Sale Is Aid.

The good reception given the $60,000,000 issue of Consolidated Edison debentures was another heartening factor in the market and helped along the utilities especially.

The market in governments was one of the broadest and most active in months. Volume in governments ran close to $3,000,000, face value, boosting the total turnover to $8,229,375, compared with $5,406,125 yesterday, which was about the average for the last few months.

The stronger undertone spread into all lists, utilities and industrial liens sharing well. The Associated Press average of ten industrials advanced 0.2 to 95.5, and the average of ten utilities advanced the same to 88.4.

Some of Strong Issues.

American and Foreign Power 5s at 47, American Telephone 3¼s of '66 at 101⅝, Bethlehem Steel 3¾s at 94¾, Consolidated Edison 3¼s at 101½, Western Union 5s of '60 at 56¼, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube 4s at 98¾ were all prominent in the advance, closing fractions to a point higher.

Some lower priced rails continued weak, but this group as a whole advanced 0.1 to 51.1 in the average of twenty rail liens.

COTTON

Cotton prices were on the upgrade yesterday as the result of buying attributed to the trade as well as to Liverpool, Japan and Bombay. Closing sales on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net gains of .03 to .05 cent, and other markets advanced .06 to .11 cent a pound. The south and spot interests were the best sellers.

Further unwanted heavy rains fell in parts of the south, increasing apprehension regarding the start of the new cotton crop.

Spot cotton closed .10 cent higher, with New Orleans, 9.15 cents, and New York, 8.95 cents a pound. Galveston and Houston had a holiday. Prices follow:

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Flora of Chicagoland.

The Wild Plum.

April 21, 1938.

WHEN the wild plum trees brought out their fragrant white blossoms this week the woods of the experimental farm in Du Page county showed spring in one of her most beguiling moods. In many parts of the farm woods where saplings and large trees are getting greener as new leaf buds unfold, one can see the splashes of white flowers on the plum trees, whose blossoms stand out in contrast against the browns of tree trunks and the greens of wild cherry trees.

The wild plum, an ornamental as well as useful flowering tree, thus wins the honor of being the first of the small trees to develop its blossoms. A little later on the wild crabs and the haws will add their fragrance and their beauty to the woods.

Carpet of Flowers.

This week the woods are full of dog tooth violets or trout lilies, countless thousands of false and true anemones in flower, and many large patches of spring beauties.

We visited several stands of oak woods to look at the wild flower display this week. Accompanying us on our walk was Dr. George D. Fuller, professor emeritus of ecology of the University of Chicago. After we had walked around for about 40 minutes Dr. Fuller remarked that never in his long experience of visiting wooded areas to study wild flowers had he seen such a show of white dog tooth violets and both the false and true anemones. And, as Dr. Fuller remarked, they are in blossom several weeks earlier than last season, thanks to the balmy early spring weather and abundance of rain.

After hiking through the timber for a couple of hours we sat down on a log near a small creek to jot down our notes on the advance of spring. Among the highlights were the following:

The mandrake plants are now 12 to 14 inches above the ground. The budding oaks have not yet started to open their buds. Trilliums have not opened their flowers. But thousands of these plants are in bud, so it won't be long now. We saw our first brown thrasher of the season.

A Natural Garden.

By far the most beautiful display of wild flowers is in the east woods of the farm. In one place there is about a quarter of an acre of spring beauties and dog tooth violets . . . an impressive natural outdoor flower garden of unusual beauty. And right in the middle of the garden is an island of white blossoms formed by a patch of false and true anemones that is about seven feet in diameter. And every plant has a white flower on it.

The last of the bloodroots still are holding their white flowers above the ground. Wild crab and cherry trees have many leaves on them. The haws are loaded with buds . . . a hint of many flowers that will blossom within a week or so. The shooting stars are way ahead of last year. Both leaves and flower buds are well advanced.

Two Big Recent Failures Stir Investors.

turned down after refusing to sign such an agreement.

Not Member of Exchange.

Members of leading stock exchanges have pointed out that one reason why the condition of Hoagland & Allum was concealed so long was that the firm was not a member of any exchange. Actually, the firm was not engaged in the brokerage business, but was merely a "bucket shop" which traded in securities with customers' money.

The Securities and Exchange commission leaves regulation of exchange members to the exchanges as far as financial solvency is concerned. It requires nonmembers, known as over-the-counter dealers, to register with the SEC. To date the commission has not required such dealers to file financial statements with it, nor does it audit their books.

The SEC has the power, however, to require financial reports from over-the-counter dealers and to check their books, but the job of regulating the 6,500 over-the-counter dealers in the United States has been postponed until the structure for regulation of exchange members is completed.

State Supervision Varies.

The supervision of state security commissions varies in the various states. The Illinois securities act requires all security dealers and brokers to file annual financial statements. The securities department has the power to audit the statements, but such action is not mandatory.

Hoagland & Allum filed a statement with the Illinois commission showing net worth—margin of assets over liabilities—of $40,000. This statement was not audited because, according to John Jarecki, state securities commissioner, no complaints had been received against the firm. After the Hoagland & Allum failure, Jarecki pointed out that his request for a $10,000 appropriation which he had asked for such auditing was refused.

The Investment Bankers' association, an organization to which many of the leading investment bankers belong, has no examining powers over members. Its standards appear to be largely personal. If a member or an employé of a firm applying for membership has been involved in questionable transactions in the past the firm usually is not granted membership.

Lehn & Fink.

Investors' Guide: I understand you supply reports on various corporations. I would appreciate your report on Lehn & Fink Products corporation.—F. H.

Answer: The Lehn & Fink Products corporation manufactures drugs and chemicals, including "Lysol" preparations and "Pebeco" toothpaste.

The company is engaged in a highly competitive field and earnings have been declining rather steadily in recent years. The downward trend continued in the first quarter of this year, when net income receded to $103,891, or 26 cents a common share, from $128,886, or 32 cents a share, in the corresponding 1937 period.

For all of 1937 net income was $523,623, or $1.33 a share, compared with net income of $685,086, or $1.71 a share, in 1936; $411,636, or $1.02 a share, in 1935; $746,732, or $1.87, in 1934; $806,375, or $2.02 a share, in 1933; $1,243,444, or $3.04 a share, in 1932, and $1,720,581, or $4.10 a share, in 1929.

The company has outstanding 400,000 shares of $5 par common stock. Dividends have been paid semi-annually the last few years. A 30 cent payment was made on March 14. In 1937 two payments of 62½ cents each were made.

Allen Industries, Inc.

Investors' Guide: I am considering the purchase of additional stock in Allen Industries, Inc. May I have a copy of your report on this company?—Miss T. G.

Answer: Allen Industries, Inc., is one of the leading producers of cotton batts and pads used for automobile upholstery. It also makes punched pads used as insulating materials by automobile and refrigerator manufacturers.

Sidney J. Allen, president, told stockholders at their annual meeting in March that operations in the first quarter of this year were unprofitable. Earnings in 1937 were reduced by higher manufacturing costs. The record of earnings:

	Sales.	Net income.	Earned per share.
1936	6,056,270	735,705	2.97
1935	4,627,802	538,480	2.61
1934	2,607,045	220,615	2.92
1933	1,890,500	180,745	1.52
1932	1,204,085	37,372	0.02

The company has outstanding 254,400 shares of $1 par capital stock. The old preferred was retired in 1935 and a new issue of preferred has been approved but not yet issued. Common dividends totaled $1 a share in 1937. Directors passed the dividend due for the first quarter of this year.

POSTAL RECEIPTS HIGHER IN APRIL, FARLEY SAYS

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—Postmaster General James A. Farley said tonight that postal receipts thus far in April were up to those for the corresponding period a year ago. Asserting that postal receipts were the best barometer of general business conditions, he described this as a most encouraging sign.

Conceding that business has been "shading off, so to speak," for the last six or eight months, Farley said that the administration first noticed it in the decline in postal receipts of the nation's 45,000 postoffices last August. He said that this decline followed an almost continued rise from late in 1933 or early in 1934.

"We were afraid that March would be the worst month yet," the postmaster general continued. "But the actual figures only show a falling off of 4½ per cent, which was less than we had anticipated. The large cities were worse off than the country as a whole, showing a drop of 10 or 11 per cent from the corresponding month a year ago. New York and Detroit were down sharply."

End Testimony on Fees of Insull Liquidation

Special Referee in Bankruptcy Garfield Charles yesterday concluded the taking of testimony here on applications for fees and expenses filed in connection with the administration of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and Corporation Securities company, bankrupt Insull holding company. The hearings lasted four weeks with more than a score of witnesses appearing and 4,000 written pages of testimony being taken.
